U.S. AND BRITAIN WIN JAPAN TO 3-POWER DEAL

Briand Relents; Will Stay in London.

The Day in London

Yesterday's developments at the naval conference may be summed up as follows:

United States and Britain win Japan to idea of three power naval deal by which Tokio may be allowed a 72 per cent big cruiser ratio.

Foreign Minister Briand of France "relents" on statement he is through and suggests possible hope of agreement.

Italy stresses defense needs, viewing France's refusal to grant parity with alarm.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 13.—This has been a busy day at the naval parley for the new firm of John Bull and Uncle Sam, now doing business as the Anglo-American entente incorporated on the banks of the Rapidan river. They have united in feverish activity to induce Japan to join Great Britain and America in a three power naval limitation treaty in the event a four or five power treaty fails through.

It is understood that a basis of agreement with Japan has virtually been established and an announcement of the agreement between the three leading naval powers is momentarily expected.

Bit of Strategy.

Its purpose is said to be to confront Premier Andre Tardieu of France, upon his arrival, with an understanding between Great Britain, America and Japan which, in the event France refuses to compromise on its tonnage demands, will be translated into a three power or four power treaty if Italy elects to join. The strategy is thus to threaten France with isolation as a penalty for its continued refusal to scale down its navy "requirements" for the next five years.

The first move to bring the negotiations with Japan to a head was made by Prime Minister MacDonald, who had a talk with Reijiro Wakatsuki, head of the Nippon delegation. Shortly afterwards Senator David A. Reed, American specialist on the Japanese situation, called on Tsuneo Matsudaira.

At the conclusions of these sessions the American delegation met and heard Senator Reed's report on the attitude of the Japanese. Thereupon Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson and Senator Reed called on Mr. MacDonald. Tonight neither Mr. Stimson nor Senator Reed would say anything about their day's endeavors. From Japanese sources came the information that an agreement has virtually been reached on the basis of the Reed-Matsudaira conversations.

Wins 72 Per Cent Cruiser Ratio.

While American will be entitled to have eighteen 10,000 ton eight inch gun cruisers, the treaty will provide that not more than fifteen be completed by 1936. As Japan has twelve eight inch gun cruisers aggregating 108,000 tons this restriction on the American building program will give Japan 72 per cent of the big cruiser strength of America and also of Great Britain during the life of the treaty.

Japan came to the conference demanding 70 per cent of the big cruisers and also of the total auxiliary tonnage. The tentative agreement provides further for an approximate parity in submarines. Japan, with 78,000 tons, is to scrap them as they become obsolete and make no replacements. As a result, it will have 52,000 tons in 1936. America, with 81,000 tons, will be down to 72,000 tons in 1936, if craft scrapped for age are not replaced, but will be allowed replacements to aggregate 60,000 tons.

Auxiliary Tonnage Victory.

America will also get 147,000 tons of six inch gun cruisers. Japan will be allowed its present 98,000 tons of small cruisers. America will come down to 150,000 tons of destroyers compared to Japan's 136,000. Japan, therefore, is to be allowed an aggregate tonnage of auxiliary craft that, during the life of the treaty, will be considerably more than 50 per cent of America's auxiliary tonnage.

STILL HANGING ON

GRANDMA TRYING TO SAVE BABY IS KILLED BY TRAIN

Mrs. Agnes Astrauskas, 43 years old, 2214 North 72d avenue, Elmwood Park, was killed last night in an effort, that may have been in vain, to save the life of her 15 month old grandson, Richard Smith. Mrs. Astrauskas was struck by a Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific freight train at 73d and Grand avenues as she struggled desperately to extricate one wheel of the baby's carriage which had become wedged between a plank and a rail on the crossing.

The woman and the baby were carried 200 feet on the pilot of the engine before the train could be stopped. The child suffered cuts and bruises and a possible skull fracture, which may cause his death.

Mrs. Astrauskas was crossing the tracks with her daughter, Mrs. Earl Smith, and was pushing the carriage when the train bore down upon her. Mrs. Smith screamed a warning to her mother and as the latter turned to leave the crossing the wheel of the buggy was caught in the crack. She had time to leap to safety, but was struck while still struggling to free the carriage.

The baby and his mother, who was in a hysterical condition, were taken to the Belmont hospital.

COOKIES APPEAR AS NEWEST LURE IN VOTE APPEAL

Sudden and unusual activity appeared yesterday in the Republican county primary campaign that had been lagging a bit for several weeks. One of the candidates began handing out cookies.

Paul Schulze, baker, is on the Deneen ticket for membership on the county board. As he went from one ward meeting to another last night he was preceded by an automobile full of his sweet products. At each meeting samples of these were distributed just before he entered the hall. The innovation was a pronounced success.

Report Woman Finds Germ Which Causes Paralysis

LONDON, March 13. — (AP) — Miss Kathleen Chevassut, young pupil of Sir James Purves-Stewart, widely known British medical authority, was reported today to have discovered what may prove to be the germ of "disseminated sclerosis." This disease is often responsible for paralysis, and its causes have hitherto been obscure and its treatment unsatisfactory. The discovery was published in the medical journal, the Lancet.

Inquiry Bares Rich Incomes of Politicians

Investigation of the incomes of politicians by agents of the federal department of internal revenue has disclosed that several leaders, one of whom is said to be a member of the state legislature, have enjoyed incomes of more than $100,000 in certain recent years. The information was disclosed yesterday by investigators brought from Washington for the inquiry by Myrtle Tanner Blackledge, collector of internal revenue.

The federal agents are reported to have spent much of their time in investigating contracts let by the sanitary district during the régime of President Timothy J. Crowe. In this connection the receipts of certain members of the legislature who were mentioned during the sanitary district inquiry conducted by Frank J. Loesch a year ago were investigated.

O'Brien Funds Under Scrutiny.

One of the legislators whose funds have been the subject of investigation is said to be State Representative Lawrence C. O'Brien [Dem., 29th], a teaming and trucking contractor. O'Brien is a resident of the 42d ward where, from time to time, he has figured in vote fraud investigations.

Although the records show that O'Brien received at least $51,015 from the sanitary district, he has never filed an income tax return, federal agents said. His reported income over a three year period was in excess of $300,000, according to the investigators, and on this amount he paid no tax, they said. The agents estimated that O'Brien owes income taxes totaling more than $50,000. His salary as a representative in Springfield is $3,500 annually.

Payments Revealed by Loesch.

When the special prosecuting staff of former Assistant State's Attorney Loesch delved into the sanitary district muddle, which as yet has not been brought to trial by State's Attorney Swanson, they found that the Lawrence O'Brien Teaming and Trucking company received $51,015 of the $1,062,438 spent for the north shore channel road—the cinder track. The vouchers in the district records show that O'Brien was paid $22,710 for trucking services in 1927 and $23,305 in 1928.

The money was paid out in sums of $500 or less. In this way no contracts were let and there was no bidding for the job. From the Loesch inquiry it appeared that O'Brien sent in his bills before they reached a total of more than $500 and therefore could be legally paid by voucher.

O'Brien's rubs with law extend back at least as far as 1917 when, at that time also, a legislator, he was indicted in connection with vote frauds in the 18th, 20th, and 21st wards. In 1922 he was sought as the leader of a gang which carried away a ballot box from a Rush street polling place.

LOVE TRIUMPHS; COMPANIONATE COUPLE REUNITED

Leo Dolan, 22 years old, a law student at the University of Chicago, and his companionate wife, Virginia Roth Dolan, 22 years old, also a university student, whose separation led to a $50,000 alienation of affections suit, were reunited yesterday.

"I'll never leave her again," Dolan said last night when he and his wife were found in each others' arms in a $10 a week room at the Waldorf hotel, 6139 Ellis avenue. "I'll stay with her until I die. We're both happy and we're both in love with each other." His wife echoed his sentiments.

The Dolans were married in September, 1928, over the objections of the girl's father, Edgar Roth, 7550 Saginaw avenue, architect for the Baltimore and Ohio railroad. They separated the following February. Dolan filed suit against Roth for alienation of affections, but Superior Judge McKinley directed a not guilty verdict last Friday. Yesterday, at 1 p. m., while Roth was absent from home, Dolan went to the house and took his wife away with him, establishing her in the hotel where they said they intend to live for the present. Dolan said they would both continue their studies. He said he was earning $30 a week as an instructor in a dancing school operated by his mother.

Ernest Miller Jr., 3 months old, was found smothered yesterday in his crib at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Miller, 44 Chicago avenue, Oak Park.

SCIENTISTS SPY PLANET HUNTED FOR 25 YEARS

Astronomers Believe It's Big and Cold.

Flagstaff, Ariz., March 13.—(AP)—In that little cluster of orbs which scampers across the siderial abyss under the name of the solar system there are, be it known, nine instead of a mere eight worlds.

The presence of a ninth marcher in the retinue of the sun, long suspected, was announced definitely here today by Dr. V. M. Slipher of the Lowell observatory, who headed a group of eminent astronomers whose gropings with telescopes and cameras located the new sphere.

Way out beyond Neptune and tagging bashfully behind his brothers, the new planet's exact whereabouts, size, and age are not as yet definitely known and it hasn't even a name. Its presence was predicted mathematically in 1905 by the late Dr. Percival Lowell, who founded the observatory here partly for the very purpose of identifying it.

Delicate Lens Records It.

Today the faith in those calculations was rewarded by an announcement by Dr. Slipher that the new planet had been "sighted" last Jan. 21 by an extremely delicate photographic lens, powerful in a 13 inch telescope. Announcement was withheld, Dr. Slipher said, "until we were absolutely sure."

The discovery revealed that the planet is 45 times as far from the earth as the earth is from the sun. Although its size has not been determined definitely, it is believed it may be bigger than Jupiter, largest member of the solar family, and 1,200 times larger than the earth. The announcement said it is certainly no smaller than the earth.

"The Trans-Neptunian Planet."

Astronomically, the discovery is regarded as the greatest since the location of Neptune, eighth member of the solar system, in 1846. The astronomers who participated with Dr. Slipher in the discovery are C. O. Lampland, E. G. Slipher, J. C. Duncan, K. P. Williams, E. A. Edwards, and T. B. Gill.

Until some one entitled to do so gives the sphere a name, it is to be known as "the trans-Neptunian planet." First notice of the body was made by C. W. Tombaugh, photographer at the observatory, who saw a tiny spot on one of his plates. Astronomers soon declared it to be the long sought planet.

Announcement Made at Harvard.

Cambridge, Mass., March 13.—(AP)—The discovery of the ninth major planet of the solar system by astronomers at the Lowell observatory, Flagstaff, Ariz., was announced today by Prof. Harlow Shapley, director of the Harvard college observatory.

The discovery was made by means of photographs through a new 13 inch "triplet," the most powerful telescope of its class.

The results of the search were reported here as follows:

"Systematic research begun years ago, supplementing Lowell's investigation for a trans-Neptunian planet, has revealed an object which for seven weeks has in rate of motion and path consistently conformed to trans-Neptunian body at the approximate distance he assigned. Fifteenth magnitude. Position March 12, at three hours Greenwich mean time, was seven seconds of time west from Delta Geminorum., agreeing with Lowell's predicted longitude."

Distant, Dim, and Cold.

The distance of the new planet has not been computed definitely, nor has its orbit been calculated. It can be seen only with the most powerful telescopes now in existence. Its distance from the sun is so great that the light and heat it receives is very small.

Neptune, the next nearest planet, receives only 1:900th as much light and heat as the earth; and the sun's light at this farthest planet can hardly exceed that of moonlight.

Its temperature also must be very low, lower probably than that of Neptune, where nitrogen would be solid and oxygen, if not a solid, at least a dense cloud.

Third Modern Discovery.

New York, March 13.—(AP)—Discovery of the unnamed planet far out beyond the hitherto known boundary of the solar system is the third major planet found by man in the last three centuries of star study.

The ancients knew all except the Bomb Village President a Second Time

For the second time in two months the home of William Evans, president of the village of Broadview, at 17th avenue and Roosevelt road, was bombed early this morning. The bomb, placed at the head of the steps leading to the front porch of the two story frame house, wrecked the porch and smashed every window in the dwelling, with damage estimated at $1,000.

Evans and his wife were in bed at the time, but were not injured.

Sees Two Men Fleeing.

A brakeman on an Illinois Central freight train which was being switched on a track nearby said he saw two men run from the house an instant before the explosion. One of the men, he told the police, ran north and the other south and they disappeared in fields nearby.

County Highway Policemen Russell Dvorak and Louis Nelson of the Willow Springs station were at 19th avenue and 22d street when the bomb exploded. They arrived at the scene within two minutes after the blast, but found no trace of the two men.

Like the first bombing of Evans' home, the second blast occurred on the night of the 13th of the month, the first bomb having been placed on the night of Jan. 13.

Evans Says He's Mystified.

Evans said he had received no warning before either of the two attacks and said he knew no reason for them. He has been president of the village for eight years and said he had never had any trouble prior to the first bombing. In the first instance Chief of Police Andrew Borg had expressed the opinion that the bomb may have been placed at the wrong house, but the recurrence of the attack disproved that theory.

Lieut. Carl Wolff of the county highway police, who took charge of the investigation this morning, saw in the two bombings a possible connection with the death of James Grant, for twelve years the village clerk of Broadview, because of the coincidence in the dates of the three events.

Grant's body was found on Feb. 13 in the smoldering ruins of a deserted farmhouse near Broadview. Grant was a member of the same political faction as Evans.

FIRE SHOTS INTO HOME OF UNION HEAD FROM AUTO

The home of Joseph Etkin, business agent of the chicken killers' union, at 1453 South Kominsky avenue, was attacked last night by gunmen who fired four shots through a front window as they drove past the building in an automobile. Etkin's wife, Lena, was standing at the window at the time, and the bullets shattered a pane directly over her head.

Etkin, who was not at home, later attributed the shooting to disgruntled former officials of the union. He said that a hoodlum had given him a check for $3,000 a few days ago with the declaration that the check had been given to him by Isaac Levine, a former union official, to kill Etkin. Levine, a former president of the union, was the state's star witness against Etkin, when the latter was tried on a charge of arson several months ago. While Etkin was awaiting trial, Levine was stabbed in the thigh by an unidentified assailant.

Only Four Robberies in Day; Police Arrest 545

Only four robberies were reported in Chicago yesterday while the police continued their campaign against crime by arresting 545 persons during the 24 hours ended at midnight. Of this number 44 had been arrested before. Three of the prisoners were armed with pistols when arrested.

Stagg Defends Law, Flays 'Idle Rich.'

Washington, D. C., March 13. — Charges of "unfair tactics" and "insulting insinuations," angrily flung back and forth between members of the committee, brought to an abrupt end today's hearing by the house judiciary committee on the prohibition question.

The meeting was adjourned suddenly by Chairman George S. Graham [Rep., Pa.] to allow the committeemen to cool off, after several dry representatives had attacked Representative Emanuel Celler [Dem., N. Y.], a wet, for objecting to the "coaching" of dry witnesses by their leaders.

Chicago U. Is Declared Dry.

Earlier in the day A. A. Stagg, football coach and director at the University of Chicago, had testified before the committee that the use of liquor is not a problem at Chicago and that "only a very small percentage of the students drink at all."

The gray haired veteran of Big Ten conference sports came to Washington as one of the star witnesses for the drys, who have had the floor during the hearings for the last four days.

Only four other witnesses were produced by the drys today due to the large amount of time consumed by cross-examination and battling between committee members. As a result, Chairman Graham announced that the drys will have an extra half day tomorrow morning, although no Friday meetings have been held previously.

Coaching of Witnesses Charged.

The final flareup just before adjournment today, the most serious that has disrupted the committee at any time during the hearings, was precipitated when Representative Celler attempted to quiz Mrs. Henry W. Peabody, leader of a group of women witnesses who testified yesterday.

The record, Celler said, showed numerous instances where Mrs. Peabody "coached" her witnesses, telling them what to say in reply to questions.

"That is an opprobrious epithet to which I object," shouted Representative W. C. Hammer [Dem., N. C.]. Representative J. W. Summers [Rep., Wash.], another dry, declared he had been a member of the house 18 years and "never heard an American citizen so insulted as Mr. Celler is insulting this woman."

Chairman Walks Out.

Several others were clamoring to be heard and the audience, packed with dry sympathizers, mostly women, was in a turmoil of confusion when the chairman hammered for order. Failing to secure it and unable to quell the disturbance, he stood up and walked from the table.

"Come back tomorrow after you cool off," he said, as he departed. With that the meeting broke up.

Today's witnesses, aside from Coach Stagg, were Carleton M. Sherwood, executive secretary of the committee of one thousand for law observance; John A. McSparran, former master of the Pensylvania grange; Arthur H. Hood, speaking for the Federation of Men's Bible Classes of Philadelphia, and Charles M. Hay of St. Louis, Democratic nominee for United States senator in 1928.

Fisher Statement Rejected.

The Rev. E. C. Dinwiddie, manager of the dry testimony, also attempted to read into the record a statement from Prof. Irving Fisher, Yale economist and dry writer. The chairman refused to admit it, however, insisting that an attempt be made to have Prof. Fisher appear in person.

Coach Stagg, the second witness at the morning hearing, reviewed at length the story of his childhood when "carrying pails of beer from the saloon was a routine chore" for children and "beer drunken men were a common sight." He contrasted this with conditions today.

Last Saturday, he said, he attended a meeting of athletic directors of the Western conference at Minneapolis, where it was agreed unanimously that his belief that there is little drinking at the University of Chicago applies also to the other institutions. Mr. Stagg admitted, however, that there is some drinking and, by the privileged classes, a great deal.

"As I see it," he asserted, "the prohibition law is not observed, first, by 'the idle rich'; second, by the 'ne'er do wells,' as Westbrook Pegler calls them; third, by the class who demand special privileges for themselves; and fourth, by the followtails—that is, the weak ones who just go along.

"Awhile ago I was invited to a reception to a football coach. I accepted particularly because I wished to do honor to him, but the host was an old friend also. High officials of the city attended and there were several distinguished guests. Various kinds of liquor were passed around. There may have been others, but as far as I observed during my brief stay the two football coaches were the only ones who did not imbibe. Of course, nobody got drunk.

"It was a select group. The host and hostess represent the special privileged class. To that class nothing is wrong and that class freely absolves itself from wrongdoing. It is not the fault of prohibition that the special privileged class exists.

Wins La Guardia's Praise.

"I can state with absolute confidence that drinking is not a problem at the University of Chicago, that only a very small percentage of the students drink at all. There always will be some men who are jackasses enough to take chances of ruining their health and their future success in life by drinking."

As Coach Stagg completed his statement, applause burst from both the wet and dry sections of the audience, Representative La Guardia, one of the wettest of the wet committeemen, exclaimed:

"I will say, Mr. Stagg, that was the most sincere and intelligent statement I have ever heard made on your side of the case."

La Guardia added that he was content to accept the statement at its face value and declined to cross-examine the witness.

Two or three other members of the committee, however, questioned him briefly. Representative C. A. Christopherson [Rep., S. D.], a dry, asked him his attitude toward drinking by athletes.

"Personally, I would cut off their heads if they indulged in liquor," he replied quickly.

Sherwood Criticized Vigorously.

Whereas, Mr. Stagg, after presenting his table, was excused from further cross examination, the witness preceding him, Mr. Sherwood, ran into a veritable hail of criticism which lasted nearly an hour. Sherwood read numerous telegrams from business men attacking the testimony of Col. Grayson M. P. Murphy, a wet witness, that most business men of his acquaintance drink.

"The wets have become the fanatics," he declared. "It is quite evident from the character of a large part of the wet testimony that many of the leading opponents of prohibition will go to any extreme of wild misstatement in an endeavor to make their case. Slander and malicious libel have become a part of their stock in trade."

This aroused the ire of La Guardia, who demanded the names of the directors of Sherwood's organization. He read them. They included Robert Dollar, shipping magnate; William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor; J. C. Penney, chain store owner, and several dry congressmen.

Retreats Under Wets' Attack.

"Do you know that many of your directors are actively for modification of the prohibition law?" La Guardia asked.

The witness replied that he did not think so.

"Do you know that Robert Dollar has a bar on his ships on which he sells liquor?" La Guardia demanded. "And does your association agree with its director, Green, that the manufacture of beer should be allowed?"

"And," interjected Representative Celler, "can you tell us the opinion of Dr. Wise upon modification?" adding, "Do you know if Mr. Penney sells whisky flasks in his notion stores?"

All of these questions came like machine gun fire and Sherwood retreated behind a series of demurrers

72% OPPOSE DRY LAW IN RETURNS OF DIGEST POLL

Seventy-two persons out of every 100 who voted in the first returns from the postal referendum of the Literary Digest are opposed to the present prohibition system. Twenty million ballots are being sent out, according to the Digest.

Finally he was forced to admit that his organization stood primarily for enforcement of the prohibition law because it is a law, but does not necessarily oppose its modification.

Asserts Prohibition Beneficial.

Mr. McSparran, testifying as a representative of the farmers, declared that most of the wet "propaganda" came from the big cities and that the rural districts are satisfied that the 18th amendment is "tremendously beneficial."

Mr. Hood likewise maintained that prohibition has been a boon to everybody and said he voiced the sentiment of 10,000 churchgoers of Philadelphia in urging its retention.

The last witness of the day, Mr. Hay of St. Louis, argued the question from the political standpoint, admitting that prohibition has brought some corruption in public office, but that "whereas the bootleggers buy officials, the old saloon interests didn't have to buy them—they owned them."

Admits St. Louis Is Wet.

St. Louis, his home city, is wet, Mr. Hay said, but it is not nearly so wet as it was before prohibition.

Representative La Guardia asked the witness a series of questions regarding his defense in court of the brother of a former Missouri Anti-Saloon league official, Gus O. Nations, charging that the defendant was convicted of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law. He asked Hay if he approved of the conduct of his client.

"You are a lawyer, Mr. Congressman," Hay retorted. "I am surprised that you should ask such a question."

"Never in my life have I defended a bootlegger!" La Guardia shot back, to which Hay replied that neither had he, with the one exception, and that he did so then only because he was a friend of the defendant's brother.

Mr. Hay's testimony brought on a long siege of technical legal discussion.

Throughout the day Dr. F. Scott McBride, national superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, occupied a front seat alongside of a half dozen other well known leaders of the organized drys. As at previous hearings, the committee room was filled.

STUDENTS REPLY TO STAGG WITH HIP FLASK FACTS

U. of C. Professors Think Tippling Has Dropped.

Varying comment was evoked from faculty members and students at the University of Chicago last night regarding Amos Alonzo Stagg's statement that there is no prohibition problem at the university and that student drinkers were an inconsequential minority.

In testimony before the house judiciary committee in Washington yesterday, Mr. Stagg, who is director of athletics at the university, dismissed campus conditions in one sentence. He said: "I can state with absolute confidence that it [liquor] is not a problem at the university and that only a very small percentage of the students drink at all."

He's Wrong, Student View.

The consensus of the students, some of whom were outspoken, seemed to be that Stagg was wrong. Faculty members, on the other hand, expressed either cautious agreement with their colleague or pleaded ignorance of student life.

Comments of student leaders follow:

Miss Marjorie Cahill, women's editor of the Daily Maroon—Prohibition certainly is a problem at the university. Almost all the fraternity men drink. Stagg apparently doesn't know a thing about any one on the campus excepting his own boys.

John Bobbitt, editor of La Critique—Stagg is all wet. Drinking here is not as bad as at eastern colleges, but it's still considerable. Only a week ago a fellow passed out at a prominent fraternity dance and several other men were just as badly crocked but held their liquor better. Most of the fellows had their hip flasks along.

Edwin Levin, editor in chief of the Maroon—I do not agree with "the Old Man." It is a general rule for various groups on the campus to drink over the week-end. Only today a fellow from the University of Kentucky was telling me he found it more restful here. It seemed that down at Kentucky the boys were out on benders every night, while here they restricted themselves to Saturday nights.

Edgar Greenwald, assistant editor of the Maroon—Nearly everybody at the university takes a drink now and then. All the best joints seem to have closed up lately, however. The expulsion of some of the heavy drinkers last year served as a warning for many, but there are still certain groups which go in for steady tippling.

Dexter Masters, editor of the Phenix—Stagg says a very small percentage drink? I say about 40 per cent of the men and a slightly lower percentage of the women use liquor. It may be that the students do not consider it a problem, but I am certain the administration does. Look at the frequent faculty broadsides against student drinking.

Among faculty members Dean C. H. Boucher of the undergraduate schools was the only one who commented at length.

"Any one who says there is no drinking among the students is making an absurd statement," he said. "But I believe there is less of it than there has been. I know of only one case in recent months of a student being guilty of disorderly conduct because of intoxication. Broadly speaking, Stagg is right."

Prof. Lennox B. Grey, head of the English department, said: "I can't speak with authority since I am not close to student activities. It is probable that the undergraduates in their campus comment may have exaggerated their own proclivities."

"I don't know a thing about it," was the comment of Prof. Ellsworth Faris, head of the sociology department.

"Stagg is right," said Prof. Philip Allen. "There's a lot of student talk about liquor, but no drinking."

REJECT COUNCIL ORDER TO ALLOW NEWSPAPER POLICE CRIME 'TICKER'

The police teletype machines, over which orders and information are sent to the districts from the office of Commissioner of Police Russell and from the detective bureau, can be installed only in police stations, according to the opinions of city attorneys and police officials.

The opinions were given yesterday in answer to an order issued at Wednesday's council session, directing Commissioner Russell to issue a permit for the installation of a teletype machine in the offices of the Denni Hlasatel, a Bohemian daily newspaper at 1545 West 18th street. The order was sent in to the council by Ald. John Toman [23d].

"I have no intention of complying with the order," said Commissioner Russell. "It would expose the secret information of the police department and if not ruin our efforts it would put a serious handicap on police work."

Acting Corporation Counsel Breen said the installation of the machine in the newspaper office would be contrary to the policy of the police department.

CANADIAN HOUSE VOTES TODAY ON U. S. LIQUOR BILL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., March 13.—Opponents of Premier MacKenzie King's bill to prohibit the export of liquor from Canada to the United States have completely abandoned their efforts to block its passage through the commons. When the measure is introduced for second reading tomorrow it is understood it will have practically plain sailing.

The opposition is concentrating against its passage in the senate. The Liberal government party has a minority of two on senate divisions, but there are five senate vacancies, which could be filled with Liberal voters before division on the liquor export bill takes place.

Senate division, however, will not entirely follow party lines. Sir George Foster, prominent Conservative, will vote with the Liberals. On the eve of the debate the Conservative opposition party in the commons says its only criticism of the government's move to prohibit liquor exports to the United States is that it is four years late in doing it.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

Walsh Signs Order and Ends Long Fight.

Michael F. Walsh, director of the state department of education and registration, yesterday signed an order revoking the license of Henry J. Schireson to practice medicine and stripping him of the title of doctor. The order was the culmination of charges brought against Schireson following the operation which resulted in the amputation of both legs of Miss Sayde Holland, 4910 Winthrop avenue. Schireson has referred to himself as the greatest of plastic surgeons.

HARRY A. ASH.

Schireson was prosecuted by First Assistant Attorney General Harry A. Ash on charges of malpractice in the Holland case, and charges that Schireson at the time of obtaining his license was not of good moral character, and that his license was procured by fraud. Attorney General Oscar E. Carlstrom, who directed Mr. Ash to file the charges, said he was moved by numerous complaints that Schireson was a quack.

How Charges Originated.

The plight of Miss Holland, who, according to the testimony, consulted Schireson to have a scar removed from one arm and was induced by him to submit to an operation to straighten her legs, caused the attorney general to order Mr. Ash to launch an inquiry, he said. The preliminary investigation convinced him, Mr. Ash said, that Schireson had seven years of immunity under the Small administrations, due to his relations with W. H. H. Miller, former director, who was twice convicted of fraud in connection with physicians' licenses, and the political affiliation of his former attorney, the late P. H. O'Donnell, who was allied with Small.

The hearing before the state medical committee, which consists of Dr. M. L. Harris, president of the American Medical association; Dr. John R. Neal, Dr. Arthur H. Geiger, Dr. W. H. Gilmore and Dr. Gilbert Fitz Patrick, was fiercely contested and was marked by the dramatic appearance of Miss Holland as a witness in a wheel chair.

Girl Admits Settlement.

Miss Holland testified to the facts of the treatment which necessitated the amputation of both her legs in order to save her life. She admitted she had compromised a suit against Schireson for $40,000, part of which was paid to her by Schireson and the rest of which was to be made in monthly payments. She admitted she had agreed, in accepting the $40,000 as a settlement, not to appear against Schireson in any legal proceedings that might follow.

Mr. Ash pointed out yesterday that she was unable to keep that agreement because a Circuit court order compelled her to testify in the proceedings to revoke Schireson's license.

In sustaining the charge that Schireson was not of good moral character, the committee found Schireson had been the owner of a quack institute and had twice served prison terms for quackery.

The committee found that Miss Holland did not have bow legs and that the pretended operation would have been of no benefit to her.

Director Walsh yesterday approved these findings in signing the order barring Schireson from further practice in Illinois. Attorney General Carlstrom said the ban would be effective immediately upon notice of it being served on Schireson and throughout any appeal to the courts.

Altmeier, State's Attorney Sleuth, Taken to Hospital

Joseph Altmeier, undercover investigator for State's Attorney Swanson, was taken to the Columbus hospital yesterday in a serious condition from blood poisoning. The infection developed in his left arm from a small cut on his hand, which he suffered last week during a raid on a so-called bomb farm near Melrose Park. He became ill at work yesterday morning and was taken to his home by Chief Investigator Pat Roche. Later in the day his arm began to swell and he was hurried to the hospital.

Charges Cruelty

Mrs. Mildred Tyrack, 5817 School street, yesterday filed a suit for divorce in the Circuit court against her husband, Henry Tyrack, an automobile salesman. Mrs. Tyrack asks for alimony and the custody of their son, Donald, 10 months old.

"NO MAN'S LAND" IS JUST THAT TO VILLAGE POLICE

Residents of the triangular patch of property between Wilmette and Kenilworth known as "No Man's Land" discovered yesterday that, as far as the police of the two suburbs are concerned, it is no man's land.

When two men and two girls apparently under the influence of intoxicants invaded the corridor of the Spanish Court apartment at 946 Spanish court in the early hours of the morning the tenant called the Kenilworth police station. The desk sergeant said he was sorry, but there was nothing he could do about it, since the building is just outside the village limits.

The squeals of the girls as they slid up and down the hall aroused more tenants and the Wilmette police station was notified. Like the Kenilworth police, the Wilmette police regretted their inability to interfere. Then the tenants called William Buzan, the janitor, and he, with his brother, Fred, tried to persuade the revelers to leave.

In reply one of the men pulled a gun and, displaying a star of the forest preserve police, threatened to shoot the Buzan brothers. Fred, however, seized one of the girls and, thrusting her in front of him as a shield, convinced the gunman that it would be inadvisable to shoot. The men and the girls left the building before the county highway police arrived.

Gets $275 for Rail Wreck Injury; Seeks More; Jailed

Joseph Milas, 3215 North Francisco avenue, who collected $275 from the Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee railroad last week for personal injuries allegedly incurred in a recent wreck at Kenosha, returned to the railroad offices yesterday seeking an additional $500 he claimed to have lost in the wreck, and was arrested. North Shore claim agents said that in the last two years Milas had collected on injuries claims against the Yellow and Checker cab companies and the Rock Island lines. Judge Immenhausen, before whom he was arraigned on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, continued the case to March 25.

WEALTHY REALTY MAN IS MISSING; SEARCH STARTED

R. J. Gunning, 73 years old, 1356 East 64th street, a wealthy real estate dealer, was being sought last night by the police after he had been reported as missing by his sister, Miss Marcella Gunning. Gunning left his office at 421 Plymouth court at noon and later was seen at the 63d street station of the Illinois Central railroad and at a drug store near his home.

Gunning disappeared for two days several months ago and was found by the South Chicago police in a moving picture theater when the manager called them to eject him. Gunning had refused to leave the theater, claiming that he had not seen the entire picture and insisting that the manager run the film through again. The real estate dealer has a white beard and wears glasses. When last seen he was wearing a dark hat, a light topcoat, and carried a cane.

Find Chicago Woman's Bracelet, Lost 13 Years

Gettysburg, Pa., March 13.—(AP)—A diamond bracelet, valued at $3,000, lost nearly thirteen years ago, was found today in Swift Run, near here, by workmen widening a bridge.

The bracelet was owned by Mrs. Morrison S. Rosenfield, wife of a Chicago physician. In the summer of 1917, she and her two daughters were touring the east. At the bridge over Swift Run, their automobile was hit by a truck and Mrs. Rosenfield and her daughters were thrown from the car. The bracelet was torn from Mrs. Rosenfield's arm, and rolled into the water.

HAFFA DEPARTS FOR PRISON IN A JOVIAL MOOD

Bound for 2 Year Term After Rum Conviction.

Still exuberant in the rôle of a "good fellow," for which he blames his troubles with the dry laws, Titus Haffa, former alderman of the 43d ward, departed at 6 p. m. yesterday for the federal prison at Leavenworth. His penitentiary sentence is two years.

A jovial, rotund figure in a new tan topcoat and wearing a bright green necktie, Haffa submitted himself to photographers and greeted his eleven fellow passengers to prison with his old aldermanic smile.

"I am resigned to my fate," Haffa said. "I was a victim of circumstances. I got in bad because I was too much of a good fellow. But I'm going through with it and I will work at anything they want me to do. I want to get it over with as soon as possible."

Counterfeiter for Company.

Haffa, according to his friends, has exhausted his considerable fortune in efforts to escape going to prison, but this did not appear to worry him. "We won't need any money," he remarked to the other prisoners, "there is a counterfeiter with us." He referred to Joseph Y. Miller, who was sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary for possession of counterfeit government obligations.

Haffa was noncommittal on the subject of his future plans. He intimated that he felt an announcement of his intention to run again for alderman might have something to do with his hopes of getting a parole at the end of eight months, when he will be eligible.

Only when asked directly how he regarded his prison term did Haffa lose his bland manner. The broad smile disappeared and he gazed out the train window. "Well, I'll be seeing you in a year maybe," he said.

Loses Year's Appeal Fight.

Haffa was sentenced in federal court on Jan. 28, 1929, after his conviction of conspiracy in connection with the setting up and operation of a number of stills on the near north side. In addition to the two year prison term he was fined $11,000.

Four others convicted with the former alderman have served their terms and are free, but Haffa appealed to the Circuit Court of Appeals and then to the United States Supreme court, which refused to review his case.

In the prison bound party with Haffa, which left over the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad, in the custody of Deputy United States Marshal Joseph Spizzirri, were eight persons convicted of violating the narcotic laws. Besides Miller there were two others in the party. They are William Kempf, sentenced to two years for embezzlement, and Joseph Drezich, sentenced to five years for using the mails to defraud.

ARMY OFFICERS MUST LEARN TO SHOE HORSES

Washington, D. C., March 13.—(AP)—The war department, with a former cowboy at its head, today came to the defense of horses with an order that all army officers would have to learn how to shoe the animals.

Secretary Hurley defined the instruction to be of "sufficient character to insure proper shoeing under all circumstances." Even infantry officers must know enough on the subject to be able to tell when a horseshoe fits.

Son of Evanston Rector Seized on Speeding Charge

FRANCE TALKS OF SHIP CANAL TO END FLOOD PERIL

PARIS, March 13.—New inundations in southwestern France have revived the once much talked of project of a ship canal from the Mediterranean to the Atlantic, which, it is believed, would not only change the economic map of this part of Europe but do away with the flood menace.

Snowstorms in the mountains and heavy rainfall in the valeys during the last couple of days have sent the rivers on the slopes of the Pyrenees out of their beds. Salies-de-Bearn is under four feet of water. Auch is menaced by the ravaging waters of the Gers and Houlouse by the Garrone river, which is again rising alarmingly.

Maps in the French press showing the regions that were devastated by the flood waters reveal that they coincide with the projected canal, which would run from Narbonne, on the Mediterranean, to Bordeaux to meet the Gironde river, which is navigable. The canal would be about 280 miles long and 140 feet wide and in most part would follow river beds.

TRUSTY ATTACKS GUARDS; SLAYS 1 AND KILLS SELF

Young Lifer Fights Alone for Freedom.

Trenton, N. J., March 13.—[Special.]—Charles Evans, 29, a trusty at the state prison here, staged a lone and desperate battle for his freedom tonight. After an hour of furious gunplay with half a dozen guards he was dead by his own hand—a suicide with his last bullet.

The battle also cost one other life—that of Frank Butcher, a guard. Two other guards were taken to St. Francis hospital, injured, Ernest Gordon with a bullet wound in the shoulder and Thomas F. Soren with a possible fractured skull as the result of a blow struck with an improvised blackjack.

Sent to Prison When 18.

Evans, who went to prison for life in 1919, when he was 18 years old, for shooting two policemen in Jersey City, had been a trusty at the prison for several years, assigned to clerical work.

He was not locked up but was standing outside a cell when Soren made his rounds just before the supper hour.

As Soren passed, Evans struck him on the head with a piece of pipe and seized his gun.

Four tiers below, on the ground floor, stood T. P. Lydon, another guard. He heard Soren's cry and ran to his assistance.

He saw Evans, glaring down at him from above, armed with Soren's gun

Convict Obtains a Second Gun.

"Get down and stay down," Evans shouted.

As Lydon beat a hasty retreat, Butcher and Gordon reached the fourth tier by another route. Evans shot Butcher and took his weapon also.

Meanwhile Soren revived, ran to another guard named Callan, got Callan's gun and returned to the fray.

Evans, a gun in each hand, came charging down the stairs to the ground floor, and Soren, Callan, Gordon, and Lydon, all back on the lower level, too, hid behind lockers. Evans ran into an open cell on the first tier and from there engaged in a gun battle with the guards.

As the keepers, hidden behind lockers 30 feet from the besieged prisoner, kept him under steady fire, other guards approached with shotguns and tear gas bombs. When they heard no further shots from Evans they approached his lair. He lay on the floor, shot through the head, dead.

Threat to Witness Nets Him 48 Hours in Jail

John Horvatin, 1946 Dayton street, was sentenced to 48 hours in the county jail for contempt of court by Superior Judge Michael L. McKinley yesterday after he had threatened Charles Tangler, a witness in a suit brought by Horvatin's wife against the Checker Taxi company for injuries received in an accident on Dec. 26, 1927. Tangler told Judge McKinley that Horvatin stopped him in a hall of the county building and said, "I'll see you later about this."

GRANDDAUGHTER OF BISMARCK REACHES CHICAGO FOR VISIT

In the late '90s a girl scarcely 4 years old recited an old French poem for the grandfather. She was so eager to get through with her duty to receive from the aged man a small plaything that she took little note of her illustrious grandsire — Prince Otto Eduard Leopold von Bismarck, the "iron chancellor" of Germany.

The little girl, now a mother of seven children, reached Chicago yesterday on her first visit. Hannah von Bredow found, even in a strange land, tribute paid to her grandfather in the name of the Bismarck hotel where she is stopping with her husband, Leopold, a former honorary attaché at the German embassy in Washington.

"Other than the time I visited him, I scarcely remember my grandfather," Frau von Bredow said. "What I remember is so hazy, just a glimpse here and there." But she prizes the memory of Bismarck.

Frau von Bredow's seven children, whose ages run from 13 down to 1 year, were left in Switzerland.

ASKS INVESTIGATION OF FIRE.

Chief Thomas F. Maher of the 28th battalion of the fire department yesterday asked Fire Attorney Scott M. Hogan to investigate a fire which broke out in the apartment of B. Nicrovici, 3936 West 16th street, causing damage of $1,500.

REPORT LAWYERS PREPARING FOR FIELDS' DIVORCE

Reno Attorney on Way to New York Conference.

Further indications that Marshall Field III., grandson of the late Marshall Field, pioneer Chicago merchant, and his wife, the former Evelyn Marshall, are preparing to obtain a divorce were contained in dispatches from New York and Reno, Nev., yesterday. The dispatches said that attorneys are preparing to conclude terms of a settlement before Mrs. Field brings suit in Nevada, where she has already leased a residence.

Attorney George B. Thatcher of the Reno law firm of Thatcher and Woodburn is to arrive in New York today to confer with John R. Jackson, representing Mr. Field. This information was disclosed by employés of Mrs. Field's New York attorney, James T. Truesdale. Attorney Jackson refused to discuss Thatcher's mission other than to say that he was coming on a highly confidential matter.

The divorce has been expected in social circles since June, 1928, when it was reported that Mrs. Field had returned to her mother's home in London. Rumors that a divorce was then impending were denied. Similar rumors were circulated several times since then and were promptly denied.

Last January it was learned that the Fields were living apart. An inquiry at the home of Mrs. Field at 4 East 70th street, New York City, brought the reply that "Mr. Field does not live here any more." The Field estate at Lloyd's Neck, L. I., is in the hands of winter caretakers.

On March 3 it was revealed that Mrs. Field had leased the Stack home at Calneva on Lake Tahoe, Nev. She is expected to arrive there from Porto Rico on May 1 for the purpose of establishing residence.

Negotiations for the residence were made quietly and it was reported that Mrs. Field planned to go to Reno under an assumed name to avoid publicity.

Mr. Field is said to be in Europe. Nothing is known of his plans to return.

The Fields were married on Feb. 6, 1915. The marriage was a social event. Mrs. Field is the daughter of the late Charles H. Marshall of New York.

Hunt Bandit Who Slugged Coach Cashier with Gaspipe

Police last night were hunting a young bandit who slugged George A. Lambert, cashier for the Chicago Motor Coach company, in the company's offices at 4711 Ravenswood avenue in an effort to seize $900 Lambert had just drawn from a bank. Lambert grappled with the man, who drew a piece of gas pipe from beneath his overcoat and struck Lambert on the head. He may have a skull fracture, physicians at Ravenswood hospital said.

COUNCIL GROUP DEBATES BANKER TRANSIT PLANS

The council subcommittee on local transportation—Ald. McDonough, J. B. Bowler, Nelson and Arvey—discussed for two hours yesterday the suggestions of the bankers' committee on a new franchise, without deciding upon their attitude.

The bankers are Frank O. Wetmore, Arthur Reynolds, and Harry L. Stuart. They suggested that the new franchise relieve the new company of the cost of paving, cleaning and sprinkling of streets. They suggested compensation at three per cent of the gross receipts, a fund for renewals and depreciation, the construction of subways by the city, an indeterminate franchise, and a fair and reasonable return on the investment.

The aldermen decided to make no reply to the bankers until they are heard orally Saturday.

SCHOOL BOARD'S WASTE BARED BY ITS OWN ADVISERS

Too Much for Operating; Teaching Slighted.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Evidence was forthcoming yesterday from public accountants employed by Mayor Thompson's school board to the effect that the board's policies have resulted in cheating the children in the amount of money spent on instruction and in wasting cash in the cleaning, heating and lighting of the schoolhouses. The new testimony came from McCoy, Snyder & Holland, certified public accountants.

After setting forth the daily average school attendance in New York and Chicago, this firm says in a report drawn up for the Chicago school board on Nov. 8 last, and revealed yesterday:

"There would seem to be a proper, not to say basic, relation between daily attendance and school needs and expense. If it may be assumed that the city of New York receives no more revenue than is required for its school needs and costs, considering the system in its entirety, then the conclusion is warranted that the school system of the city of Chicago requires annually in revenue 47 per cent of the revenue received by the school system of New York."

Less Money for Teaching.

Taking that basis of recokning, which the school board paid money to obtain, Chicago denied $12,822,151 for school instruction in the school year of 1928-29. In that year New York, with an average attendance of 963,963, according to McCoy, Snyder & Holland, spent $110,081,512 for instruction. Chicago's 47 per cent—based on its 428,462 average attendance—would amount to $51,738,310. But Chicago spent only $38,916,159.

If this year's appropriation of $41,961,842 is considered as indicating the present intentions of the school board, the board still denies the teachers $9,776,468, as compared to New York.

The National Education association says that Chicago is behind New York to the amount of $12,855,000 in teaching outlay, based on the average attendance of 1928-29.

Applying the McCoy, Snyder & Holland formula to the costs of operating the school plant, Chicago is shown to have wasted $3,334,827 in the last school year when compared to New York. For operation of its plant New York spent $8,359,185. Taking the 47 per cent basis for Chicago's expenditure in operating its plant, it is shown that Chicago should have spent $3,928,816; but in reality it spent $7,263,643.

The National Education association's figures indicate that Chicago spent $3,715,000 more than it should on plant operation in comparison with New York, and $3,972,000 more than was necessary if one takes as a basis the expenditures for the same purposes in Philadelphia.

President H. Wallace Caldwell and his colleagues on the board of education know this situation. They get copies of the bulletins of the National Education association. The McCoy, Snyder & Holland report is a part of their official records. In addition, they have in their official proceedings the report of a committee of building operator, which was asked to report on this subject. That committee comprises R. W. Bainbridge, J. F. Collins, Frank Erlenborn, and F. B. Orr. It indicated a waste of 26 per cent in school plant operation, which is about half of what the other two witnesses estimated.

But, at 26 per cent, the wast of $1,425,000 is the equivalent of 723 jobs at an average salary of $2,008 a year. If the National Education and the McCoy, Snyder & Holland estimates are correct, the waste is more than twice as much. Yet the board in its appropriations for 1930 proposes to spend as much for plant operation as in the last school year.

Board Sends Out Checks.

The school board began yesterday to send out checks to teachers, principals, and other employés. This pay day, the second of the year for the schools, was made possible with money raised from taxpayers by the Taxpayers' trust, headed by Philip R. Clarke, and doled out by the Strawn citizens' committee.

President Caldwell spent two weeks in New York trying to sell tax anticipation warrants, but failed. Caldwell claims that he found four willing buyers in New York, but they insisted on the approval of two Chicago banks. Caldwell has not told the public yet whether he has attempted to get the approval of the bankers. He has not revealed the names of the four prospective New York buyers nor of the two Chicago banks, but eleven members of the council finance committee have decided to interrogate the Strawn citizens' committee on the attitude of the Chicago bankers relative to Caldwell's claims on the finding of buyers in New York. The committeemen are Aldermen Nelson, Moran, Govier, J. B. Bowler, Hoellen, Anderson, Cronson, Byrne, D. A. Horan, Smith, and Self.

Pay Day for City Workers.

The pay day of the city employés also came from the rescue fund. Some of the employés were paid yesterday and more will be paid today and tomorrow. The checks cover salary for only two weeks. It is planned to pay on the regular pay days after Saturday, although the city council has not given authority to proceed farther than the money in hand will go. The money at present at the disposal of the city will only take care of salaries up to Saturday.

FERON FACES HIS OLD COURT BENCH AS DEFENDANT

Magistrate Freed on Bail of $35,000.

A stocky, broad shouldered man, his head bent low and eyes averted from the scores who crowded around him, was led into an Oak Park courtroom yesterday afternoon. Police Magistrate James M. Feron stood before the bench over which he has presided for the last eight years and heard himself accused of embezzlement.

As attorneys argued over bail for the magistrate his shoulders sagged and he looked appealingly at J. Lorenzen, his former bailiff, who stood beside him. The latter brought a chair and Feron sank into it and buried his face in his hands.

Magistrate Martin H. McGrath ordered a $35,000 bond furnished by his colleague, and property worth $250,000 was quickly scheduled by the defendant's brother, M. J. Feron, vice president of the Chicago Rapid Transit Lines, and a friend of Justice Feron. Hearing on the charges was set for March 22.

Magistrate Is Released.

Feron, who had been held in a cell most of the day, was ordered released. His physician, Dr. J. E. Stanton, declared that the justice was suffering "serious mental disorder."

"The anxiety and suspense to which he has been subjected in the last two weeks have so affected his mind as to render him incapable of concentration or consecutive thought," the doctor said. "Now that the suspense is over, I expect the judge to improve rapidly and to be in shape for the coming trial."

As Feron left the courtroom many persons shook hands with him and sympathized with him. He repeated his statements made at the detective bureau after his arrest Wednesday night, to the effect that he had been "just a good fellow" who loaned money to his friends without security. He is charged with embezzling approximately $15,000 from fines collected as police magistrate.

Wants Rest, He Says.

"I'm tired, tired," he whispered, huskily, to the friends who crowded around him. "I want rest."

In the hearing over the amount of the bond Village Prosecutor T. A. Walpole demanded that bail of $50,000 be fixed. Attorney Michael Carmody, representing Feron, declared that amount was too large. Then Justice McGrath compromised and fixed the amount at $35,000.

Feron disappeared two weeks ago. He went to New York, according to his story, but returned to Chicago last Saturday, stopping at a south side hotel until he was arrested on Wednesday night in a motion picture theater, where he was noticed by an acquaintance.

PUTNAM URGES CALUMET HARBOR AS GRAIN PORT

Immediate action to provide an interstate ship harbor on the Illinois-Indiana state line is needed if Chicago is to hold its position as a grain port, Rufus W. Putnam, former United States engineer in the Chicago district, declared last night in an address before civic organizations of the Calumet district at St. Petri's hall, 10253 Avenue L.

The grain elevators on the Chicago river are becoming antiquated and should be replaced by more modern equipment on the lake front, Maj. Putnam said. He estimated that a new harbor, breakwater, and new elevators could be erected at a cost of $10,000,000 to $12,000,000. He also urged citizens of the Calumet region to work for the widening of the Sag canal to provide a connecting link between the south shore of the lake with the lakes-to-gulf waterway.

Commisioner of Public Works Richard W. Wolfe and Loren D. Gayton, city engineer, advocated municipal development of the Calumet harbor. Ald. William A. Rowan [10th] who presided, suggested federal aid.

BANDIT, SHOT BY COP HE TRIED TO HOLD UP, DIES

CRIMINAL COURT.

Charley Hillard and James Smith, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life each in the penitentiary by Judge Philip Finnegan.

James Riley, gunman, who was wounded by Policeman Herman Meyer during an attempt to rob the policeman, died yesterday at the Bridewell hospital. At about that time his companion in the crime, Carl Hansen, started for Bowling Green, Ky., in the custody of Sheriff D. E. Phillips to face a murder charge.

Riley and Hansen tried to rob Policeman Meyer about a month ago at the garage at the rear of Meyer's home. The pair was identified recently as two of the men who on Dec. 26 shot and killed J. R. Kirby, president of the Oakland bank, in Oakland, a suburb of Bowling Green. The robbery charge against Hansen was dismissed in the criminal courts so that he could be taken to Kentucky. No effort was made to extradite Riley because of his serious condition. Sheriff Phillips was leaving the criminal court with Hansen yesterday when word came from the hospital that Riley had died.

ROBINSON JOLTS COALITION GROUP IN LOBBY QUIZ

Charges Politics in Huston Cross-Examination.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 13.—Coalitionist members of the senate's lobby committee all set to take Claudius H. Huston, chairman of the Republican national committee, for another rough ride today were rudely jolted themselves when Senator Arthur Robinson [Rep., Ind.] openly accused them of playing politics instead of investigating lobbies.

Refusing to be silenced by Senator T. H. Caraway [Dem., Ark.], chairman of the committee, Robinson shouted a protest against the attempt to use the Muscle Shoals lobby as an opening for political potshots at Huston and demanded that the committee confine its examination of Huston to the affairs of the Tennessee River Improvement association, of which the latter is a former president.

Robinson's Ire Is Aroused.

Robinson's ire was aroused when Caraway engaged in another argument with Huston over whether the Republican national chairman was ever charged by Tennessee politicians with having pocketed money raised to pay the expenses of the Tennessee delegation to the Republican convention at Cleveland, O., in 1924.

Prompted by Robinson, the only regular Republican on the committee, Huston had just finished explaining that the trouble over the expenses of the delegation was the result of some delegates declining to occupy the quarters reserved for them. The quarters had to be paid for and, Huston added, he and Representative J. Will Taylor [Rep., Tenn.] were compelled to make up a $700 deficit out of their own funds.

"But see here," began Caraway, who yesterday in one of his many personal attacks on Huston goaded the latter by saying such a charge would embarrass an honest man.

"Just a minute," interrupted Robinson, banging the table with his fist. "This has no place here. This is a lobby committee organized and directed to investigate lobbies. If there is a Muscle Shoals lobby this is the place to investigate it. But this is not a Democratic committee. Nor is it a Republican committee. It should be an impartial, unbiased committee investigating lobbies and it should have no interest in the Tennessee political situation."

Checks Caraway Outburst.

"Well, leave politics alone and stick to lobbies," demanded Robinson, checking another outburst from Caraway, who muttered something under his breath and slumped down in his chair while Senator Hugo Black [Dem., Ala.] took over the cross-examination of Huston. Huston was ordered to return tomorrow for another grilling.

The hearing took an amusing turn when the senators, who yesterday heaped abuse and ridicule upon Huston, violently resented a little sarcasm on his part today. Hustin, reiterating his defense of the checkbook stub and canceled check system by which the Tennessee River Improvement association's records were kept, added "and they have never been questioned for thirty years until this committee of experts undertook to investigate."

"What do you mean by calling the members of this committee 'experts'?" demanded Senator T. J. Walsh [Dem., Mont.].

"The senator," retorted Huston, pointing to Caraway, "has been attempting to tell me how to keep my records."

"I wouldn't try to advise you," snapped Caraway. "I'd leave that to some one who knows you better."

"Don't you think you ought to withdraw that statement?" insisted the indignant Walsh.

"I'm willing to," agreed Huston, smiling broadly.

Huston conceded that undoubtedly the Tennessee River association, which actively has espoused legislation for the acceptance of the American Cyanamid company bids for a lease on Muscle Shoals, is "a lobby," but he denied that it has been or is a political organization in any sense of the word. He mentioned among prominent southerners who have been members or officers of the association a number of Democrats, including Senator W. E. Brock of Tennessee, former Senator Shields of Tennessee, the late Senator Tyson of Tennessee, and the late Senator Oscar Underwood of Alabama.

"I think the term 'lobby' is sufficiently broad to include the work of this organization," declared Huston, who insisted there is "nothing on this green earth we need or want to conceal," and again promised the committee he will endeavor to obtain such records of the association's receipts and expenditures as may be in the possession of J. W. Worthington, now ill in a Detroit, Mich., hospital.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 13.—[Special.]—Audrey Lewis, 5, 1012 Muskego avenue, was slightly injured today when struck by a street car on Muskego avenue. The child failed to see the approaching car, running into it as she crossed the street, police were told.

WHIP COALITION; DEMOCRATS ROW AMONG SELVES

Senate Refuses to Reopen Sugar Duty Vote.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 13.—[Special.]—Bad feeling among senate Democrats developed today as the coalition of Democrats and radicals continued to flounder helplessly. The coalition met defeat in attempts to obtain reconsideration of recent votes by which the duty on sugar was increased and a duty was imposed on cement, now on the free list. In both cases motions by Senator G. P. Nye [Rep., N. D.] to reconsider the actions were defeated by votes of 38 to 47.

The first clash among the Democrats took place between Senator Pat Harrison [Dem., Miss.], one of the coalition leaders, and Senator Elmer Thomas [Dem., Okla.], who has been active in the fight for a duty on oil and who has figured in the combination of oil, lumber, sugar and cement. Senator Thomas defended his right to vote for a duty on oil and denied that he had indulged in vote trading. He called attention to the fact that Senator Harrison had voted for a duty on long staple cotton. This aroused the Mississippi senator, who proceeded to denounce the Democrats who had strayed from the coalition field.

Pat Harrison Aroused.

"I have gone the limit not to criticize my Democratic colleagues who have not seen, as I have," said Senator Harrison, "but a pang of deep sorrow for the Democratic party is at times in my heart. Things have happened here regarding individual senators which the sooner forgotten the better."

Senator Harrison said that the coalition had written rates into the tariff bill for the benefit of agriculture and had sought to equalize tariff benefits.

"But what's happened?" demaded Harrison. "Something which has never happened before. When the tariff bill came into the senate from the committee of the whole a new combination voted increases on certain items. I do not know if individual senators got together and agreed to trade votes. But I say to those senators who voted one way in the committee of the whole and another way in the senate that they will have to defend their positions before the country."

Later in the day Senator David L. Walsh [Dem., Mass.] attacked the increased duty on wool rags, and was promptly criticized by Senator B. K. Wheeler [Dem., Mont.] for having voted for high rates on various industrial products. Senator Royal S. Copeland [Dem., N. Y.], one of the advocates of a duty on cement, got into the controversy and criticized his colleagues for questioning the motives of other Democrats.

Vote to Reopen Question.

In the vote for reconsideration of the increase in the duty on Cuban sugar from 1.76 cents to 2 cents a pound the 38 who voted to reopen the question included 13 Republicans and 25 Democrats. Defending the increased rate were 38 Republicans and 9 Democrats.

Vice President Curtis broke a tie vote on a poll to increase the duty on clothespins from 10 to 20 cents per gross. He favored the higher rate and it was carried by a vote of 41 to 40.

The senate approved previous actions in committee of the whole on numerous items, including the imposition of a duty of 7 cents per pound on long staple cotton, now on the free list, and the increase in the duty on wool rags from 7½ to 18 cents per pound.

The senate, at a night session, approved a reduction in the duty on rayon yarn, by a vote of 34 to 32. The rate was cut from 45 to 40 cents o pound.

Reach Verdict in Suit Against Ex-Chief Hughes

A jury in Circuit Judge George Fred Rush's court reached a verdict at 10 o'clock last night on the $50,000 damage suit brought against Michael Hughes, former chief of police, by James McQueeny, a private investigator, who charged false arrest. The verdict was sealed and will be opened this morning. Before the case went to the jury yesterday afternoon, McQueeny had testified that he was twice arrested without a warrant in 1927 while he was investigating short weights on coal deliveries to the city.

ATTENDANCE AT COUNTY BOARD'S SESSIONS BARED

"Report Card" Places Nettlehorst at Top.

The county commissioners received their report cards yesterday. A record of the attendance of commissioners at board, committee and budget sessions for the twelve months ending Feb. 28 was secretly submitted to each commissioner by County Efficiency Expert J. L. Jacobs.

Efforts were made by the commissioners, particularly those at the foot of the class, to keep the report from the public, which might take an attitude of parental censure at the April primaries. When several commissioners were approached for questioning on the report they expressed surprise at the fact that it had become public property. Innuendoes were made that the "bright boys" of the class were to blame for the revelation.

Nettlehorst Heads List.

In the twelve months the board held 55 meetings, 44 committee meetings and 24 budget meetings. Commissioner Louis Nettlehorst won the high grade of 98 per cent by attending 54 of the board meetings. Maurice F. Kavanagh was second with 96 per cent for 53 meetings. Commissioner Joseph P. Carolan was low with 58 per cent for 32 meetings, two behind President Cermak with 61 per cent for 34 sessions.

Commissioner Carolan is the Catiline of the county board. He is a rebel against the authoritative rule of President Cermak and sits apart and silent at all sessions. Strangely enough, he was present at every meeting Cermak did not attend. One of the commissioners said that the pair must have got their dates mixed on several occasions since they were together at 19 meetings.

Cermak Out of Town.

Cermak's failure to attend 11 meetings is explained by his sojourn in Florida and visits to his summer home at Antioch. Commissioner Charles S. Peterson was third low, having attended only 35 meetings, and most of these merely to leave his proxy with another commissioner in the press of his duties as city treasurer.

The report cards read as follows:

Commissioner—	Board.	Committee.	Budget.
Nettlehorst	54	42	22
Kavanagh	53	42	24

FINED ON DELINQUENCY CHARGE.

Milton Mahr, 25 years old, 2138 North Halsted street, was fined $25 in the Domestic Relations court yesterday on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of William A. Seller, 16 years old, 2114 Larrabee street, after he had taken the boy to live with him and Mrs. Vera Vahles in Mahr's flat.

KILLED BY AUTO

MRS. PEARL LANHAM.

John Nichols, 35 years old, of Griffith, Ind., was charged with manslaughter by the Gary police yesterday as a result of the death of Mrs. Pearl A. Lanham, Gary policewoman. Mrs. Lanham, the mother of four children, was run down by Nichols' machine as she was directing children across 38th street and Broadway, Gary, at the Glen Park school.

One death in Cook county yesterday raised the 1930 motor toll to 179. The victim:

Richard Satchwell, 44 years old, 1902 Monterey avenue. Died in St. Francis hospital, Blue Island, of injuries incurred last Sunday, when his automobile ran into a telephone pole at 115th street and Vincennes avenue.

QUIZ CAPTIVE ABOUT GIRL IN TORSO MYSTERY

Rudolph Klein, 45 years old, 233 South 29th avenue, Bellwood, was taken into custody last night by the Bellwood police and questioned about the disappearance of Miss Edna Pastrig, 631 6th avenue, Milwaukee, who has been missing for three weeks. Earlier in the day Sergt. Reginald Cox of the Milwaukee detective bureau told Sheriff Lawrence Doolittle of Lake county that he believed the dismembered body of a woman found last Saturday in the ruins of a burned cottage at Deep lake was that of Miss Pastrig.

Klein admitted that he knew Miss Pastrig, but said that he had not seen her since New Year's eve, when he attended a party with her in Milwaukee. He said he had seen little of her in the last year, since his marriage to another Milwaukee girl. Steve Jurawicz, at whose home Klein boards, told the police, however, that Klein received letters from the Pastrig girl frequently and that he was often absent from home for three or four days at a time. Klein is a butcher, but has been out of work for several weeks.

TEXAS VOTES TO BOYCOTT GOODS FROM WISCONSIN

Legislature Acts in Citrus Land Row.

Austin, Tex., March 13.—[Special.]—In a resolution adopted by the legislature today, the people of Texas are requested to boycott all articles produced or manufactured in the state of Wisconsin.

It was estimated by members of the senate and house who advocated the passage of the resolution, that more than twenty million dollars of machinery and general equipment manufactured in Wisconsin are sold annually in Texas.

The boycott had its origin in the fact that the Wisconsin state real estate brokers board has discharged its secretary, John L. Newman, because he purchased a ten acre citrus fruit orchard in the lower Rio Grande valley while on a visit to that section recently.

The board also has refused to grant licenses to agents for the sale of Texas land.

Passes Both Branches.

When the boycott resolution was offered in the senate by Senator Archy Parr of Benavides it caused but little discussion. Parr spoke in its behalf, urging its adoption because of the antagonistic attitude taken by the real estate board and other state authorities of Wisconsin toward Texas lands.

He charged that a great injustice was being done this state and that the effects of the action of the Wisconsin board was being felt in other states. He gave a glowing picture of the agricultural wealth of the lower Rio Grande valley and its potential possibilities in the matter of future development.

In the house a similar resolution was introduced by Representative Polk Hornaday of Harlingen, who asserted that he voiced the sentiments of the people of that part of Texas in protesting against the action of the Wisconsin board. No opposition to the adoption of the resolution was offered in either branch of the legislature.

Invite Newman to Texas.

A number of chambers of commerce and land companies of the lower Rio Grande valley have sent telegrams to Newman urging him to become a citizen of Texas. If he declines to move to this state he will be offered a position as the representative of the land development interests of that region in Wisconsin.

The controversy between the Wisconsin real estate board and the land companies of Texas, especially those of the lower Rio Grande valley, over the refusal of the board to issue licenses to representatives of these companies to sell land in that state has been in progress for several months. Gov. Dan Moody endeavored to bring about a revocation of the rulings of the board, and a special invitation was issued for a delegation of representative farmers and business men of Wisconsin to visit the state and see for themselves the value of the lands that are being offered for sale.

In response to this invitation a special train of Wisconsin people toured south Texas and the valley, and it was on this trip that Newman purchased a ten acre citrus fruit orchard. There already are many former citizens of Wisconsin residing in that part of Texas, and many of them have purchased land, it was brought out in the discussion of the resolution adopted.

Already orders for more than $300,000 worth of irrigation machinery and other equipment which had been placed with Wisconsin manufacturers has been canceled.

Gunmen Herd Tea Co. Employes Into Basement

Police last night sought two gunmen who escaped with $599 in checks of the Central Tea company, 4216 North avenue, after forcing six employes of the concern, three of them girls, into the basement of the plant. The girls menaced by the robbers were Lottie Johnson, 1540 North Keystone avenue; Ruth Redeker, 1529 North Keeler avenue, and Bernice Stuart, 1535 North Karlov avenue.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (Adv.)

Astronomers Believe It Is Enormous and Cold.

last three. The first of these modern planets, Uranus, was discovered by Sir William Herschel in 1781. It is estimated to be 1,782,800,000 miles from the sun.

Next came the discovery of Neptune by one of the most astonishing calculations yet made. Certain irregularities in the motion of the new planet Uranus troubled astronomers for years. The key to the mystery was found almost simultaneously by two astronomers working independently of each other. Both said there must be another planet out even farther from the sun than Uranus and both calculated correctly where a telescope could be pointed to discover it.

Located It in Same Year.

One of these astronomers, U. J. J. Leverrier, a Frenchman, asked the Berlin observatory to look in this spot. In 1846 a German astronomer looked, but did not see the planet. When he compared this section of the sky with some charts showing previously observed stars, however, he found he had a new one. This new pin point of light proved to be the planet Neptune.

John C. Adams, an Englishman, had made similar predictions unknown to the Frenchman, and a British telescope, turned upon the right spot in the sky the same year, located the planet. But, as in Germany, the astronomer had failed to note its presence.

Names of Other Planets.

The planets beginning nearest the sun and their diameters in miles are:

Mercury, mean distance 36,000,000 miles, diameter about 3,000.

Venus, 67,200,000 and about 7,500.

Earth, 92,900,000 and nearly 8,000.

Mars, 141,500,000 and about 4,200.

Jupiter, 483,300,000 and about 86,000.

Saturn, 886,100,000 and about 72,000.

Uranus, 1,782,800,000 and about 30,000.

Neptune, 2,793,500,000 and about 32,000.

DISCOVERY HAILED HERE

Discovery of the new planet, "Extra Neptunian," by astronomers at Lowell observatory, Flagstaff, Ariz., ended a year of fruitless exploration for the same planet by astronomers at Yerkes observatory of the University of Chicago at Williams Bay, Wis.

Prof. S. B. Barrett of Yerkes observatory said last night that he and associates had been searching for the same planet since 1928, but on erroneous calculations. Original predictions as to the existence of the planet were made in 1911 by the late Dr. Percival Lowell, who employed a minute and complicated mathematical formula to plot the course of the hypothetical body.

His Calculations Disputed.

Dr. Lowell's calculations were confirmed by other astronomers, but in 1928 another Harvard astronomer, Prof. W. H. Pickering, calculated another formula which placed the undiscovered planet 30 degrees off from where Dr. Lowell had reckoned it to be. It was on the basis of Prof. Pickering's calculations that the Yerkes observatory staff has been exploring.

"It is a notable discovery," said Prof. Barrett. "It confirms Dr. Lowell's theory and his calculations. As soon as the moon swings out of the way—within a week or ten days—we will try for a view of the new planet here at Yerkes observatory."

Prof. Philip Fox, director of the Adler planetarium now building on the lake front, yesterday hailed the discovery of the new planet as "a very fine thing—my congratulations to the astronomers."

The discovery was not wholly unexpected, Prof. Fox said, and referred to a paper written by the late Percival Lowell of Harvard university, who predicted the existence of the body.

Others Not Yet Seen.

"I visited the Flagstaff observatory in 1910," Prof. Fox said, "and Mr. Lowell told me then that his computations indicated the presence of a body beyond Neptune. Neptune had not moved in accordance with the perturbation (the vacillations of the planets) and that led to his conclusion that some other body was present."

"Do you think it likely that other planets exist there which have not been discerned?" Prof. Cox was asked.

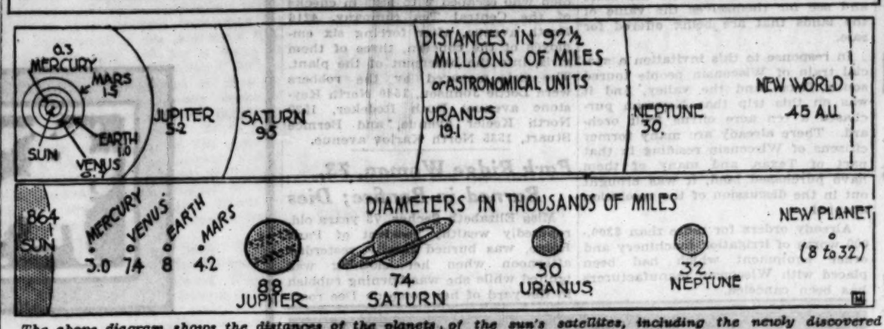
"O, surely," he replied, "there must be, but there is a limit to the distance that our system can hold them and when they get out far enough some other system gets hold of them. We know there are no big ones because of the perturbation, but there must be small ones, probably like the one just observed."

Tells of Equipment.

Prof. Fox said the Lowell observatory's equipment included a forty-inch reflector telescope, which had likely been used in the recent observations. The new planet will never become plain enough to be discerned with the

William Duncan McMillan, professor of astronomy at the University of Chicago, said the discovery was very important "if correct, and the source of the information seems to put its correctness beyond all question. Many astronomers have long been skeptical about the existence of any trans-Neptunian planet. It will be interesting to find out particularly how large it is and how far out it is."

LOCATE NEW PLANET OF SOLAR SYSTEM



The above diagram shows the distances of the planets from the sun, the distance of the earth from the sun being used as the unit of measure. The comparative sizes of the sun's satellites, including the newly discovered planet, are also shown.

This Boy Doesn't Think City Has Transit Problem

SNOWDEN ROUTS CONSERVATIVES IN CENSURE VOTE

Blames Them for Trade Slump; Gets 73 Majority

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 13.—Chancellor of the Exchequer Philip Snowden tonight repeated his famous Hague act, this time on the house of commons stage, by refusing to budge an inch from his many times expressed purpose not to divulge the government's intentions on silk, sugar, and automobiles duties before April 14, the day the budget will be revealed.

As was expected the Conservative opposition vote to censure Mr. Snowden for this continued refusal sadly failed, the motion being rejected by 308 votes to 235, giving the government a very comfortable majority of 73. The Liberals voted almost solidly for the government.

It was Chancellor Snowden's night. With his gloves off he poured scorn upon his Conservative opponents, thoroughly enjoying the task of exposing the futility of the Conservative protectionists' arguments and their campaign on industrial distress.

The censure was proposed by Stanley Baldwin, Conservative leader, but Mr. Snowdan devoted most of his invective on Winston Churchill, former chancellor of the exchequer, stingingly lashing him for his turncoat views on protectionism. Mr. Snowden insisted that there was an "organized conspiracy" against himself and the Labor government.

Opposition newspapers said Mr. Snowden, have been spreading pessimism. Furthermore, he claimed, that the country was now reaping the consequences of the action of the late Baldwin government which precipitated one of the greatest industrial conflicts in recent times. Among others Mr. Snowden produced trade statistics showing that the decline of the artificial silk trade started in London before the present government took office.

Toward the end Wedgewood Benn, secretary of India, winding up for the government, launched a heated attack on the empire free trade movement Considerable interruptions prevented him from speaking for some minutes, and after the uproar died down he shouted, referring to the Conservatives:

"They are a party of sham imperialists!"

This brought more uproar, and resulted in a number of Conservative members, led by Sir Robert Horne, leaving the chamber amidst derisive ministerial cries of, "The gentlemen of England!"

HINDENBURG ENDS YOUNG PLAN WAR BY SWEEP OF PEN

Signs Bill "with Heavy but Stanch Heart."

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 13. — Eighteen hours after the reichstag accepted the Young reparations plan, President Paul von Hindenburg affixed his signature to the bills putting it into operation. An urgency clause made the plan immediately effective, so beginning the liquidation of Germany's debts to the allies arising out of the world war. A few hours later the president signed the separate debt accord with America.

In a special message to the German nation, the president told the German people why he signed the Young plan. Hundreds of thousands looked to the former army leader to stand between them and acceptance of the plan, which they fear means enslavement of the nation. President von Hindenburg knew this and started his appeal for the parties to cease their wrangling with the words, "The parliamentary battle of the Young plan is over."

Improvement on Dawes Plan.

"Hundreds have appealed to me not to besmirch my name by signing the bill," he said, "I cannot answer them all directly but let me answer here: With a heavy but stanch heart, after mature and conscientious study of the Young plan bill, I signed my name to it. Despite the crushing burdens it imposes on Germany for long years to come and despite the great anxiety inspired by some of its clauses I came to the conclusion that the Young plan is an improvement over the Dawes plan.

"In the old army I learned to do my duty towards the fatherland, regardless of personal sacrifice. The idea of shirking the responsibility by ordering a referendum or by resigning my post is inconceivable to me."

Denounced as Traitor.

The bulk of the German people are grateful to him for his personal sacrifice. The Republicans are demanding that his message be posted in the towns and villages of the country. But his former friends, the Nationalists, denounce him as a traitor. Some of their papers came out with broad black mourning edges and said that "the faith Germany had in Paul von Hindenburg is dead."

The president refused to sign the bill on the Polish liquidation agreement, as he considered the majority which adopted it insufficient, but is postponing his decision only to study the legal side of the question.

U. S. AND BRITAIN WIN JAPAN OVER TO 3-POWER DEAL

Briand of France Relents —Stays in London.

security pact, and that France may get some sort of a statement in principle that the powers will agree to take every measure to prevent war, or some such pronouncement, which will enable Premier Tardieu and Foreign Minister Briand to flaunt it as a guarantee before the chamber of deputies to justify a reduction in armaments.

M. Briand tonight suddenly appeared more optimistic and indicated that he would not leave the conference flat after all. He warned journalists not to slam the story too hard. So it may be there is life in the old parley yet.

A change of spirit followed Italian Foreign Minister Grandi's receipt of a dispatch from Premier Mussolini from Rome instructing him to stand pat on his demand for parity with France and not toe deviate from the present policy.

"Parity!" Italy's Cry.

Renewed confidence followed persistent reports that Mr. Stimson and Mr. MacDonald had finally reached a complete agreement on the Anglo-American parity problem, with the cruiser problem finally settled. M. Briand also hinted as to how a compromise solution to save the face of the conference might be reached.

"Eighty-five per cent of the world's naval strength is represented in the five powers assembled here," he said. "How can these governments explain to public opinion that they have failed to agree to adopt common measures to avert warfare henceforth, when they possess means of so doing?

"There is certain to be a naval holiday for five years on construction of capital ships and probably a reduction in their size and gun power," Briand said. "A reduction in the building programs of other classes—big and little cruisers, destroyers, and submarines—is also likely to result."

ITALY STRESSES NEEDS OF WAR AS PARLEY WABBLES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, March 13.—Uneasiness over the critical impasse of the London naval conference, with respect to the Franco-Italian Mediterranean situation, and over what is feared a generally growing bellicose preparation by other European nations, today spurred on Italy's campaign for more adequate defense measures in parliament and press.

Not for ten years has there been such an undercurrent of dread of a pending outbreak of war in the discussions of the military budget. Scarcely concealed references were made both in parliament and by the press that this fear comes from the direction of France and Jugo-Slavia.

Demands were voiced in parliament by Deputy Grey for an increase of $15,000,000 in the air budget in order to provide an adequate defense equal to France's. Deputy Grey visioned attacks by enemy planes with gas bombs to which Italy is open on two sides, meaning from France and Jugo-Slavia.

"The hard reality is that Italy is hemmed in on the Mediterranean between France, with the largest army in the world and allied militarily with Jugo-Slavia and the best army in the Balkans, contrary to the spirit of the league of nations," says the Tribuna tonight.

Rejection of Italy's parity demands, which Rome takes as definite and official, means France is assuming an offensive attitude now against Italy, according to the Giornale d'Italia.

'BIG FIVE' BATTLE TO PUT PARLEY BACK ON ITS FEET

MacDonald Sees "Ray of Hope."

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 13.—After a day of storm and stress, caused by yesterday's outbreak of Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, the naval conference, while not yet safely in port, is in somewhat smoother waters tonight. It is learned from an authoritative source that Prime Minister MacDonald, who has dropped all parliamentary work to take the helm of the laboring ship, is highly pleased with the results of the day's work.

This does not mean that the crisis is over, or that success is in sight, but it does mean, in Mr. MacDonald's opinion, that there is still a fair hope for success.

It has been a day of private conferences, with the chief delegates rushing back and forth. The formal meeting of the American, British and French delegations, set for this afternoon, was abandoned.

Delegates Rush To and Fro.

American Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson and Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow called on M. Briand before breakfast. Later Reijiro Wakatsuki of Japan and Dino Grandi of Italy visited Mr. MacDonald on separate calls. Finally, M. Briand stopped at the British prime minister's offices, closely followed by Mr. Stimson.

The purport of these talks was to find a way out of the situation created by M. Briand's statement, which has been interpreted as a declaration that the conference had failed. M. Briand himself was alarmed and apparently surprised by the consequences of his "indiscretion" and seemed anxious to repair the damage as much as possible. He told some of his intimates today that he had never intended to kill the conference, but only to convey that he had failed in his efforts to get a security pact, and therefore his personal work was over.

Sees Ray of Hope.

He also indicated, in his opinion, France might yet agree to retard its building program until 1935, provided its theoretical right to a large navy is recognized. There also is no doubt that pressure has been brought to bear on Italy to define more clearly what it means by parity with France.

France has agreed to Italian parity only so far as the Mediterranean is concerned, but argues it must have an additional fleet for the Atlantic and lines of communication with its overseas empire.

France claims a navy of 724,000 tons but is unwilling to give Italy as much. France intimated that it would take less if Italy agreed to reduce. Great Britain cannot view with equanimity a great French navy across the narrow channel, and its Rapidan settlement with America is endangered by France's threat. If France and Italy can be brought to an agreement then Great Britain and France may be able to agree, and the whole will fit into the jigsaw puzzle of a five power treaty.

Parley at a Standstill.

It is expected that upon Premier Tardieu's arrival from Paris he will be prepared to talk figures, having given up the hope of a security pact. It is hoped he may be induced to accept a reduction on his claims large enough to allow America, Great Britain and Japan to continue with the agreements tentatively reached between them.

This, it is hoped, may be accomplished by persuading M. Tardieu to drop from his calculations more than 200,000 tons of obsolete ships which, would never be replaced, and which, it is believed here, were simply introduced for bargaining purposes.

Pending his arrival, the formal work of the conference is at a standstill.

PLEADS FOR GULF WATER ROUTE AS FOES OPPOSE IT

Beck Argues Necessity of Chicago Diversion.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 13.—(Special.)—Needs of the Illinois waterway figured today in closing arguments before the Supreme court in the Chicago water diversion case.

Representative James M. Beck (Rep., Pa.), former solicitor general and now special counsel for the Chicago drainage district, urged the court to make its decree sufficiently flexible to permit the amount of water diversion required for the waterway.

Pointing out the impossibility of deciding now what conditions would be nine years hence, when sewage disposal plants were to be completed under the tentative degree suggested by Charles E. Hughes as special master, Mr. Beck asked the court not to attempt at this time to determine the amount of water which may thereafter be diverted. Mr. Beck's position was that the court either should reserve this decision until later or else authorize the secretary of war to exercise his discretion.

Final Decree May Come in April.

Mr. Beck's argument concluded the long pending case brought by lake states against the Chicago sanitary district and the state of Illinois to enjoin further diversion of water. It is anticipated that the court may be prepared to announce the terms of a final decree on April 14, when it resumes sessions.

The decree, as suggested by Mr. Hughes, who is not sitting in the case, ordered successive reductions in the amount of water diverted until a maximum of 1,500 cubic feet per second was reached on the completion of the sewage treatment plants at the end of the nine year period. The decree will carry out the decision of the court as handed down more than a year ago, holding the diversion of water for sanitary purposes to be illegal and providing for reduction "to such an amount as may be necessary to maintain navigation in the port of Chicago."

Jadwin's Opinion Not Heeded.

Mr. Beck quoted the testimony of Maj. Gen. Edgar Jadwin as chief of engineers given before Mr. Hughes last spring to the effect that the Illinois waterway would require a flow of approximately 5,000 cubic feet of water per second at Lockport. Navigation needs of this waterway must be considered, it was emphasized by Mr. Beck, when congress approves completion of the Illinois waterway link of the lakes to the gulf waterway as a federal project.

"I want to emphasize that when this case was before this court previously, the voice of the United States government was not heard," said Mr. Beck. "Gen. Jadwin spoke for the United States government at the subsequent hearings before the special master.

"Gen. Jadwin said that while he could build a waterway if he had a less diversion than the amount he named he would have to have more locks and more obstructions to navigation.

A Jump in the Dark.

"You are asking now to fix the diversion after the disposal works are completed. Why should you take a jump in the dark? Why not say you will wait the practical test of experience? Why should the court guess nine years ahead? In the meantime, congress may have given a direct authorization for a waterway. Many circumstances may occur which would affect your judgment. Present high levels of the lakes may continue. Why not reserve the question as to what shall be done hereafter?"

Justice Louis D. Brandeis, in questioning Mr. Beck, appeared to show some hostility to the Chicago side of the case. He asked if the court's decision of a year ago had not laid down the rule that the diversion should be cut down to "a negligible amount." Mr. Beck conceded that the late Chief Justice Taft, in writing the opinion, had used the word "negligible," but that he presumably had in mind that at least 1,000 cubic feet per second should be diverted to maintain navigation in the port of Chicago and that this would affect the lake level by only a fraction of an inch, which would be negligible as compared with the six inch reduction in levels hertofore caused by the diversion.

Justices Imply Differing Views.

Justice Brandeis also interrogated in a somewhat hostile manner E. D. Adcock, who preceded Mr. Beck on behalf of the Chicago sanitary district. When, however, Attorney General Gilbert Bettman of Ohio presented his arguments on behalf of the lake states, he was questioned sharply by Justice McReynolds as to the "effects" of water diversion in Chicago upon other lake cities.

"What will happen to you if Chicago pours all its sewage into the lakes?" Justice McReynolds asked.

"We'll take care of ourselves," Mr. Bettman replied.

"But we're entitled to ask on behalf of those who can't take care of themselves," the justice commented. "I was wondering if your cities are doing what you are demanding of Chicago."

"That issue is not before the court," the Ohio attorney general responded.

"Isn't it?" Justice McReynolds retorted. "Not as to what Cleveland is doing?"

"No," replied Mr. Bettman.

Newton D Baker, former secretary of war, and Attorney General Wilbur Brucker of Michigan, also presented arguments on behalf of the lake states. They joined in urging that the court provide for complete cessation of diversion at Chicago upon completion of the sewage disposal plants.

Baker Shuts Off All Water.

Mr. Baker asserted that Chicago's position for many years had been one of "defiance," and that the city was "incorrigible." It was now, he said, pumping for domestic uses more water per capita than any other city in the country and its population was growing. All authority for continued diversion for navigation needs of the Illinois waterway was disputed by Mr. Baker.

"I do not believe," said Mr. Baker, "that the constitution gives the federal government the right to cut a canal from the lakes to New Orleans and to drain the lakes and leave the people on the lakes stranded high and dry. The federal government has authority over navigable waters and can develop a waterway in a natural route."

Mr. Baker criticized the proposal to offset the water diversion by the construction of compensating works. This would require, he said, the narrowing of channels in such a way as to increase the speed of the current at narrow points where navigation already is perilous.

TREAT 189 RUM PARALYSIS CASES IN DIXIE STATES

Atlanta, Ga., March 13.—(AP)—Reporting of 29 cases of a strange paralytic ailment in Meridian, Miss., late tonight brought to 59 the number of persons suffering from the malady in that state and the total for Mississippi, Georgia, and Tennessee to 189.

Twenty-seven of those afflicted in Meridian were said by authorities to be males under 20 years of age and the other two were women.

Meridian physicians said they were unable to determine the cause of the malady and some described it as a "new kind of neuritis."

In Georgia nine cases have been reported, and four other persons are under observation. T. F. Sellers, chief bacteriologist of the state board of health, said the disease apparently was due to drinking jamaica ginger and that it was not communicable.

Fifteen Ill in Rhode Island.

Providence, R. I., March 13.—(AP)—Hoping to halt the paralysis and blindness which has sent 15 persons to hospitals, state authorities will cause analyses to be made tomorrow of Jamaica ginger samples obtained by police in five Providence stores today.

That is the history of the PENTODE!

OLD TESTIMONY OF DOHENY READ AT BRIBE TRIAL

First Witnesses Called by Government.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 13.—[Special.]—Government counsel in the trial of E. L. Doheny for bribery today drew upon the latter's own testimony before the senate's oil scandal investigation committee six years ago to prove that the oil man paid Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, $100,000 for a lease on the navy's Elk Hills oil reserves.

With opening statements out of the way early in the day and a mass of documentary evidence laid before the jury by stipulation, Owen J. Roberts, chief of the government counsel, called a few preliminary witnesses to identify canceled checks or other papers and then launched into a reading of the senate committee's record for two hours.

Contends It Was Loan.

In that testimony Doheny, contending as he will when he takes the stand next week, that the $100,000 advanced to Fall was a loan rather than a bribe, admitted to the senators that it might have influenced the former cabinet member to favor Doheny's bid for the right to drill the navy's oil.

Through one of the witnesses, Graham Young, an official of Blair & Co., New York bankers, Mr. Roberts established how the late E. L. Doheny Jr. drew $100,000 in currency out of his personal account on Nov 30, 1921. The yellowed canceled check which young Doheny presented Blair & Co. for the money as well as another which Blair & Co. drew upon the First National bank of New York in order to meet the demand were identified by Young.

Young Doheny, it will be shown by the government, acting at the direction of his father, took the $100,000 in the now famous "little black bag," and turned it over to Fall in Washington the next day.

"Loan" Held "Afterthought."

In his opening statement to the jury, Roberts asserted the government will seek to prove that the "loan" explanation of the $100,000 deal was an afterthought on the part of Fall and Doheny when the senate committee investigators were hot on the trail of Fall's sudden wealth, and that Doheny had inadvertently told the senate committee he expected to realize 100 million dollars profit out of the Elk Hills lease.

PRESIDENT IS URGED TO SELECT ILLINOIS MAN FOR U. S. BENCH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 13.—[Special.]—Appointment of an Illinois man to the Supreme court vacancy left by the death of the late Justice Edward T. Sanford of Tennessee was urged upon President Hoover today by Senator Otis F. Glenn [Rep., Ill.].

The junior Illinois senator, who gained prestige at the White House by his defense of Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes when the latter was assailed by senate radicals, did not present any names to Mr. Hoover today, but will make specific recommendations shortly.

The last Illinois man to serve on the Supreme court was Chief Justice Melville W. Fuller, who died in 1910.

Among Illinois jurists and lawyers who may be considered for the Supreme court vacancy are Frederick R. De Young, justice of the Illinois Supreme court; Federal Judges Walter Lindley of Danville and James H. Wilkerson of Chicago; Silas H. Strawn, Chicago lawyer, and Nathan William MacChesney, Chicago attorney and friend of President Hoover. Reports Mr. MacChesney might be under consideration developed after the Chicago man had been a guest at the White House over the week-end.

"WIDOW" BEGINS COURT FIGHT ON ERLANGER WILL

New York, March 13.—[Special.]—The opening gun of what is expected to be a bitter legal fight for possession of the $75,000,000 estate left by the late Abraham Lincoln Erlanger, theatrical magnate, boomed in Surrogate's court today with the filing of a bill of objections to the probation of the producer's will.

The protestant is Charlotte F. Erlanger, who claims to be the theatrical man's widow. Relatives of Mr. Erlanger, including a brother, have repeatedly insisted that there is no widow.

In her bill filed today by Max D. Steuer, her attorney, Mrs. Erlanger asks the rejection of the document filed as the producer's last will and testament and demands a hearing before a jury on her claims to a share in the estate.

She charges that the will filed Monday in the Surrogate's court was not the last will of Mr. Erlanger; that at the time of its execution, Oct. 18, 1927, the theater owner was of unsound mind and that the will was written, "if in fact ever subscribed and published by the decedent," by fraud and through "undue influence" practiced upon Mr. Erlanger by his brother, Supreme Court Justice Mitchell L. Erlanger, Rae Erlanger and Mrs. Caroline Bergman, sisters of the deceased, and Saul J. Baron, all named as executors in the will.

The will leaves the bulk of Mr. Erlanger's estate to his brother. Eleven nephews and nieces, who were to receive $1,000 each, were the only other persons named in the will. Mr. Erlanger specifically stated that he was unmarried.

A petition to probate the will was filed yesterday by Justice Erlanger, and it was following this petition that Mr. Steuer filed his objections.

Mr. Steuer identified the woman who, he claims, is the legal widow of the theater man, as a former actress who met Mr. Erlanger more than twenty years ago. She had been known on the stage, he said, as Charlotte Leslie. She is said to have been about half the age of Mr. Erlanger, who was 69 years old when he died.

INDIANS IGNORE GANDHI'S MARCH OF INDEPENDENCE

LONDON, March 31. — (AP) — Dispatches from Bombay, India, today said that the villagers of Bareja showed only a faint interest in the pilgrimage of Mahatma Gandhi and his 79 volunteers when they passed through the village. Most of the peasants in the district roundabout paid no attention to Gandhi's march of civil disobedience and continued unconcernedly at work.

Gandhi and his marchers reached Narwagon tonight on their way to Jalaepur, where they will attempt to manufacture salt in defiance of the government monopoly. They settled down there for the night and will resume their march early tomorrow morning.

52 Injured in Riot.

BOMBAY, India, March 13.—(AP)—Two policemen and 50 strikers were injured today during a fight in the railway shed at Byculla, where the Great Indian Peninsula railway maintains a large force. The workers attempted "passive resistance" by lying prostrate and obstructing the loyal workmen.

Calcutta Mayor Arrested.

CALCUTTA, March 13.—(AP)—M. Sengupta, mayor of Calcutta, was taken into custody today when he refused to furnish bail on a charge of sedition. Mayor Sengupta at a public meeting appealed for volunteers to carry out the independence program of Mahatma Gandhi.

JUDGES REMOVE N.Y. MAGISTRATE; OTHERS MAY GO

Borrowing from Rothstein Costs Vitale's Job.

BY TOM PETTEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 13. —[Special.]—Albert H. Vitale, who dined in a Roman garden with seven racketeers and borrowed money from Arnold Rothstein, the gambler, was removed as a city magistrate today by unanimous decision of the appellate division of the supreme court.

The five justices who had listened for three days to the magistrate's plea for "mercy" found Vitale guilty on one of the two charges which the bar association made the basis for its petition for his removal. Vitale was told he had "undermined the integrity of justice."

Vitale was fired from the bench with a scathing denunciation but he walked smiling from the court room. He is expected to seek permission from the court to appeal the verdict. He admitted during the proceedings that in his six years on the bench he had accumulated a fortune of $165,000.

"I am going to drop out of public life for a time," he told questioners. "What more can I say?"

Other Magistrates May Go.

The dismissal of Vitale marked the first time in thirty years that a magistrate has been unseated for cause and presaged the fall of a number of other jurists in a general cleanup of the city's courts.

Two other major developments in the general investigation of the magistracy took place this afternoon. Hearings were completed before a special grand jury which heard Norman Thomas, Socialist leader, name eleven city magistrates who, he declared, should be subjects of investigation on "specific charges."

At the termination of the grand jury's hearing District Attorney Thomas C. T. Crain recommended the establishment of a special court to handle felony cases and the creation of a central bail bond bureau to eliminate bail abuses. The grand jury's presentment will be ready tomorrow afternoon.

Borrowing Dislodges Him.

The act that bounced Vitale from his magistrate's seat with a loud plop was his acceptance of a loan of $19,940 from the gambler, Rothstein, who was murdered for welching on a craps debt. The loan was exposed during the last mayoralty campaign by Maj. Fiorello La Guardia.

INDICT REPORTER, GIRL IN $300,000 EXTORTION CASE

Los Angeles, Cal., March 13.—[Special.]—Morris Lavine, newspaper reporter, and Leontine Johnson, pretty redheaded ex-secretary for one of the promoters of the collapsed Julian Petroleum company, were indicted by the county grand jury today on a charge of conspiring to extort $300,000 from persons whose names figured in the Julian case.

Lavine and the girl were arrested after he had accepted two packages containing $50,000 and $25,000 marked money from Charles Crawford, a politician.

The remaining $225,000 was to have been paid later, according to District Attorney Buron Fitts. Superior Judge Walton permitted Miss Johnson and Lavine to post $10,000 bail pending arraignment tomorrow.

According to versions told to grand jurors, Lavine told Crawford he would suppress portions of the Julian "inside story" which he and Miss Johnson had prepared and which, until his arrest was running in daily installments in a Los Angeles newspaper.

Seek Suspect Named by 2 in Shooting of Park Cop

The police last night were seeking Frank Statero, 731 West 25th place, as one of the three bandits who on Tuesday night shot South Park Policeman Patrick McMahon during an attempted robbery at 67th street and South Shore drive. John Dobeck, 34 years old, and his brother, Stanley, 29, confessed they were two of the robbers and named Statero as the third bandit.

THE TARIFF FOR AGRICULTURE.

Debate succeeds debate in the senate on tariff schedules and nothing is accomplished. The failure to enact a tariff law is unsettling to business at a time when every nerve should be strained to restore confidence. All of the nation's industries, and especially its agriculture, are disturbed and depressed by inaction in Washington.

For better or for worse the national government is engaged in a highly questionable experiment in agricultural relief. The government is buying and holding wheat in an endeavor to sustain prices. While doing so the government is neglecting the tried and proved method of assisting depressed industries through the tariff. If ever agriculture needed a tariff it is today, and it is not getting it.

An adequate duty on blackstrap molasses would force the use of corn in the manufacture of industrial alcohol. That would take care of a part, at least, of the surplus of corn. A duty on imported vegetable oils from the tropics would encourage the production of oil bearing plants on our farms for use as food and in industry. An adequate duty on hides might be expected to raise the value of the live stock sold by American farmers. A further effect of these duties would lie in the encouragement which many of them would offer farmers to put their lands to new uses, thereby decreasing the acreage planted to crops with which the market is already surfeited.

Congress has already spent much more time on the tariff than was needed. The work should be pressed to a speedy conclusion, with special attention to the plain requirements of agriculture.

THE ACME OF WILD JACKASSISM.

The Nebraska legislature is meeting in special session to consider the repeal of the state guarantee of bank deposits. It is generally believed that the repeal will be approved in one form or another. There is difference of opinion about details, but there is also widespread agreement that the experiment was a failure, and a costly one at that.

Orthodox economists could have foretold and, indeed, did foretell the failure before the law was passed, but their predictions were given no weight. The idea embodied in the guarantee law was an alluring one. Those who proposed it believed that, by requiring each bank to pay into a common fund a small percentage of its deposits each year, a fund could be obtained which would be adequate to repay depositors of any bank in the state which failed. The thing seemed to be as simple and as certain as fire insurance and just as desirable for the protection of the public.

Perhaps the proponents of the bill could not have anticipated the drastic deflation in farm values which led to numerous bank failures in Nebraska, but they might have anticipated the failure on the part of some Nebraska bankers to observe conservative rules in lending the money of depositors. The guarantee law was an invitation to wildcat banking and the temptation proved irresistible to too many of the fraternity. The consequence was that the drain upon the insurance fund was heavier than the fund could bear and it quickly became apparent that if the banks or the state treasury were required to increase their contributions to the fund, thereby making it momentarily more secure, the wildcatters, in turn, would be stimulated to further indiscretions. If the idea had been followed to its logical conclusion, which, fortunately, it was not, the depositors and owners of the well managed banks would have been heavily penalized, and, perhaps, ruined, to meet the losses incurred by incompetents. In the end, sound banking in Nebraska would have been rendered impossible and liquid capital would have been driven out of the state.

In this light, the guarantee law may be seen for what it is: a museum piece of wild jackass legislation, marked as it is by a maximum of good intentions and a minimum of savvy. It is probably no accident that the law was enacted in the state of Senator Norris. The law may be regarded as an effort to pool a part of the resources of the banks of the state. In this respect it bears a curious resemblance to the progress of banking in other wild jackass communities, though elsewhere the principle has not been applied so recklessly. The greatest concentrations of banking resources over wide areas are to be found, strangely enough, in California with its branch banks and in the chain banking embracing Wisconsin, Minnesota and points west, which is to say in the abiding places of political radicalism in this country. The fact is striking enough to warrant a search for causal relations. It is not likely that the concentrations of capital caused the radical movement, because, for the most part, the concentrations followed, rather than preceded, the political irregularities. It is far more likely that the existence of radicalism, with its threat to property rights, has forced capital into a close defensive alliance.

AMERICA'S ATTITUDE TOWARD EUROPE.

The American instinct against involvements in Europe is understandable. It not only is in the tradition of the finest American statesmanship, but it has its origin in the experiences of the people. From the beginning they have been for the most part people escaping from undesirable if not intolerable conditions at home. They were the victims of religious persecution, harsh laws, social inequalities, and economic distress.

Misfortunes experienced or dreaded were serious enough to prepare them for an adventure full of hardship. For landsmen, at least, the voyage across the sea was a terror, but they were willing to meet it to get away from terrors at home. The first comers were ill fitted for life in America, but they were willing to risk their lives in hardships here rather than to endure the greater hardships at home.

America was populated with people having just grievances against their old homes, their governments, and the conditions from which they had escaped. Persecutions, as in religion, savage laws for the protection of favored classes and poverty and distress had driven them out. Furthermore, at times when voluntary expatriation was not recruiting for the English colonies quickly enough, the press gang and jail deliveries aided in the work. Here again was a class which held a grudge against the mother country.

In the origins of the American colonies there was the certainty of revolt even if British administration had been wiser than it was, and when the revolt was successful there was the other certainty of a strongly developed sentiment against close association in European affairs. There were, indeed, interests in Europe with which the new United States had no concern. The American people had struggled to get away from them, to cut all political bonds with them and to be free from them. There were old social and political injustices, caste society and the doctrine of superior advantages for selected people, wars and tyrannies and ills which Europe has not corrected yet.

It is no wonder that the people who had rid themselves of these things did not want to be brought back into contact or association with them. The American instinct also realized that America had been from the first and would be, unless resistance to it were sufficient, a place of exploitation for European powers. This was the European instinct, to look to America for advantages forcibly gained. Europe had first obtained gold, then raw materials, and then markets in America. It had used America for its excess population, expecting that its expatriated people would work for the interest of the country they had left.

This view of America persists abroad now. The American tariff is regarded as an injury to the right of Europe to sell its goods in a free market. Immigration restriction is considered an injustice against the right of man to seek his advantage in the United States regardless of the interests or wishes of the American citizens. When America made its contribution to the allies in the war that was accepted as a payment of a natural debt of America to Europe, not as the incurring of a just debt by the benefited nations.

In such experiences and such observations the prudent American people find their traditional objection to returning to association with European countries in matters of international policies and politics. For good cause they broke away and they do not want to renew the contact.

PROHIBITION PUERILITIES.

The women from various parts of the country who appeared in Washington to defend the Volstead act and the eighteenth amendment further revealed the juvenility of observation and reasoning which supports the noble experiment after ten years of experience. These ladies, wives of Yale and Harvard professors, representatives and leaders in various women's organizations, etc., seemed to have been to great pains to avoid informing themselves and to deny both causes and consequences when they were obtrusive.

This determination to misrepresent facts and to assail the moral character of the opposition is a characteristic of prohibition advocacy. It indicates the weakness of the Volstead cause and also the unpleasant character of prohibition leadership, male and female. The opposition to Volsteadism presented men and women of high type, intellectually capable of understanding the fundamentals of their government, honest in their observation of conditions and sincere in their concern for the nation's good.

Prohibition has sent to Washington men and women whose disagreeable temperaments and juvenile psychology are exhibited only to accelerate the general reaction against the rule of unconscionable fanaticism.

Editorial of the Day

MR. CHAPLIN'S NEW VENTURE.

[New York World.]

Mr. Charles Chaplin, according to an announcement by his representatives, will abandon the talkies from now on and devote his energies to making the kind of silent pictures that made him so famous. We have no doubt that he will be successful in this, but we have every doubt that he will halt the advance of the talkies, or that it is desirable that he should. The trouble with all the lamentation that one hears about the passing of the silent picture, and with it the fine art of pantomime, is that it is based almost solely on the art of this same Mr. Chaplin. Ask a mourner for the good old days what he means by the fine art of pantomime, and nine times out of ten he will cite the achievements of Mr. Chaplin, assuming that this settles the argument. But Mr. Chaplin, in our opinion, was one in a million. He brought pantomime to an exquisite state of refinement, but that most of his colleagues could do a tenth as well we never could see.

The truth is that the old silent picture, except when played by Mr. Chaplin or by somebody with a small share of his talent, was the dullest kind of mugging, and to apply the word pantomime to it is to be most careless of the English language. So remote from real pantomime were its posturings, so incapable of conveying the simplest idea, that before its knell was rung it was depending almost entirely on the wisecrack subtitle to make its story intelligible. The talkies in many instances are pretty poor, but on the whole they are appreciably more endurable than the gelatin tears, fist fights and cheap printed gags that preceded them.

If Mr. Chaplin chooses to go on making silent pictures, isn't there room for them as well as for talkies? Is there any rule that all pictures must be of the same kind? It seems to us that the main point, and indeed the only point, is that the pictures be entertaining, and if Mr. Chaplin can entertain best in pantomime, all well and good. But it is a little silly to mourn something of which he was almost the only authentic exponent.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

LOOKING OVER THE NEWS YESTERDAY—

was a bit boring. Mr. Briand walked out on the Naval Parley, but he's always walking out on everything. He'll be back, but maybe he'll have to hurry. If he waits too long he's liable to find the house dark and everybody gone home. Even England seems to be getting fed up on the thing, and after the delegates have to buy their own groceries and not go around to luncheons and dinners and other things that they used to be invited to a dozen times a day they may decide to let the battleships live a while longer and go back where they came from.

Astronomers discovered a new planet and now there's nine of those darned things. This one hasn't got a name yet and the newspapers will probably be offering prizes for the best name for the new planet, and it will probably be called Percival or Clarence or something like that, so what's the use of finding it? Anyhow, it's invisible without a telescope, and there's no use of planning to go there on your vacation. And the fact that they've found it won't have any effect on the 18th amendment or the stock market, so we should worry a lot about the new planet.

And the Lit. Digest that is always carrying on a poll about something or other says that if Illinois were to take a referendum today only one out of four votes cast would be for a strict enforcement of the 18th amendment and the Volstead act. If you can get any satisfaction out of that, go ahead and get plenty. But if you think it's going to get you any light wine or beer at dinner tonight just get ready for a deep and bitter disappointment. Counting in advance on what the sovereign voter is going to do when he gets a real hope-to-die ballot in his hands is like telling what horse will win the Derby by counting the hairs in his tail.

PORTRAIT OF AN AVIATRIX.

Star-dust caught in her blown hair one night—
Shaken across the desert from the starry skies—
And the emerald-amethyst world beneath her flight
Shines and dies out in her mysterious eyes.

Feel of the air is in her steel-slim fingers,
And her cool voice is as silver as atmosphere,
While ever and all about her definitely lingers
A sense of space—illimitable—crystal clear.

The path of the planets where four winds meet and pass,
The gold of a comet's trail across the sea,
The shine of the summer sun like gauze of brass
Are none so intangibly lovely, I think, as she.

JAYHAWKER.

"DRINKING," said Alonzo Stagg to the congressional investigating committee yesterday, "is not a problem at the University of Chicago." Ah, the congressman should have asked Alonzo if getting up towards first place in Big Ten football was not a problem at the U. of C., and they might have drawn out the admission it was indeed quite a question; and, furthermore, that STAGG FEARS PURDUE.

BUT, REMEMBER— ONLY 54 DAYS MORE!

R. H. L.: Sure, I know that counting from last Saturday I'll have a job in 60 days. But I'm just as c. to k. as Snowshoe Al regarding groceries and soup bones UNTIL THEN. Here the farm board is spending two hundred and fifty million bucks buying up wheat and things and storing 'em away so the farmers won't have to take low prices for their stuff. They've millions of bushels of wheat they're saving in elevators and they've even bought eight million bucks' worth of goats so the guys that raised the goats can have money. Well, I don't know anything about wheat, so I'm not asking for a job as watchman at a government elevator. But I'm hell on goats. Used to play with 'em when I was a boy and I know all about 'em. Well, why can't you write to Washington and get me a job as nursemaid or valet or something to all those goats the government's got? Go on, do something, I gotta eat. BILDAD THE SHUHITE.

VICE PRESIDENT CURTIS with a thrilling war whoop jumped in yesterday, voted to break a tie when the senate stood 40-40 on the question of raising the duty on spring clothespins from 15 to 20 cents a gross. The Vice President voted to increase. All right, Mr. Curtis, the girls who do their own washing and hang the clothes out on the line to dry are going to remember that. Oh, yes, indeed. Wait for the slogan, "He kept us out of clothespins."

oh bitter rose that whorls the dark of this pale region
pale even in this night of leaves and leafing yodrasil where I have seen your shadow pass I have seen blood blood not of bodies but of the rude clay where I have seen your shadow halt I halt and still the trees are strangers even the rosy pines

II.

oh bitter bloom on the indigo of sky
I dripped you like a staining liquid in my eyes felt the burst of your petals and was blind now all I can feel is the feathers of a dead bird soundless under my fingers even upon the throat

LAGNIAPPE.

AH, THE WHANGDOODLE. See See Saw says he noticed our reference to the whangdoodle and wants to know whereabouts in the Bible reference to the animal is made. You are all wet, See See Saw; the whangdoodle is not named in the Bible, not even among the animals that old man Noah shipped aboard the Ark. The whangdoodle is a native of the far south and is found only in regions bordering on the Gulf of Mexico. It has a round head like a polar bear, the body of a wolf, and wings like an eagle. It is green and purple, with yellow polka dots on its tall feathers. It has a peculiar voice and mispronounces words like a radio announcer, and is inordinately fond of ice cream mixed with molasses and chewing gum. It may be often seen in deep pine forests sitting on the topmost branches of the trees singing soft and low to its wife and little ones.

NO LAST LINE TODAY! The farm board is buying up all our last lines at more than market price to carry out its plan of column relief.

BASKETBALL FOR HEALTH.

THE PHYSICIANS' TIMES magazine recently carried a story about the invention of basketball. Practically all games just grow. They start in some simple way and then evolve step by step, but never with any definite end in view. Not so with basketball.

Dr. J. A. Naismith set out deliberately to make a game to meet certain ends and to proceed in certain ways. He was as cold blooded about it as is a racketeer in planning to bump off a business competitor. In his judgment the prevailing major athletic games were causing athletes to become heavy and muscle bound. When the Athenians were planning to best the Spartans they decided that the latter were too heavily muscled and slow, and that they would develop for the youth of Athens a method of training that would result in lighter, longer muscles; in more agility, dexterity, speed and grace, but less muscle power.

Dr. Naismith sought to invent a game which would make athletes "tall, agile, and graceful." The Times magazine says that in spite of the changes in the game since Dr. Naismith launched it the premium on speed and agility still remains and the excelling basketball players are of that build and type. It is possible that the premium put on people of that build and the popularity of basketball as a game for women have been contributing factors in modifying the build of women.

In one respect the game has not held to the inventor's plans. As originated, basketball was to be a mass game. As many as fifty played at a time. It was to be a game for the players, and not for spectators. This meant that no one was to specialize in it exactly, and no one was to develop outstanding skill in it. Anybody and everybody at hand were to get out on the floor and take part. It may be remembered that such was the Athenian plan, and, let us add, the plan went to pieces just as it did with basketball: presently the Athenians were divided sharply into skillful players and carping, bench warming critics. Plato and other wise men of the day thought Athens took its place on the skids when play ceased to be universal and the ringside boys began to organize.

The change in basketball has resulted in perfecting the game. The players are most expert. They are likewise fine athletes. But its advantages are not being reaped by the masses.

OVERCOME LOW BLOOD PRESSURE.

Miss L. P. J. writes:

1. Please tell me how to overcome low blood pressure.
2. I have been told that I have an enlarged left ventricle. Will that tend to shorten my life? Would it be harmful for me to take a few simple exercises, as I do office work?
3. Would diphtheria cause my heart to be enlarged?

REPLY:

1. One kind of low blood pressure is improved by dieting. The diet should be poor in starch and sweet foods. It should consist largely of sour milks of all kinds, including acidophilus milk, buttermilk, and lactic acid milk. Lactose is a good substitute for ordinary sugar.
2. Probably you need to take exercise.
3. That disease often causes heart trouble.

WHEN HEART IS SMALL.

Q. writes:

1. If the heart is small does this affect the pulse?
2. If blood is 90 per cent does this affect the temperature?

TRY EATING 'EM.

Alton, Ill., March 9.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—What can be done about a flock of pigeons with which I am being pestered and have been for the last five years?

They roost in a nearby barn and spend their entire days on the roofs of my residence and outbuildings. They eat about half my chicken feed right along and are a general nuisance.

I know to whom they are supposed to belong, and have asked if he will not get rid of them, but to no avail. N. T.

We know of no satisfactory legal remedy. We hear that some persons pursue with apparent satisfaction, under such provocation, the nonlegal remedy of quietly catching and eating enough of the marauding fowls to balance their damage.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

NO EXEMPTION.

Streator, Ill., March 11.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Can a car that is six or seven years old be assessed for taxes? F. J. K.

Yes. There is no exemption from the personal property tax.

CANNOT CLAIM WIFE'S PROPERTY.

Chicago, March 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. If a man fails in business, can his creditors claim his wife's property to settle the debts of the firm? There are two partners in the company.

2. How much of his personal property and household goods is he allowed to keep by law after his firm is declared bankrupt? T. T. D.

MEADE AVENUE IMPROVEMENT.

Chicago, March 11. — [Friend of the People.]—Kindly give me information in regard to the proposed paving of Meade avenue, signed contracts for which are in the hands of Anderson Paving company. W. T. J.

The Robert R. Anderson company have entered into a private contract with the property owners to pave Meade avenue, between Irving Park boulevard and Berteau avenue, and are planning to start on the work as soon as the weather will permit.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 14, 1865.

CITY POINT, Va.—A Richmond paper contains a report from Gen. Lee to J. C. Breckenridge, rebel secretary of war, in which he says: "Gen. Hampton attacked Gen. Kilpatrick at daylight and drove him from his camp, taking his guns, wagons, and several hundred prisoners, as well as relieving a great many of our men who had been captured. Many of the enemy were killed and wounded. Our loss is not heavy. You will note the locality of the fight is not given. This is for prudential reasons. It would be imprudent to tell where Sherman is, for that would be giving Grant news of his progress. Matters are beginning to look decidedly better for us in the south."

WASHINGTON.—Gen. Sheridan reported on his operations in the Shenandoah valley, including the capture of Gen. Early by Custer's division and the occupation of Charlottesville. Many miles of railroad in the vicinity of Lynchburg, and numerous mills, dams and bridges were destroyed, and James River canal, which is the feeder for Richmond, was cut.

LOUISVILLE.—The intelligence will everywhere be received with satisfaction that the unsexed female rebel, Sue Mundy, whose name and cruelties have been for months a terror in Kentucky, has been captured and is in jail here. She was taken by 50 men of the 30th Wisconsin when she and two other guerrilla leaders were surrounded in a barn in Meade county. Three of our men were wounded and one killed in the fight before the trio was taken.

CHICAGO.—Warren G. Purdy and Miss A. L. Colby were married at St. Paul's church on March 13 by the Rev. Dr. Ryder.

CHICAGO.—The oldest man in America is in Chicago. He is Joseph Crely, a French-American, born in Detroit in September, 1726, and there baptized on Sept. 13 of that year. He arrived at the Museum on Saturday. He is short, compactly built and likely to live many years yet. He has drunk three glasses of whisky daily for many years, no more, no less, and is a hard smoker.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 14, 1900.

LONDON.—Some of Lord Roberts' forces and the cavalry under Gen. French are now only two and one-half miles from Bloemfontein, with French holding two hills commanding the town. Mafeking's troubles are becoming more serious daily. A dispatch from Lady Sarah Wilson says five horses are killed daily for the soup kitchens now supplying the natives. There was heavy bombardment by the Boers a week ago.

LONDON.—The United States chargé d'affaires, Henry White, received from Lord Salisbury a formal reply from the British government declining the good offices of the United States in mediating the British-Boer troubles. He had been instructed from Washington to offer the services of his country as mediator.

CHICAGO—John H. Loomis, principal of the Wells school, Ashland avenue and Augusta street, swore out warrants for a number of his pupils because they snowballed him. Fritz Holzkamp, 13, was the only boy arrested. All the others fled when detectives went to the schoolhouse with the warrants.

TOPEKA, Kas.—The Topeka Capital's regular readers didn't like the Rev. C. M. Sheldon's ideas when the first issue of the paper, edited as the minister believes Christ would edit it, appeared, but the preachers approved. First page articles today are on the growth of socialism in Massachusetts, a plan for mutual insurance of churches, prison management and cost of crime in Topeka.

CHICAGO—Estimated returns from the Chicago registration give a total of 91,320 eligible to vote in the coming primaries and elections. In March, 1898, the total was 74,151.

CHICAGO—The engagement of Miss Lillian Bell, the writer, 3930 Lake avenue, and Arthur Hoyt Bogue is announced. The wedding will take place early in May.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 14, 1920.

BERLIN.—The government of Friedrich Ebert, the Socialist president of the German republic, was overthrown by a military coup d'état. Gen. von Hindenburg is spoken of as the temporary "imperial president" pending new elections. Late reports indicate that the revolt is spreading rapidly throughout the provinces. A dispatch says that several conflicts between troops and workmen have occurred at Frankfort-on-Main, and that many men were injured. Dr. Wolfgang Kapp has taken over the duties of chancellor and has temporarily assumed supreme direction of affairs.

COBLENZ.—Marshal Foch issued orders that additional troops be moved across the Rhine into the Coblenz, Cologne, and Mayence bridgehead territories.

PARIS.—Allied statesmen who had gathered in Paris to send a mission to Russia and otherwise try to restore quiet in Europe were thrown into dismay by the news of the militaristic coup d'état at Berlin. All over Paris arose the cry that France alone had foreseen this danger and warned the world.

CHICAGO.—Eddie Brislane, former Pontiac convict and hero of a series of afternoon newspaper articles entitled "Beating Back," confessed that he shot and killed William Mills, manager of the Crawford theater. "There was no reason for it," he said. "I was drunk and a damn fool."

CHICAGO.—Mrs. Gertrude Harrison Mann, a prominent music teacher and divorced wife of William B. Mann, attorney for the Chicago Telephone company, was found murdered in a secluded spot in Cleveland park, a fashionable residence section on the outskirts of Washington, D. C. The crime is believed to have been committed by a Negro.

MORE JOBS, BETTER BUSINESS.

Chicago, March 10.—There appeared in your issue of March 10, 1930, an editorial entitled "More Jobs and Better Business." This editorial was most timely and pertinent. It stressed the fact that in connection with the effort to lessen unemployment and stimulate business, much could be done by the construction of public works and buildings, and reference was made to the proposed new Chicago postoffice and the Illinois waterway.

I desire to call your attention to the fact there are two propositions now pending which would directly ameliorate the unemployment situation and stimulate general business conditions in Chicago. These are:

1. Settlement of the traction problem and commencement of construction of subway and elevated and street car line extensions. Under the traction plan proposed construction work approximating $200,000,000 would be undertaken within ten years. This would supply work for thousands of men directly and for thousands more indirectly, and at the same time would tend to stimulate activity in real estate. According to Oscar Hewitt, a most able and conservative correspondent, improved traction facilities would add approximately a billion dollars to real estate values in Chicago. One of the reasons for the slack in business is lack of activity in real estate, and in construction work. Actual work on Chicago's transportation system would do a great deal for Chicago real estate directly, in addition to providing work for thousands of artisans, mechanics, and laborers.

2. Payment of judgments for property condemned on Ashland and Western avenues and La Salle street, and commencement of construction work in relation thereto. These propositions, in the form of bond issues, are on the ballot at the election next April 8. They approximate $24,000,000 in amount. These issues should not be confused with other proposals for which bonds were proposed to be issued the expenditure of which money was uncertain, indefinite and merely estimated. The amounts listed in the coming election are actual judgments rendered in condemnation cases by the Circuit and Superior courts in lawsuits, most of which were commenced in 1921 at the suggestion of the Chicago Plan commission. These amounts cannot be varied in any particular whatsoever, and their payment is merely a matter of procedure, the property owners being paid by check of the city controller. Thus there is no foundation for the erroneous idea that the money may be squandered or misused.

Experience in similar projects has indicated that improvements are made of approximately twice the amount of the judgments awarded by court procedure. Hence bond issues for $24,000,000 would mean expenditure of $45,000,000 or $50,000,000.

EIGHT HEARTS, DOUBLED.

Chicago, March 7.—In regard to the various letters regarding the problem of an "eight hearts doubled" bid, it might be suggested that no bridge player who has given more than elementary consideration to the game would bother estimating the profit and loss possibilities of such a hand. Rule 21 of the Laws of Auction Bridge says:

If a player bid more than seven, the bid is void, the offender and his partner are barred from further participation in the auction, and either opponent may:

[a] Demand a new deal.

[b] Require the declaration to be played by the offending side at seven, doubled or undoubled.

[c] Direct that the auction revert to the last legitimate declaration and be continued by his side from that point.

It might further be suggested that much better bridge, both auction and contract [since this rule also applies to contract], would be played if the average player would provide himself with, and carefully study, a copy of the rules of the game. HARRY G. MITCHELL.

HEGON O'REGON AND HIS SQUICKETS.

Chicago, March 10.—Who says the Irish are not funny? On March 17 they will celebrate the natal day of a man who was born on Aug. 15. A number of the Irish will be proud when they are called "Celts."

March 17 is the birthday of Hegon O'Regon (Heogeoghoen Or'Reogeoghoen), the first known European to circumnavigate the globe. He was a Gael. There never was a nation that lived on the face of the earth that were called Celts any more than there is a race known as Anglo-Saxons or Scotch-Irish to designate certain immigrants to the United States that came by the way of Ireland.

There is abundant proof by the number of squicket stones scattered all over Iceland, Finland, Norway, Sweden and Greenland to bear O'Regon's statement that he "visited the top of the world" or the north pole. Chinese historians and the squicket stones in China bear witness to O'Regon's visits there. There are references to the old Gaels in the Old Testament and it is now accepted that the "lost tribes of Israel" were nothing but the bands of Gaels who returned home.

Wherever a squicket stone is found you can be sure that it marked the spot of some ancient Gaelic settlement, for the stone was erected on a spot selected by O'Regon as a seat of learning.

Further proof of O'Regon's visit to northern Europe can be found in the fact that students of the ancient Gaels can today converse with residents of Iceland and Finland and in parts of Norway and Sweden. O'Regon left copious notes of his discoveries, explorations and colonization and these can now be read in English in the book called "Voyages of Hegon O'Regon."

How St. Patrick came to be connected with the shamrock is a mystery, for this should belong to O'Regon, who, being the Luther Burbank of his day, evolved the shamrock. March 17 is O'Regon's birthday and it also marked the opening day of the ancient feast of Tara.

So next Monday the "Celts" will observe a holiday in honor of a man who was born in August. They will laugh at the "dumb" Swedes and Norwegians, not knowing that in Norway and Sweden, in the shape of the sagas, are preserved the purest of ancient Gaelic folklore and that the present day Eskimos are full blood brothers to the ancient Gaels. For people who brag so much of their race, the Irish in America know less about themselves than any other people.

THE USUAL PERCENTAGE.

Wisconsin Rapids, Wis., March 1.—Your Sunday edition supplies unwittingly a commentary which might well be termed "The Economic Triumph of Personality Over Intellect." On the first page is the tribute to the brilliance of the professors who competed in the $5 word history of the United States with casual mention of THE TRIBUNE'S unusually well placed generosity, in this instance totaling $2,100. On page 3 of the same section is the far more interesting notice of the personality contest, the awards of which amount to $22,000. The writer hastens to extend his praise to THE TRIBUNE in its worthy efforts to reward virtue, whatever may be its manifestations, and banishes all thought of comparison.

J. D. WHITE.

FOR A GAG LAW.

Chicago, March 11.—We should have the Minnesota gag law in Illinois also. Then maybe the dirty CHICAGO TRIBUNE would not be so noisy about prohibition.

ALBERT J. TOY.

LAWBREAKING.

Chicago, Feb. 18.—Mrs. Willebrandt appears to me typical of all prohibitionists. She does not seem indisposed to violate any law or regulation which inconveniences her, and even when she has violated it she defies the courts, refusing to answer a charge. The public is rapidly comprehending these hypocrites. EDWARD VAIL.

DOCTORS URGE FEDERAL AID IN WAR ON CANCER

Specialists Tell of Work to Combat Disease.

Washington, D. C., March 13.—(AP)—Doctors high in their profession, after lifelong efforts to stem the ravages of cancer, today pooled their judgment on the disease and man's chance for ultimately conquering it, in testimony before senators who hoped to line up the federal government with the combatants.

They expressed divergent views on causes and possible cures, but they urged unanimously that the government take steps immediately to assist in fighting the disease that yearly takes the lives of more than 100,000 Americans.

Drs. Walter B. Coffey and John D. Humber of California told of relieving pain and of breaking down cancerous tissue in more than 1,300 sufferers previously considered hopeless. They said those afflicted with cancer had been chosen from hundreds who came "grasping at a straw" to their hospital in San Francisco; but they emphasized that they are working on a "theory" and that they claim "neither treatment nor cure."

Others Will Be Heard.

Senator Harris, Democrat, Georgia, who initiated a movement for federal participation in search for a cure, said afterward that he would continue inquiry into the matter, hearing other scientists within a few days. He is chairman of a subcommittee of the senate commerce committee, which today heard the scientists.

The witnesses were unanimous also in pleading for a national institute of health, with fellowships and other machinery for combating all diseases, and for a proposal for coördination of all public health activities of the government.

Senator Harris said that the proposals for greater participation by the government in fights against all disease would be pressed, but that he would push, independently, a bill that will be drafted by the committee to provide immediate steps with respect to cancer.

Drs. Coffey and Humber described their discovery of an "active principle"—a "stabilizer," which they said they believed nature set up in the human body, particularly in two ductless glands above the kidneys, to regulate the growth of cells, the smallest unit of human tissue.

They made an extract of this material, Coffey said, and gave it to patients whose families understood that the work was experimental and that no cure was promised.

Pain Is Eliminated.

"After the first injection," Coffey added, "the patient, usually suffering great pain, has a relief. After the second and third, pain disappears. Also as a result of the injection of the extract there is the result that the malignant tissue begins to slough or to break down."

REPORTS ARE DISCOUNTED.

Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the Journal of the American Medical association, warned the public last night not to place too much trust in published reports stating that two San Francisco surgeons had discovered a method of "breaking down" cancerous growth. The physicians, Drs. Walter B. Coffey and John D. Humber, were said to have noted results in 1,300 cases with the use of an extract which they had discovered.

"Drs. Coffey and Humber," said Dr. Fishbein, "have stated repeatedly in personal messages to me that not at any time have they claimed that their process was established in any sense as a cure for cancer. They have merely undertaken an experiment in the attempt to show that the process modifies cell growth.

Many Seek Treatment.

"The hundreds of letters and telegrams received at the headquarters of the American Medical association from persons anxious to spend their last cent in an endeavor to obtain this treatment indicates the menace of exaggerated statements concerning a new method of cancer control."

Dr. Fishbein's attention was called to a Washington statement claiming that patients receiving the treatment gained relief from pain.

"This reported relief from pain," he said, "is a common phenomena with any new treatment applied in the treatment of cancer."

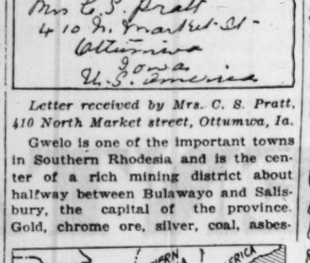
Gwelo is one of the important towns in Southern Rhodesia and is the center of a rich mining district about halfway between Bulawayo and Salisbury, the capital of the province. Gold, chrome ore, silver, coal, asbestos, and mica are the chief mineral products of the province. The British South Africa company administered the colony until 1923, when it was formally annexed to the British dominion.



KIDNAP VICTIM EX-WIFE INDICTED AS CONSPIRATOR

Mrs. Myrtle C. Thoren was charged with being an accomplice of six men in a kidnaping conspiracy in an indictment returned yesterday by the grand jury to Chief Justice D. J. Normoyle of the Criminal court. Mrs. Thoren, who also goes by the names of Gorman and Resnick, is the former wife of Theodore Kopelman, insurance broker, who was kidnaped for $5,000 ransom.

Michael (Jack) Rosenberg, brother-in-law of Seymour Pellar, one of the men indicted for the kidnaping, was named in the conspiracy indictment which accused Mrs. Thoren. It was in his apartment, he confessed, that Kopelman was held prisoner for one night. He said he received $70 from Pellar for the use of the apartment. Rosenberg is to be a state's witness in the trial of Pellar, Irving Sandler, Sam Gold, Charles (Chick) Hadesman, and Norman Resnick.

Mrs. Thoren, who posed as the widow of Pete Gusenberg, one of the seven members of the Moran gang slain on St. Valentine's day, 1929, is held under $10,000 bond. It appeared yesterday that she might not be able to win release because of the requirements of the prosecutor's office that she put up unencumbered real estate for surety.

U. S. OFFICIALS IN HAITI DEFEND AMERICAN RULE

Refute Charges to Hoover Board.

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, March 13.—(AP)—Five American officials of the United States occupation in Haiti today gave the Hoover investigating commission reports of their work and refuted charges made against them in hearings last week.

With their testimony, the hearings are virtually ended. The commission hopes to concentrate its remaining time in scanning written reports and in clearing up the troubled political situation.

After a conference with President Louis Borno late today the commission announced the president had become more conciliatory in his attitude toward their plan for a provisional government and legislative elections in Haiti. He is still holding out, however, against the holding of legislative elections this spring, insisting that they should not be held before 1932.

Reveal American Viewpoint.

Today was the first time the American officials had had a chance to tell their side. Four spoke publicly—Sidney de Larue, financial adviser and general receiver; Commander G. A. Duncan, director of public works; Col. Frank Evans, commandant of the Garde D'Haiti, and Dr. K. C. Melhorn, director of the service d'hygiene.

The fifth witness, Dr. George F. Freeman, director of the much attacked Service Technique, the vocational training school which was the center of a student strike months ago, requested a private hearing.

Mr. Larue defended the financial régime, which many Haitians have praised. He said the per capita tax had been increased only 20 cents since 1924 and that the public debt per capita had been cut from 60 to 44 guordes [a gourde is 20 cents], and that the internal revenue had been developed until it was now half the revenue of the government.

Col. Evans recommended a law providing transfer of control of the garde to Haitians as soon as possible.

WOLFE WRITES A BOOK; NOW COMES THE BILL

Commissioner Hunts Cash for Printing "Extra."

Commissioner of Public Works Wolfe yesterday was reported to be searching for a convenient fund of city money out of which to pay for the printing of the 1930 edition of "The Straightening of the Chicago River." The book has been published and copies of it widely distributed, but a hitch has arisen in the arrangements for paying the printer.

In the volume Commssioner Wolfe has told of the progress of the river improvement since April, 1927, when Mayor Thompson entered the office of mayor for the third time. He ignores the lengthy negotiations, carried out under other administrations, which paved the way for the actual digging.

Printed by Igoe Company.

Arrangements had been made for the James T. Igoe Printing company, headed by Congressman James T. Igoe, to print 2,000 copies of the work at a total cost of $2,707. But when the Igoe bill was presented at the city hall it was for $3,307, a difference of $600, which is holding up the payment.

By council authorization of July, 1929, the printing bill was to be paid out of the funds of the council railway terminals committee. Ald. E. J. Kaindl [28th], chairman of the committee, consented to the plan months ago as the committee appropriation at the time was $90,000, and work was at a standstill.

But the printing bill came too late for payment out of the 1929 appropriations. The committee's budget for this year is only $60,000 and with activity on terminal and street opening plans increasing, Ald. Kaindl has thus far refused to approve the bill.

Wolfe Authorizes Extra.

The "extra" of $600, according to the bill, was authorized by Commissioner Wolfe. The bill reads, "Additional charges as per Nov. 4 letter of Wolfe, $600." Wolfe also authorized without council order an "extra" on the river straightening project, for which the Great Lakes Dredge and Dock company is now trying to collect $150,000 from the city.

In the appropriation for Wolfe's office is an item of $5,200 for printing, stationery, and office supplies. Some of this has been encumbered and as most of the remainder will be needed for office work, the opinion in the city hall was that Wolfe would have to seek an additional appropriation or obtain a transfer of funds from some other account.

In presenting copies of his friends Wolfe does not mention that the book is to be paid for out of the taxpayers' money. A separate sheet in the front of the volume announces, "With the compliments of Richard W. Wolfe, Commissioner of Public Works."

Several aldermen who have seen the book said yesterday that much of the contents, with the exception of a change in the names of public officials and in pictures of the same officials, follows closely that of the volume published during the late Mayor Dever's administration.

The reader who seeks illustration or description of the river improvements finds them only after some delay, the aldermen said. There come to attention first the pictures of Mayor Thompson, Commissioner Wolfe and Deputy Commissioner Moore. The text is arranged in a like manner. Praise of Mayor Thompson comes before any mention is made of the river straightening, the aldermen said.

The Igoe Printing company recently has been the target of allegations that it overcharged the county for the printing of personal property tax lists during a period of six years. Last week the county board directed State's Attorney Swanson to file suit against the company for the recovery of $62,306.

DENEEN WORKER IS CHARGED WITH PRECINCT KILLING

John Pampinella, a Deneen worker in the Forty-second ward, was last night formally booked for murder at the Chicago avenue station in connection with the shooting to death on Tuesday, primary registration day, of the Rev. William H. Slaughter, a 30 year old colored worker for the Thompson faction. Pampinella will be arraigned in Felony court this morning and, it is expected, will be granted bail pending reopening of the inquest on March 25.

After three hours yesterday of witness quizzing, Coroner Herman N. Bundesen declared that he hadn't yet "unscrambled the political situation apparently responsible for this murder," and ordered the continuance. Deputy Commissioner John P. Stege, who attended the hearing personally after hearing rumors of possible violence on the part of the contending factions, instructed Lieut. Otto Erlanson to take charge of the inquiry and produce, if possible, eyewitnesses to the shooting.

Police Blame Politics.

Slaughter was killed in an alley a block from the registration place of his precinct, the 19th, at 603 Division street. The death spot, in the heart of the north side Sicilian quarter, is within a stone's throw of the scenes of several score of unsolved murders. Police are certain that squabbles between the three Republican factions in the ward, the Deneen, the Thompson, and the Brundage, brought about the killing, and they refer to the murder as "a Granady murder in miniature."

Pampinella, who is 25 years old and resides at 1125 Larrabee street, is the sole suspect held and most of yesterday's testimony was from witnesses offering alibis for him.

Pampinella was arrested by Sergt. Philip O'Neill after Daniel Fuller, colored, of 1221 Vine street, identified him as entering the alley with Slaughter and several other Negroes shortly before the killing.

Witnesses Under Protection.

Later Fuller retracted his identification, which led Lieut. George DeMar to keep other principal colored witnesses under surveillance lest they be intimidated.

Richard J. Prendergast, Deneen leader in the Forty-second ward, who was defeated for alderman in the last election by Dorsey Crowe, marshaled yesterday's alibi witnesses for Pampinella. One, Tony Jeffery, who keeps the grocery at the polling place, was sure Pampinella was "in or around" the grocery when Slaughter was killed. Sam Cherry, a deputy income tax collector, who is Prendergast's captain of the precinct, dispatched Pampinella to his father's near by grocery for cookies at almost the precise moment the shots were fired, he testified; and an aged Negro, Henry Davis, told of borrowing a dollar from Pampinella at the Cherry grocery.

MINNIE R. COWAN TO BE FETED AT SCHOOL DINNER

Miss Minnie R. Cowan, former district superintendent of schools, who retired last month after more than fifty years' service in the public schools of Chicago, will be the principal guest at a dinner to be given tomorrow noon at the Stevens hotel. Supt. Bogan and other school officials and friends of the veteran teacher will attend.

MINNIE R. COWAN

Miss Cowan began as an elementary teacher in the McClellan school, later being promoted to assistant principal. In succeeding years, she was principal of the Brenan, McAllister and P. D. Armour schools. In 1909 she was appointed superintendent of district 12, a post she held until her retirement. William R. Browlin, principal of the Robert Fulton school, is chairman of the committee in charge of the dinner.

Detroit's 8 Cent Street Car Fare Is Postponed

Detroit, Mich., March 13. — [Special.]—The proposed increase in fares to 8 cents from 6 cents, which was to have become effective tomorrow midnight, was indefinitely postponed by the street railway commission today on recommendation of Mayor Bowles. This action immediately followed the decision handed down by three Circuit court judges that the commission had the right under the charter to fix the fare. Mayor Bowles recommended postponement because the council has indicated it would not approve extensions and improvements which he had contemplated financing through the fare raise.

FARRINGTON SAYS HIS $75,000 JOB HELPED MINERS

Ex-Leader Wins Seat at Insurgent Meeting.

BY THOMAS WREN.

Frank Farrington's $75,000 position with the Peabody Coal company, which he accepted in 1926 while still president of the Illinois Miners' union, furnished material for debate yesterday at the rump meeting of coal diggers in Springfield. It is expected that the convention will adjourn tomorrow night or early next week.

Farrington stated on the convention floor that he realized four years ago that a wage cut for bituminous miners was imperative. He said he accepted the Peabody position so he would be out of the way and the coal interests could lower the prevailing Jacksonville wage scale.

He Did No Work.

Interruptions by delegates punctured his speech as the former head of the miners declared he signed the three year contract at $25,000 a year, but never did any work in his capacity of labor director. It was pointed out by delegates that the company owns both union and nonunion coal mines.

During the day Farrington won a seat in the convention by a vote of 225 to 145. Later the delegates clamored for a roll call, which was denied by Alex Howat of Kansas, chairman. In pleading for a seat to preserve his honor in labor, the former Illinois leader explained that he signed the Peabody contract for the good of the union.

"All the political tricks ever played at a miners' convention are being played here," Delegates William Daeck of Panama, Ill., shouted.

"Think what the seating of Farrington will have on our efforts to reorganize the United Mine Workers of America. What confidence will coal miners have in a man who admits receiving $75,000 to step aside and permit a wage cut?"

Lewis Assails Farrington.

At the regular convention of the United Mine Workers in Indianapolis, John L. Lewis, international president, charged that Farrington is the real leader of the insurgent meeting at Springfield and declared he has directed the business affairs of the Illinois miners' since his retirement. The leader of the miners referred to John H. Walker, president of the Illinois Federation of Labor, as a blatherskite and a man possessed of ambitions for leadership, but lacking qualifications.

Frank Keeney, former head of the West Virginia district of the United Mine Workers, informed the Springfield meeting that the coal miners in his state would rally 100 per cent to the new organization.

Van A. Bittner, chief international organizer at Indianapolis, named a West Virginia insurgent who is active in the reorganization movement, and said he is a common gunman unfit to associate with any miner.

As the Springfield meeting nears adjournment Alex Howat of the Kansas Industrial court fame looms as the probable leader of the new insurgent organization. It was pointed out that Walker will possibly resign as president of the state labor federation to become secretary-treasurer of the outlaw union.

Despondent Over Love, Kills Self with Shotgun

BLACKHAWKS BEAT BOSTON, 3-2, IN OVERTIME

N. Y. GOLDEN GLOVES TEAM COMES WEST TODAY

28 FIGHTERS MARCH AGAINST CHICAGO BOYS

Clash Wednesday in Stadium Ring.

New York, March 13.—[Special.]—Twenty-eight members of New York's Golden Gloves team will board the Twentieth Century for Chicago tomorrow afternoon after a farewell luncheon at the Commodore hotel.

The fighters, who have been training here for more than three weeks since the city finals, which packed Madison Square Garden on Feb. 19, will do their road work in Central park for the last time tomorrow morning before packing their bags and visiting the Daily News office for last minute close-ups and group pictures.

Does It Mean Bad Luck?

The dark superstition that it is bad luck to travel on Friday, as can well be imagined, caused a fine furor among the boxers. Some one remembered this grim hypothesis at dinner last night and the topic was eagerly discussed.

It was decided that a totem pole should be included on the baggage wagon and that in addition to Al Caesar and Jack Elliott it would be advisable to have a witch doctor escort the team.

The workout was a little longer than usual because the fighters will miss a day of boxing on the train, and their routine will ease up in Chicago toward the night of the intercity finals on Wednesday.

BOXERS NEAR TOP FORM

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

The three round bout between Buck Everett of Gary, Ind., and Grant Fortney of Chicago featured another great day of training for the Chicago Golden Gloves boxer who will meet New York at the Chicago Stadium next Wednesday night.

Everett, who won the 175 pound championship of THE TRIBUNE tourney, and Fortney, champion in the heavyweight class, traded punch for punch. At times it looked as if either would be knocked out but they stood up under the bombardment. At the end of the bout they shook hands, skipped the rope, and were the best of friends.

Buck Hits Hard.

While the two fighters were dressing after the bout, Fortney said that Everett hit him harder than any opponent he faced during the tourney.

Coaches Yanger and Young were well pleased with the workout and they are satisfied it will take excellent boxers to beat those two next Wednesday.

Benny Goldblatt, featherweight champion, showed a lot of improvement in his three round bout with Arne Asp, alternate in the 135 pound class. Bennie was more aggressive and landed the punches which score in amateur boxing. Both fighters mixed their punches and there was plenty of toe to toe milling. Following the bout, the fighters pulled the weight and skipped the ropes.

Another interesting fight was between Joe Espinoza, 112 pound champion, and Sammy Levine, alternate in the class. They boxed three rounds and both finished strong. Joe flashed a clever left hand while Sammy scored with solid punches to the body and jaw. Johnny Emmerick, the runnerup in this class, will be in Chicago tomorrow to complete preparation.

Nice, White Mats Promised for N. Y. Golden Glove Boys

The following telegraphic repartee 'mong the Golden Gloves intercity tournament ensued last night between the sports editors of THE TRIBUNE and the New York Daily News:

"Maxwell:

"Recall that red canvas was used at TRIBUNE final bouts. This forms poor reflector of ring lights for pictures. We are bringing our own photographers and hope to make good pictures of bouts. Would appreciate it if you would hold out for ring canvas. I think it will help your own pictures, too. No offense intended. This suggestion from our studio. GALLICO,
"New York."

"Gallico:

"Inasmuch as invaders will spend most of their time on canvas, request for white floor granted. Pictures of New Yorkers on canvas will be O. K., whatever the lighting.
"MAXWELL,
"Chicago."

Golden Gloves Advance Sale Sets Record

BY DON MAXWELL.

William Sturm, capable member of THE TRIBUNE'S auditing staff, groaned last night as the telephone jingled for the 1,000th time.

"That's another of the big shots wanting to buy ten tickets," Bill said, "and when I tell him all the $3 seats are sold he's going to take up five minutes telling me just who he is, what a big business he represents, and whom he knows on THE TRIBUNE. Then I'll say 'Sorry, but all the $3 seats are sold,' and hang up."

By this time you'll have placed Bill as the gent in charge of the tickets for the intercity Golden Gloves bouts to be held Wednesday.

It was a fine job at first. But Bill's just a fall guy now. Folk in all TRIBUNE departments for several days have been telling their customers, their acquaintances, and cousins, "Call Bill Sturm. He handles the tickets."

21,000 Tickets Printed.

The intercity bouts are making history. For the first time in Chicago fistic records a boxing show is practically sold out one week in advance. This despite the fact that the show is to be held in the largest stadium in the country.

A few hundred less than 21,000 tickets were printed for the intercity bouts. Eighteen thousand of these are already in the pockets of fans. Excepting the Golden Glove finals, staged by the New York Daily News, and the intercity match held in Madison Square Garden last year, no amateur boxing program ever has aroused such interest.

Only a few hundred $2 reserved seats and a few thousand nonreserved $1 seats still are on sale at THE TRIBUNE'S Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street.

Reports reached THE TRIBUNE offices last night that speculators were selling $3 tickets for $10 apiece. Every effort to curb speculators has been and will be made.

N. Y. Drew Record Crowd.

But if you are inclined to be peeved because you haven't a ticket, and a scalper offers to hold you up, cool off. Remember the intercity tickets have been on sale—first come, first served—for more than a month.

The Daily News Golden Glove finals, which drew 21,794 to Madison Square Garden, for two years have held the record for indoor attendance at a boxing show.

It's a three to one wager that there'll be a new indoor boxing attendance mark set next Wednesday night.

Chicago can place the new record alongside of the team championship, which our valiant Golden Glove boys promise to win.

PEABODY LOSES TO FESSENDEN IN 18.2 MEET

St. Louis, Mo., March 13.—(AP)—Ray V. Fessenden of Madison, Wis., who is defending his title, overcame nearly a 100 point lead here today to defeat James J. Peabody of Chicago in the national amateur 18.2 balk line billiard tournament match, 300 to 289, in 40 innings. Fessenden clicked off 43 billiards in the final five frames to win from Peabody, who had needed but 18.

Percy Collins of Chicago, four times winner of the national crown, and who has grown stronger as the tournament progressed, overwhelmed Arie Schaap of St. Louis in another match, 300 to 171, in 23 innings. The victory again placed Collins in a tie for the lead with Edgar Appleby, New York millionaire, with three victories and no defeats.

McCARTHY SPLITS CUBS SQUAD FOR WEEK-END GAMES

Book Goofs at San Diego, Regulars at L. A.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Avalon, Cal., March 13.—Activities in the Cub camp today consisted of such exciting incidents as the splitting of the squad for week-end exhibition purposes. A second team is billed to meet Hollywood at San Diego, while the regulars are putting on Saturday and Sunday shows at Los Angeles.

Outside of this division of talent by Joe McCarthy it was just another day of camp life. In the morning the pitchers, hitters, and fielders went through the same old motions of training. In the afternoon the same pitchers, hitters, and fielders did it again. Their efforts to get excited over this monotonous program weren't assisted any by the cold, cloudy, damp weather which created a sudden boom in the overcoat market.

Stands Pat on Batting Order.

For this week-end, at least, McCarthy intends to stick to the same batting order with which he experimented in the battles last Saturday and Sunday. This arrangement has English leading off and Capt. Grimm swinging next. The four sluggers of the group follow in the same order that prevailed last season—Hornsby, Wilson, Cuyler, and Stephenson. The seventh notch is reserved for Lester Bell, the new third sacker, who as yet hasn't made himself prominent by his work. He is a slow starter and his arm doesn't strengthen quickly.

If the present order should prove unsatisfactory, McCarthy will have to drop Grimm to his old sixth position and put Cuyler at the top, with English second. The advantage of this arrangement would be two good hitters, two men fairly skilled in waiting out a pitcher, and two men with speed.

Teachout on Goof Squad.

Among the men picked to participate with the Goofs at San Diego on Saturday and Sunday was Bud Teachout, the youthful southpaw who was slapped harshly in two appearances against the Angels. Teachout's fadeout on both occasions may have disappointed McCarthy, but they weren't sufficient to make the manager sidetrack the youngster. Schalk, who will manage that outfit, will be instructed to let the young southpaw hurl as many innings as possible.

Other men who will labor with the Goofs are Heathcote, Dan Taylor, Jones, Blair, Tolson, Osborn, McAfee, Lautenbacher, George Bell, and Schulte. Beck will be included if his arm improves before the second squad sails on tomorrow morning's boat.

MISS NORELIUS TO WED WRIGHT, CANADIAN ROWER

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., March 13.—(AP)—Martha Norelius, Olympic champion swimmer, and Joe Wright Jr., famous Canadian oarsman, are engaged to be married, it was learned today. It is understood that they plan to be married here Saturday.

Miss Norelius, holder of eleven world records from 200 meters to 1,500 meters, turned professional after returning from the Olympics of 1928.

Wright won the classic Diamond sculls on the Thames in 1928 and competed for Canada in the rowing events of the Olympics in the same year.

GETS DIVORCE HERE.

Martha Norelius, Olympic champion swimmer whose engagement to Joe Wright Jr. was learned yesterday, was granted a divorce here last Saturday from Wirt A. McAllister of New York on charges of desertion. The swimming star and McAllister were married June 28, 1926. She charges he deserted her in December, 1927.

THE SHOT THAT FAILED

The Bruins failed to score in the first period, although they had three men down the ice on Chuck Gardiner, Hawks' goalie. Taffy Abel (left), defense man, is coming to help protect the net. Eddie Shore (No. 2), star Bruin player, has banged into the wall. Det Clapper (No. 5) and Cooney Weiland are the other Boston men.

Bush Sizes Up Sox and Likes Their Looks

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Antonio, Tex., March 13.—Hard hearted Donie Bush, inspiring boss of the animated White Sox, softened up a bit today and let the boys coast along in their workout. Today's and tomorrow's games with the Giants had been canceled because of stiff muscles and barking dogs, so Mr. Bush figured it wouldn't be consistent to bear down in the conditioning gymnastics.

The workout having been light, observers got an opportunity to go into a huddle with Manager Bush and ascertain a few things. Here are several items that came out of the powwow:

Bill Cissell, Donie thinks, is a cinch to become a sensational second baseman. His performances in the four games with the Giants, as well as in practice, have been great. He's so much better at second than at short that you wouldn't recognize him as the same fellow. His happiness at the belated discovery he's a born second baseman has helped his hitting thus far.

Makes Eight Hits.

Against the Giants he's made eight hits in eighteen times at bat, including a homer, for an average of .444. In the field he has accepted 33 chances without a bobble and has participated in nine of the club's ten double plays.

Johnny Riddle, Donie thinks, within a few months will develop into one of the outstanding young catchers of the majors. "If you like to get on winners, get on this Riddle kid," Donie advises.

Bud Clancy, Donie thinks, can be handled in such a way that he won't fade in mid-summer as in previous years. Previously Bud was allowed to work too hard in the batting and fielding practices immediately before games. Henceforth he'll practice a couple of rounds and throw down his glove. To date Bud is batting .600, including a homer and a triple.

Will Put Jolly to Work.

Smead Jolly, Donie believes, may have an idea that he's going to breeze into town Saturday and stay out of the lineup until he's had some calisthenics. If Smead thinks so, the laugh's on him. He'll be in the lineup as soon as the Sox boss can get him in uniform.

Bill Kamm, Donie thinks, will be ready to break into the lineup Sunday or Monday. He'll be alternated with Jeffries and still has to show cause why another spot should be found for little Jeff. Donie opines that Jeff is a swell leadoff man.

Carl Reynolds, Donie thinks, can't be denied the job as regular center fielder. Thus far Carl has staged only one of his "foot-in-the-bucket" plunges after a wide curve.

Vic Frasier, Donie thinks, will surprise the circuit. "He's got everything, and is a smart kid along with it," Mr. Bush says.

Old Red Faber, Donie thinks, will be ready to perform about Monday or Tuesday. With a hustling ball club back of him, Red ought to have a great year.

Expects Much from Lyons.

Ted Lyons, Donie thinks, will be as great as he was in 1926 and the first half of 1927. When he pitched against the Giants in Houston, the New York batsmen were absolutely bewildered.

Johnny Watwood, Dave Harris and Jim Moore, Donie thinks, are all good outfielders and will stage the hottest fight on the club to win the right field job. Moore as you know, is out with a broken hand. But he's been assured that his chances to be a regular will not be impaired by his absence from the lineup during the next two weeks.

Mastro's Mother Dies as He Wins; La Barba Bout Off

When Earl Mastro, Chicago contender for the world's featherweight championship, stepped into a Peoria ring last night for a ten round fight with Sparkplug Russell of Trenton, N. J., he knew that his mother, Mrs. Mary Mastro, was seriously ill, but was unaware of the fact that she was near death. She died at her home, 3542 West Fulton boulevard, while Earl was scoring a four round technical knockout over Russell.

Mrs. Mastro, who was 43 years old, had been ill for eight months. Earl and his two brothers, Dick and Frank, and four daughters survive. Funeral services will be held Monday.

Last night Frank announced that Earl's fight with Fidel La Barba, scheduled for next Friday at the Coliseum, would be postponed.

Unaware of his mother's death, Earl's victory over Russell was an easy one. He knocked the easterner down for nine counts in the second, third and fourth rounds. When Russell went to the canvas a second time in the fourth, his seconds threw in the towel.

Army to Play Navy Eleven Here in 1932, Says Britten

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 13.—The Army and the Naval academies will resume their football rivalry on Soldiers' field, Chicago, in 1932, even if the Navy, for this one game, is compelled to waive every point raised by Rear Admiral Louis M. Nulton in his bill of objections, which led to the severance of relations between the two schools in 1928.

Although the superintendents of the two academies, Maj. Gen. William R. Smith of West Point and Admiral John S. Robison of Annapolis, probably know nothing about this at the present time, I have the assurance of the Hon. Fred A. Britten, member of congress for Illinois, the man who by the application of firm but insistent pressure, obtained the 1926 game for Chicago, that it is so.

Having watched him exert the insistent pressure which caused Admiral Nulton to change his mind about the impossibility of playing in Chicago in 1926, I am quite ready to credit his prediction that, whatever the general and the admiral may say just now, the Army and the Navy will play in Chicago again in the fall of 1932.

Will Play Regardless.

This regardless of the Navy's objections to the Army's rules of eligibility for football and regardless, also, of any conflicting dates to which the academies may have committed themselves in their 1932 schedules in the meantime.

Assuming that the academies will not get together in 1931, which is a safe assumption, the Navy will have the privilege of naming the site of the game for 1932, as the teams always have played on a home-and-home understanding and the Army chose the battleground, New York, the last time they met. This fact favors Mr. Britten's plan, as he is influential on the Navy side, being something important on the naval affairs committee of the house.

Moreover, as the Army always has claimed to be willing to resume the game on the old terms, there would really be no necessity for the application of pressure to Gen. Smith. It merely will require an appeal to Admiral Robison's discretion to persuade him to waive the Navy's complaints for the one game, anyway.

Robison of Different Temperament.

I am given to understand that Admiral Robison is a man of much different temperament from Admiral Nulton's and that the Navy generally has come to regret the brusque, antagonistic manner in which Admiral Nulton flatly defaulted the Navy's agreement with the military academy after the midshipmen had been beaten in 1927. The Navy was disinclined to go on playing the Army on the conditions allowed under the agreement, and I do not believe there has been any perceptible change in this attitude since the break.

But no Navy man yet has been able to justify the unconditional breach of a sporting understanding and a poll of the midshipmen and officers now probably would show that they want to resume the game under the old conditions and play out their obligations before raising the question of eligibility rules again. Having done this, Annapolis could break off once more without sacrifice of prestige.

So the difficulty of arranging a Chicago game for 1932 is less serious than it might seem at first glimpse, remembering all the sound and fury of the wrangles which took place in the year or so following the break.

Good Deeds Repaid.

There are many opportunities for an influential member of the house committee on naval affairs to appeal to the discretion of an admiral commanding a division or station, some of them so subtle and involving such commonplace conveniences of life that one would not, ordinarily, consider them in relation to so important a matter. But I remember when Admiral Nulton was in doubt about the advisability of going to Chicago in 1926 something was said about the leaky condition of the sink in his kitchen in the post at Annapolis or the sprung window sash where the water came through into the bedroom at night when the rain blew from the east, or something of that annoying but trivial nature.

At any rate, the idea was conveyed to the admiral that the only way to get things done for one's self in this world was to do things for other people, and Mr. Britten was in a position to facilitate or obstruct all manner of improvements, repairs, and innovations at Annapolis, according to his disposition. Congressmen, of course, are politicians and live by the rule of helping those who have helped them, and by the time a man has acquired flag rank in the navy he has been around Washington long enough to learn the important principles of practical politics, too.

15,000 WATCH CHICAGO SNAP BRUINS' RECORD

Gottselig Registers Winning Goal.

Hockey Results

Pittsburgh, 2; Montreal Les Canadiens, 2 [overtime].

New York Americans, 2; Ottawa, 1 [overtime].

BY HARLAND ROHM.

Boston's Bruins may be the world's champions but they're only another hockey club to the Blackhawks. The youthful Chicago team proved it again at the Stadium last night by charging into the Bruising Bruins to win a 3 to 2 victory in overtime, snapping Boston's two chains of eleven victories in succession and seventeen games without defeat. It was the first game Boston had lost since the Hawks beat them Jan. 16.

HAROLD MARCH.

The victory gave the Hawks the distinction of being the only club in the league to have beaten the Stanley cup holders more than once this year. It was the third victory for the Hawks over the champions, giving them an even break for the year, each team having won the three games on its home ice. Furthermore it practically clinched second place for the Hawks, as it gave them a game and a half lead on the Rangers,

March's Leg Is Gashed.

The game left the spectators, and there were 15,000 of them, gasping as hard as the players, for it was the fiercest hockey Chicago has seen. Helped by oversights of the referees, Boston lived up to its reputation for roughness by swinging sticks viciously.

Only one thing marred the Hawks' joy—an injury to little Harold March, the tiny iron man, that probably will keep him out of the playoffs. March received a deep skate slash in his left leg in a mêlée, which found Gardiner, Graham and March wedged into the Hawks' net in a tangle of legs and arms. Whose skate it was that ripped a chunk of muscle from Mush's leg even the players couldn't tell. He was taken to the Illinois Central hospital, where it was said he would be confined to bed at least ten days.

That happened in the first period after the Hawks had forged into a one goal lead through a neat bit of passing from Couture to Arbour. But Boston finished the second period a goal in front on scores by Owen and a brilliant piece of team work between Wieland and Gainor.

Then little Tommy Cook came through to tie the score in the third period on a goal, which drew such disgust from Eddie Shore and Goalie Thompson that both tried to slug the goal umpire through his protecting screen. And finally Johnny Gottselig sent the crowd into a frenzy of mad cheering by scoring the winning goal in overtime.

Johnny Center of Attack.

Those two paragraphs give a bare outline of the scoring and the tides of the battle—and battle it was—but give no comprehension of the speed and spectacular attacks which surged from one end of the rink to the other.

Gottselig seemed to bear the brunt of Boston's illegal tactics, once being smashed in the teeth with Clapper's stick and again dodging the swing when Eddie Shore attempted to hit him. Shore drew only a two minute minor penalty instead of a twenty minute match penalty for the assault.

Due to some disarrangement of the lighting, the game started fifteen minutes late, and for ten minutes was rather slow and listless, Boston appearing casually confident and the Hawks failing to charge as hard as they usually do. But after ten minutes the game was metamorphosed into a spectacular fight, after three penalties had been called on the Hawks and none on Boston.

Arbour Scores First.

The change saw the Hawks' first score. Somers had taken the puck in center ice, stumbled and fell, but managed to retain control of it, get up and dash toward the Bruins' goal. He lost it on a slash check, but Rosy Couture picked it up and, though skated into the right boards, passed out to Ty Arbour in front of the net and Arbour shot it home.

Boston scored both its goals in the second period, though big Duke Dutkowski went back to his former position on defense. The first was a mistake by Abel, who played a whale of a game otherwise and was on the ice the entire 70 minutes, equaling Eddie Shore's and George Owen's durability act.

Owen took the puck in center ice and raced toward the Hawks' goal. Abel body-checked him, but didn't hit him squarely, and Owen kept his feet, his momentum carrying him close to the net, and he beat Gardiner with a short shot the goal had little chance to save.

That score came in five minutes and two minutes before the end of the period Cooney Weiland and Dutch Gainor teamed to put Boston in the lead. Though short a man on a penalty Weiland carried the puck into the Hawks' defense area and passed to Gainor on the left who had a clear shot. Gardiner made one of the many spectacular saves he made during the game, a dazzling kick, but Weiland had circled the defense and raced in to score the rebound.

The crowd was growing more excited as the referees ignored Boston's rough work and began tossing apple cores, papers and even a couple of Derby hats onto the ice. And the Hawks rewarded their partisanship by tieing the score in the final period. It came unexpectedly three and a half minutes after the period started. Eddie Shore had the puck on the right boards, skated across in front of the net and flipped it in. The puck shot into the net and out and Boston protested, its objections including the attempt to slug the umpire.

Unexpected Shot Wins.

Then came that overtime and Gottselig stepped into the hero rôle. Half the ten minutes were gone when Johnny took a pass on the left boards in the center ice and bore down that side of the ice. Just inside the Bruins' blue line he let go a bullet angle shot. Thompson evidently hadn't expected him to shoot until he got closer and was caught flatfooted, the puck going past him into the far side of the net.

CHASTAIN FIGHTS DE VOS TONIGHT IN STADIUM RING

Paul Pantaleo to Battle Ernie Schaaf.

Clyde Chastain, colorful fighter from Dallas, Tex., and Rene De Vos of Belgium will meet in the main event of the boxing show at Chicago Stadium tonight. They will box ten rounds to a decision at 160 pounds.

While Chastain and De Vos are trading punches members of the Chicago Golden Gloves amateur team, which will meet New York in the same arena next Wednesday night, will be spectators. Coaches Yanger and Young will be in charge of the local squad, some of whom never have been inside the world's largest boxing building.

Chastain and De Vos have appeared in local rings. Clyde's last appearance was against Harry Ebbetts of Brooklyn and the southerner won the decision. De Vos won a ten round decision from Johnny Burns in the Stadium arena. Both are under weight.

Paul Pantaleo, Chicago heavyweight, and Ernie Schaaf of Boston will be the principals in the ten round semi-windup. Pantaleo, who broke into the sports limelight as a member of the Tilden High school football team, can hit with his right hand and is considered one of the best heavyweight prospects developed in Chicago in years.

Harry Dublinsky, Chicago lightweight, and Emery Cabana of Philadelphia will meet in one of the preliminaries and Vidal Gregorio, Spanish bantamweight, and Harry Fierro of Chicago in another. Two other fights round out the program, which will open at 8:15 o'clock.

Riot of Colors to Greet Turf Patrons Here

BY FRENCH LANE.

Chicago racegoers can prepare to organize a class in racing colors. If they don't do something like it they are going to be all at sea when they throw their binoculars on the horses as they charge down the back stretch in contest here this season.

Numerous silks, unfamiliar to Chicago crowds, will be seen at Washington park. A whole flock of jackets and caps of strange hue will be flying around the track when the great stables which race on the flat and over the jumps in the east invade Arlington in July.

Hitchcock Likes Green.

There's the Eton blue jacket and brown cap of Harry Payne Whitney, the pink and black jacket of the Greentree stable, the blue and black of George D. Widener, the black and old gold of J. Fred Adams, the light blue jacket with a red sash of G. H. [Pete] Bostwick, and the dark blue jacket with red sleeves of A. C. Bostwick, most of which will be introduced here this season.

In addition will come William Averill Harriman's Arden farms horses, which will sport his blue and orange striped jacket, the all green jacket of Thomas Hitchcock, the Dorwood stable's blue and white combination, Mrs. Katherine Elkins Hitt's white and black silks, Richard Howe's green and orange, J. R. Macomber's blue and gold and dozens of other racing silks the new generation of Chicago turf fans have never viewed in action.

The return of steeplechasing to Arlington will bring many of the prominent stables here, but all the Chicago stakes are becoming so valuable the large eastern stables can no longer afford to pass them up.

It has often been asked how the expert form chart makers follow the different horses as the big fields, often closely grouped, circle the course. They do it by memorizing the colors. But there will be so many new jackets in action here by midsummer even the chart makers may have their troubles.

3 EAGLES SEND 4 BALL FINALS TO EXTRA PLAY

Miami, Fla., March 13.—(AP)—Three eagles on the last three holes of the 18 hole match today forced finalists to go an extra 18 hole round tomorrow to decide the annual $5,000 international four ball golf championship.

Cyril Walker of Saddle River, N. J., and his partner, Clarence Gamber of Boca Raton, Fla., ended the 36 holes all square with Harry Hampton, Chicago, and Neil McIntyre, Indianapolis.

Walker and Gamber were one up as they passed the 31st hole. They halved the next two holes, but McIntyre won the 34th by sinking a 30 foot downhill put for the first of the three eagles, a three on the 456 yard hole, to even the match. Walker slipped on the 35th tee and lifted an iron shot to the green, where an easy putt gave him a two on the par four 343 yard dictance, for the second eagle, making his side one up.

Hampton lashed out a long drive on the par five 36th, followed with a long shot to the green, and then sank his putt for an eagle 3 and a win, to even the match.

Goldblatt, Once an Invalid, Becomes Golden Gloves Champ

(This is the fifth of a series of personality sketches of Chicago Golden Gloves fighters.)

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Benny Goldblatt used to lie propped up in a hospital bed reading about Golden Gloves fighters. He'd never pulled on a pair of boxing gloves in his life and had used his bare fists only three times, but the career of a fighter seemed a glamorous thing when contemplated while gazing at a white ceiling with the odor of antiseptics in the air.

Benny recovered gradually from the ill health which had resulted from inhaling bronze powder for a year and immediately after being discharged from the hospital he dropped into a gymnasium to see what he could do with a pair of boxing gloves.

That was a year and a half ago. Now he's featherweight champion of THE TRIBUNE'S Golden Gloves team and Wednesday will step into the Stadium ring to pit his skill against a New York battler in the intercity bouts.

Father Lends Moral Aid.

Benny's first informal fight occurred on one of the streets of New York's east side, right in front of the three story red brick house in which the Goldblatts lived. While playing catch with his father the boy fumbled a fast one and as he stooped to recover the ball one of the neighborhood kids made a dash for it, shoving Benny with what might have been termed unnecessary roughness.

A fight grew out of this and for nearly an hour Benny upheld the ancestral honor of the Goldblatts while his father furnished moral support in the more critical moments. The duel ended suddenly when Mrs. Goldblatt came to the window to shake out a dust cloth and saw her pride and joy battling with a ragged looking urchin.

Benny's father came to New York from England about 22 years ago with the idea of making a start in this country as a singer and player. Shortly after his arrival he met a girl from Poland and married her. Then Benny was born, twenty years ago.

Goldblatts Go West.

The boy went as far as eighth grade in an east side school until there came a certain April day when the family packed all its belongings and started westward in response to a letter from Mr. Goldblatt's mother, urging him to come to Chicago and go to work as a salesman in her shoe store on Maxwell street.

Upon their arrival the Goldblatts settled at the corner of Union and Maxwell. There were two boys and three girls in the family now.

Although the term was almost ended, Benny was eager to finish the eighth grade so he enrolled in Foster school at Union and O'Brien. Benny was a bit late for class one day and in running up the stairs found it necessary to break through a line of pupils.

One of them grabbed him by the arm to ask where he was going so hurriedly. The Jewish boy countered with a snappy comeback, whereupon the other party cleared a ring and told Benny to put up his dukes. There was nothing else to do, so Benny socked him. His opponent regained consciousness only after a doctor had been summoned.

Benny K. O.'s Bully.

Benny had one more fight before getting out of Foster. The local bully was bedeviling one of the youngsters and when Benny remonstrated he received a spit lip for his pains. Only one more blow was struck during that particular battle. It landed on the eye of Benny's adversary, and finished him.

Benny spent the next year at Crane and then left school for good. His first job was as an errand boy for a floral shop.

He was beginning to show promise as a wrestler about this time and his activities in that line came to a climax three years ago when he won the Central A. A. U. championship in the 118 pound division.

Benny soon tired of running errands for the florist and went to work in a printing shop. But his health failed and after a year and a half he was forced to quit and go to the hospital, where he remained two months. It was at this time that the idea of boxing came to him.

Wins First Fight Easily.

Benny won the first fight of his career easily, but dropped the second to George Root, a former Golden Gloves champion. But even George had to go four rounds to earn the decision after the bout had been called a draw at the end of three.

Since then Benny has had about 80 fights, all of them in Chicago and most of them on the north side. He's lost about seven of these but no opponent ever has had him on the floor.

Benny now lives at 2922 Roosevelt road. For sport he says he prefers wrestling to boxing but believes his future lies in the latter line. He goes to the beaches a great deal during the summer and occasionally makes trips to neighboring resorts. Benny says he intends to turn pro after getting one more amateur championship. His friends expect him to get that next Wednesday.

Sick Bed to Title

Lindstrom and Benton Sign with Giants

San Antonio, Texas, March 13.—(AP)—Two of the leading holdouts of the New York Giants, Freddy Lindstrom and Larry Benton, came to terms today and signed 1930 contracts. It was not announced just what agreement they reached with the management. Edd Rousch now remains unsigned. The star third baseman and pitcher are not expected to get into action for several days as they are far behind the rest of the squad in getting into condition. The New York squad today went through two long practice sessions.

ROBINS WIN, 9 TO 0.

Clearwater, Fla., March 13.—(AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers defeated the House of David of Benton Harbor, Mich., today, 9 to 0. Krider, Blethen, and Greenfield held the House of David to seven hits. Twelve safeties rained off the clubs of the Robins. The House of David started Janesko, but ran short of hurlers, so borrowed Lefty Faulkner and Roy from the Dodgers. Score:

Big Ten Swim Stars Attack Marks in Title Meet Tonight

Wholesale assaults on swimming records will be made tonight at Northwestern university, where the greatest collection of aquatic stars in the history of the Big Ten have assembled for the annual championships. Preliminaries in the fancy diving will be held this afternoon with trials in the other events slated for tonight. Finals in all events will be staged tomorrow night.

Five of last year's champions, all holders of the Western conference record in their specialties, will lead the attack on the records.

Michigan Defends Title.

The title holders who will defend their laurels are Walker, Michigan, 40 yard dash; Schwartz, Northwestern, 100 and 220 yard dashes; Ault, Michigan, 440 yard swim; Hinch, Northwestern, 150 yard back stroke, and Peterson, Northwestern, 200 yard breast stroke.

Michigan, winner of the title for the last three years, will make a great effort to run its string of victories up to four but will encounter stiff competition from Northwestern.

In Garnet Ault, the Wolverines have a star who is expected to win the 440 yard swim as he pleases. Other Michigan stars include Walker, Smith and Walaitis, sprints; Goldsmith, breast stroke, and Avlentine, back stroke. Walker won the 40 yard swim last year and the others all placed in their specialties.

Schwartz Is Purple Ace.

Al Schwartz, Northwestern's captain and winner of two first places a year ago, should be a big factor in his team's effort to wrest the championship from Michigan. The Purple ace is regarded as a likely winner in whatever free style event up to the 220 yard swim that Coach Tom Robinson elects to enter him.

Dick Hinch, back stroke, and Don Petersen, breast stroke, are two other Northwestern stars who stand out prominently in their respective events. In winning last year they both set new Big Ten records. Marsh of Minnesota is Hinch's biggest threat, while Petersen will encounter close competition from Meyer, Wisconsin; Goldsmith, Michigan, and Howlett, Northwestern.

One good battle was assured in the semifinal of the Joliet sectional tonight, when Harrison and Tech of Chicago and Wheaton High scored easy victories in their opening games. Harrison, west section champion, defeated Polo, 29 to 14, and Wheaton advanced with a 26 to 13 victory over Thornton High of Harvey.

Johnston City, defending state champion, was eliminated by Carbondale Community High, Big Seven champion, 20 to 8, in the Herrin sectional last night.

Urbana and Champaign were both eliminated by close scores in the Danville sectional, the former bowing to Bloom of Chicago Heights, 26 to 21.

N. Y. Girl Sets New Mark in A. A. U. Swim

Miami Beach, Fla., March 13.—(AP)—Eleanor Holm, of the Women's Swimming Association of New York, clipped 6 2-5 seconds from her own record for the 300 yard medley individual swim here today to feature the first day's events of the national A. A. U. women's indoor swimming championships. Her time was 4 minutes, 16 seconds, compared with her former mark of 4:22 2-5, established in Newark, N. J.

She finished three yards ahead of Adelaide Lambert, also of the Women's Swimming association, New York. Miss Lisa Lindstrom, New York, was third. Miss Lambert's time was 4:18, or 4 2-5 seconds better than Miss Holm's former record.

Miss Joan McSheehy of Boston, Mass., and Miss June Burr, Coral Gables, Fla., were other entrants in the event.

Miss Helene Madison, 16 year old swimming ace of the Crystal Swimming club, Seattle, splashed in ahead of a field of six others to win the 100 yard free style event. She was clocked at 1 minute, 1 3-5 seconds. Miss Josephine McKim, of Los Angeles Atheltic club, came in second, with Miss Mary Lou Quinn of the Illinois Women's Athletic club of Chicago, third.

Others in the event were Miss Catherine Ames and Miss Dorothea Dickinson of the Women's Swimming association, New York, and Miss Dagney van Maarth, of the Illinois Women's Athletic club, of Chicago.

HEAVY BUYING BY U. S. FAILS TO HALT WHEAT DROP

New Crop Deliveries Hold Up Well on Drought News

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Buying of around 5,000,000 bu May wheat here yesterday by the government failed to prevent a decline in the market, as persistent liquidation was under way and prices dropped nearly 2c from the finish of the previous day. The close was on a moderately rally from the inside figures with a net loss of 1¼c at $1.08@1.08¼, while March was 1¼c lower at $1.04.

New crop deliveries of wheat held up well as the result of increased damage claims from parts of Oklahoma and Kansas, especially the latter state, and official returns showed an urgent need of moisture. July closed ⅝c higher at $1.04¼@1.04⅜, and September was ¼c higher at $1.05⅜@1.05¼.

Selling of May wheat against purchases of July were effective in narrowing the difference between the two months, and there was also considerable outright selling of the May by commission houses. The premium of the May over the July is inducing many operators to get out of the old crop position, as the statistical position appears to be against any material advance in prices and also tends to restrict flour business.

Price Cutting War Continues.

Price cutting in an effort to stimulate the foreign demand on the part of Argentina and Canada continues, with Argentine shippers reducing offers 4c, compared with Wednesday, in the Liverpool market. On the other hand, the Canadian pool did not offer abroad overnight, but there were no sales of consequence of North American wheat. Demand for the cash article was slow and a car of No. 2 hard winter, said to have been misgraded, sold as low as 95c at Chicago, and No. 2 hard at Kansas City was quoted at 97c. May in the latter market went to 10c discount under Chicago, about a full shipping difference.

Foreign markets showed a tendency to strengthen, with Liverpool 1¼@1½d higher on scattered buying, due to small Argentine shipments, while Winnipeg was ¾c lower for the day. Buenos Aires weakened after an early bulge and finished ½c higher to ½c lower, with Rosario, 1¼@2c lower, selling at a new low for the season.

N. B. Updike of the Updike Grain company of Omaha, who was here yesterday, talked friendly to the buying side of grains, feeling that the decline had gone far enough. Nebraska, he says, needs moisture, although having a fair wheat crop outlook at the present time.

New Low on Corn.

Stop order selling carried May and July corn off 2¼@2⅝c from the early high to a new low on the crop. Support was lacking except from shorts and holders of bids, buying by the latter causing a rally from the inside figures and net losses of ⅞@1⅛c, March being 74⅛c and May 78⅜@78¼c. The Buenos Aires market also broke to a new low for the season, and closed ½c lower, with March and May at 55¾c. Shipping sales were 205,000 bu.

Houses with northwestern and Winnipeg connections were persistent sellers of oats, but this was offset to a large extent by cash and commission house buying and the close was practically unchanged with March 39⅞c and May 41¼c.

There was no material pressure on rye, with the close ¼c lower to ¼c higher. March finishing at 58⅞c and May 59¾c.

LESS SUPPORT TO LARD

Lard and May bellies had less support late yesterday, although the market early was fairly firm. Scattered liquidation and a break in corn had a depressing influence and lard futures closed 5 to 12½c lower and May bellies were off 12½c. July was unchanged. Hog values were well held early but later sold 10 to 15 cents lower. Lard in Liverpool was 6d to 1s lower and bellies 1s lower. Exports of lard were 998,450 lbs, and of bacon 227,500 lbs. FOX TRUSTEES COUNTER WITH NEW LEGAL SUIT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 13.—The seeds of dissension sown at the stockholders' meeting of the Fox Film and Fox Theaters corporation last week blossomed into another legal suit today—an action by the trustees in State Supreme court to halt by injunction an action brought by William Fox in federal court.

Mr. Fox's suit was scheduled to be heard in federal court today on an order issued by Judge Frank J. Coleman requiring John E. Otterson and Harry L. Stuart to show cause why an injunction should not be issued to restrain them from voting Mr. Fox's stock in the two companies in accordance with the terms of a trustee agreement.

Stuart and Otterson, instead of waiting until tomorrow to answer the suit in federal court, went into the State Supreme court and obtained from Justice Aaron J. Levy an injunction to restrain Fox from proceeding with his suit. The order to show cause why the injunction should not be made permanent is returnable Monday.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, March 13.—(AP)—There was no change in the raw sugar markets as far as nearby supplies were concerned today, but shipment sugars were higher. Early advances in raw futures, which seemed to be promoted by covering on the announcement that the senate would not reconsider the recent vote placing a duty of 2c a pound on Cuban sugar, were followed by reactions and final prices showed net losses of 1 to 2 points in the No. 1 contract, although the No. 2 contract held comparatively firm and closed 3 to 4 points net higher. Sales were 20,350 tons in the No. 1 and 750 tons in the No. 2.

RESERVE GIVES BUSINESS DOSE OF CREDIT TONIC

Cuts Rediscount as Brokers' Loans Rise.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The New York Federal Reserve bank administered another dose of tonic to both business and the stock market yesterday. It reduced its rediscount rate from 4 to 3½ per cent, which is the lowest level since February, 1928, and also the lowest rate in the history of the reserve system, except for 3 per cent during the latter part of 1924.

The reduction had been expected for a fortnight, in view of the recent world-wide ease in money rates and particularly because of the Bank of England's reduction in its discount rate from 4½ to 4 per cent a week ago. And action by the New York bank appeared inevitable early yesterday when dealers in bankers' acceptances reduced rates for the fourth time this week, bringing them to 3¾ to 3½ per cent.

Increase Is $137,000,000.

But the joy in Wall and La Salle streets over the New York reserve bank's action and the probability that it will be followed by other reserve banks was somewhat lessened later in the day, then the weekly report on brokers' loans by the federal reserve board showed an increase of $137,000,000. This was the largest weekly expansion since the stock market collapsed in October and brought the total up to $3,720,000,000, which is the highest figure since Nov. 13, 1929, although it still is $1,907,000,000 below a year ago.

While Chicago brokers regarded the recent increase in such loans as indicating that the "public is back in the stock market," the comment in banking quarters was to the effect that pools probably have been unloading stocks, which does not make for a strong market. However, the banks appear to be perfectly willing to furnish funds to speculators, as evidenced by the fact that the New York banks increased their own loans by $140,000,000 and are lending $142,000,000 more than a year ago, while interior banks turned in an additional $47,000,000, al-

I. T. & T. OFFERS STOCK RIGHTS; NET EARNINGS SHOW GAIN OVER 1928

New York, March 13.—The directors of the International Telephone and Telegraph corporation today authorized the offering of about $36,619,850 additional common stock to holders of common shares of record March 21 on the basis of one new share at $50 each for 3 shares held.

At today's closing price of 68¾ for International Telephone and Telegraph common shares the rights are worth $2.07 each, and in the aggregate show a value of $12,128,494 on 5,859,176 common shares now outstanding. The company sold $50,000,000 of 25 year 5 per cent bold debenture bonds, due 1955, a few weeks ago, making its financial program thus far announced over $86,600,000 this year.

The proceeds of the stock offering, it was announced, will be used in the development of the communications system, the telephone operating services, and the manufacturing branch of the company.

The corporation reports a consolidated net income of $17,732,159 for 1929, equivalent to $3.93 a share earned on 5,856,984 no par common shares outstanding on Dec. 31, 1929, comparing with $10.26 a share earned on 1,422,785 capital shares of $100 par value earned in 1928, equivalent to $3.42 a share on 4,268,255 no par common shares. There was an increase of 1,590,629 shares of no par value during 1929.

LISTED BONDS PUSH UPWARD NEAR 1929 PEAK

New York, March 13.—(AP)—The strengthening bond market moved upward at a vigorous pace today, bringing the average for thirty issues to a new 1930 high, or within one-fifth of a point of the 1929 peak.

Demand for the rails was particularly aggressive and once again two score bonds in that group made record levels for 1930 or considerable longer. The market's total turnover of slightly more than $16,000,000 was the year's largest.

All the listed United States governments touched at new highs. The treasury 3⅜s advanced 11-16, but the improvement in the other obligations was smaller, averaging about ¼ point.

VAN SWERINGEN COAST TO COAST LINE SEEN NEAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., March 13.—A transcontinental railroad system, the dream of American railroad builders for a century, is within striking reach of O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen of Cleveland, and the financial interests allied with them, it was said with authority today in both the New York and Cleveland financial districts.

In fact, many observers of the Van Sweringens' railroad activities believe the two Cleveland railroad financiers are much nearer the attainment of that goal than any of the illustrious railroad builders of the past.

Already the Van Sweringens control an integrated and connected rail system from the eastern seaboard to Chicago and St. Louis in the west.

Buy Into Missouri Pacific.

It now develops that through the quiet acquisition of the common stock and convertible bonds of the Missouri Pacific railroad, the Van Sweringens have obtained a working control of that mammoth trans-Mississippi system, tapping the rich oil and mining fields of the southwest, connecting with the International Great Northern from Mexico at Laredo, Tex., and extending westward to Pueblo, Colo.

The Missouri Pacific, in turn, owns a half interest in the Denver, Rio Grande and Western, which has a through line from Pueblo to Salt Lake City. At Salt Lake City the D., R. G. & W. connects with the Western Pacific, which runs on to San Francisco.

Apparently the Van Sweringens now only need a working interest in the Western Pacific to make a transcontinental system almost a reality. The Western Pacific also owns a half interest in the D., R. G. & W. and has friendly and cooperative relations with the Missouri Pacific. If the Van Sweringen ownership of Missouri Pacific securities is looked upon favorably by the management of that road, and reports are that such is the case, then they should not have any great difficulty in making a satisfactory ar-

Surplus Producing Areas Prevent Price Stabilization

BY SCRUTATOR.

It is more than passing strange to expect the federal farm board to stabilize or to raise prices of agriculture products unles the United States itself ceases to add more acres to surplus producing areas with reclamation projects.

Only about 137,000 people live on irrigated land, according to a rather recent estimate. But their effect on prices is larger than their proportionate production. A little discussion of the 1927 potato crop, as outlined by Millard Peck, economist for the department of agriculture, may exemplify this.

He first quoted another scientist, Working, to show that a 10 per cent increase in this crop meant a 17 per cent increase in price. He then shows that about ten million bushels of potatoes, or 2½ per cent of the total crop in the United States, had depressed the price 4 per cent. In dollars, the irrigation farmers had received about ten millions, but the loss due to the price fall to the whole crop was fifteen millions.

Deems Irrigation Costly

In the same year, using a scientific relationship of supply to price, he found that irrigated lands had made sixteen million dollars' worth of cotton and had caused a fall of forty millions in total revenue, while in wheat the irrigationists got just what they cost the farmers living on lands watered by rainfall direct.

These are the reasoned opinions of trained authority; made, it is true, before the farm board was organized. They are probably more valid for that reason. Irrigation under the present circumstances—and the same goes for other types of reclamation—is costly both in investment and in its effects on agriculture as a whole. Yet government goes ahead with projects. Boulder dam is coming. President Coolidge has just presided at the opening of another irrigation district.

The United States has now twenty million irrigated acres. The world doubled its irrigated lands in the last decade, from 100 milion to 200 million acres. And irrigated land is costly. The government itself has found that each watered acre in cultivation represents an average investment of $250, which would be a high price now for almost any good farm.

Surpluses Depress Prices.

There can be little doubt that surpluses do cost more in depressed prices than they make in quantities for sale. If the federal farm board can by advice cause reduction of acreages it will be a success. All the agrarian history of this country tends to show that the advice will not be taken. It requires something more than words to convince the farmer he should let up in his work and collect more for resting than he does for working.

The national forest reservation commission was able last year to get 234,000 acres for forests at about $4 an acre. The 500 million dollars authorized for saving the farmer by price tinkering in the markets would buy at non-political prices a vast amount of poor land now being cultivated. It would be enough to take over 125,000 farms worth $4,000 each, and 40 per cent of those in the whole country are worth less than that. Drastic and direct, this would at least take land out of cultivation.

New York, March 13.—Everybody on the stock exchange was saying nice things about the long neglected oil shares today.

And so the trading community went shopping for oil stock bargains, with the result that the group as a whole "acted up" better than it has in months. Even when most of the rest of the list was retreating before another vicious bear attack, as it was in the early trading, or vacillating every which way as the opposing forces fought it out, group by group, as it did most of the day, the oils pushed steadily ahead on an unbroken front.

Chicago stocks were steady at the close yesterday. The day's sales of 271,350 brought the volume so far this year to 14,119,150 which exceeds by approximately 20,000 the volume for the corresponding period of 1929.

The session was devoid of spectacular movements. The active favorites fluctuated within a narrow range. The close found Middle West up a fraction, Grigsby unchanged at 16⅝ and Borg Warner about a point higher.

Midland United Earnings.

Volume of trading in the Insull shares was smaller. A bare 650 shares of Midland United changed hands, while the price held firm. Midland, which is a subsidiary of Middle West, yesterday reported earnings for 1929 of $3,043,596 available for dividends. Consolidated net income of the company and subsidiaries was $9,369,229. The company was organized in December, 1928, as the Midland Utilities Investment company. The present corporate name was adopted last August.

Burnham furnished one of the few gains of the day with a jump of over 2 points to 44. Otherwise the investment group was dull. Chicago Investors preferred on small sales improved an even point.

In the motor group, Cord continued active. After sagging a point in early trading the issue closed unchanged. Pines was also unchanged while Noblitt Sparks eased a fraction. Orders booked by Noblitt Sparks are more than 50 per cent greater than any previous year at this time, it is reported. Unfilled orders of Pines Winterfront are more than three times those of last year, James F. Raleigh states.

Specialties Gain.

Among the specialities gains of a point or more were made by Independent Pneumatic Tool, Associated Apparel Industries, Marks Brothers preferred, Construction Materials and Hart Carter. Independent Pneumatic Tool jumped 5 points following publication of the annual report of the company. Lion Oil advanced about a point. Winton Engine was in good demand and finished above 64.

VAN SWERINGEN COAST TO COAST LINE SEEN NEAR

rangement with the Western Pacific.

The question naturally arises as to whether the interstate commerce commission would approve a unified transcontinental system. The best guess of Cleveland observers is that it would not.

Cite Contrary View.

On the contrary, it was pointed out in financial circles here today there is logic behind the supposition that the Van Sweringens have ambitions to build up two great rail systems, divided at the Mississippi river. East of the Mississippi river they already have had the I. C. C. approve their Chesapeake and Ohio system. It now appears that they have ambitions to control the Missouri Pacific system west of the Mississippi river. In its allocation of lines west of the Mississippi the I. C. C. assigned the D., R. G. & W. and Western Pacific to the Missouri Pacific, which sets up the identical system needed by the Van Sweringens to accomplish a transcontinental line.

It appeared today, therefore, that through the efforts of the Van Sweringens as railroad financiers, Cleveland is likely to become the financial center for a great railroad system of more than 30,000 miles—easily the largest system of rails ever put together in the United States under a single management.

The Van Sweringens apparently have in mind to assemble a transcontinental line through hooking up the following systems:

Western Pacific, San Francisco to Salt Lake City; Denver, Rio Grande and Western, Salt Lake City to Pueblo, Colo.; Missouri Pacific, Pueblo to St. Louis, Mo.; Nickel Plate, St. Louis to Buffalo, N. Y., and the Delaware, Lackawana and Western, Buffalo to New York City.

PROXY BATTLE LOOMS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 13.—In the face of a threatened attempt to defeat a proposal to issue $32,228,000 convertible 4½ per cent bonds directors of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad are proceeding with their original plans, it was reported today.

A violent fight for proxies looms, as interests opposed to the plan intend to try to vote down the directors at the May 1 annual meeting, when a two-thirds vote of approval will be necessary to make the plan operative.

Since there are outstanding 294,222 shares of 7 per cent preferred, 251,273 shares of 6 per cent preferred, and 744,825 shares of common stock, all with equal voting powers, the disapproving vote of 430,110 shares would be sufficient to defeat the plan.

List Objections to Plan.

Objections to the debenture issue have been placed before the board by some shareholders on three major points:

1. The offering of rights to the convertibles to preferred shareholders constitutes a dilution of the common stockholders' equity.

2. The existence of the long term options on common stock under the conversion privilege would be detrimental to the road's interests in consolidation plans.

3. The refinancing program which the railroad faces in 1934 will be unduly complicated by existence of these convertibles.

An alternative plan also has been suggested calling for retirement of the present preferred issue, sale of a new 5½ per cent preferred stock, issuable in series, to provide a medium for future financing and offering of rights to common stockholders to subscribe to additional common.

Chicago Curb Exchange Stocks

The Chicago curb list ranged irregularly downward yesterday although Standard of Indiana ran against the easier trend in an advance of 1⅛ points. Associated Gas lost 2 points.

Top yesterday, $11.40.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today, 2,000 cattle, 19,000 hogs, and 13,000 sheep.

Hogs on the cash trade opened steady to strong, but slipped back fully 10@15c in mid-session, with spots off even more near the finish, the low point of the day. The extreme top advanced 5c to $11.30 at the start, the highest paid for hogs since Monday of last week, while the general average showed 10c decline at $10.55.

Demand was restricted on both local and shipping accounts and 7,000 hogs were still unsold at the finish, including some good grades. A feature of the trade was the good demand for pigs and underweights at strong to 15c to higher prices, in face of the decline in other weights. Five western markets expect 46,000 hogs today against 42,700 the previous Friday.

Hog Futures Active.

In contrast to the unsatisfactory clearance for hogs of the cash trade yesterday, contracts for April and May delivery were fast sellers on the futures market, but at 5@15c lower prices. Although volume of trading was largest of the week, buying was confined to April and May hogs.

Offers were plentiful in other months, but bids were few and sharply lower particularly for March hogs. April light sold at $11.15@11.25, while May light brought $11.00. April heavy opened at $10.10 and closed at $10.00. March light were offered at $11.10, but bid $10.75. On the "to arrive" market light and heavy for today's delivery sold at $11.00 and $10.20 respectively. During the first ten days of trading in hog futures, the Live Stock Exchange clearing house has handled contracts for 79 carloads, of approximately 5,800 hogs which aggregate a total of 1,303,500 lbs, to deliver as follows: 478,500 lbs for this month; 643,500 lbs for April; 115,500 lbs for May and 66,000 lbs for September.

Cattle met another dull and weak to unevenly lower market yesterday, bulk of sales at the close of the session showing fully 25c loss. Prices are 50c to $1.00 lower than middle of last week, medium to good grades sharing in the full cut. Bulk of steers and beef merit sold at $11.00@13.50, which compares with $11.50@14.25 Monday, when quality was better.

Only a "handful" of cattle sold above $14.00, with choice 1,365 lb averages at $14.65, the peak. A good many 900@1100 lb steers of plain quality sold at $10.50@11.25 and poor grades of steers down to $9.50.

Lambs Down 25c.

Fat lambs broke 25c on yesterday's slow trading, the top going down to $11.00 equal to the lowest point of the month, which is only 50c above the lowest point of the season. Wool stock sold largely at $10.25@11.00, with 100 averages at $10.10.

Top light shorn lambs were sorted harder at $9.75, and the 110 lb averages rejected from load lots sold at $8.50, or fully 25c lower. Aged sheep held steady and top ewes sold at $6.25. Yearlings ruled weak to 25c lower. Feeding lambs were scarce and steady.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 2,000 cattle, 19,000 hogs and 13,000 sheep, against 3,661 cattle, 14,714 hogs and 13,887 sheep, the previous Friday and 1,669 cattle, 14,089 hogs and 6,016 sheep, a year ago.

Sees Fox River as Western City Limits in 25 Years

That the Fox river will be the western boundary of Chicago and Oak Park will be the center of the metropolitan area within the next twenty-five years was the prediction made by Claude C. Niles, vice president of H. O. Stone & Co., at the opening of the Oak Park office of that firm. The new branch is one of eight throughout the city. There are thirty employes.

PLAN $200,000 ADDITION TO LAWNDALE BANK

BY AL CHASE.

Plans are now being drawn for an addition to the Lawndale National bank which, it is reported, will cost in the neighborhood of $200,000. Eric E. Hall of Hall, Lawrence & Ratcliffe is the architect. The annex will occupy a site 48x125, at 3341-45 West 26th street, which was purchased yesterday by the bank from the Foreman-State Trust and Savings bank, trustee, for an undisclosed consideration.

According to Rosenberg & Lurie, brokers for all parties in the site purchase, the property is between Turner and Homan avenues and is just west of the new Leader department store, recently completed at a cost of approximately $1,000,000. It adjoins the present bank building. Epstein & Arvey and Joseph M. Zalusky were attorneys.

Lease Drake Theater.

County records disclosed yesterday that the 1,900 seat film theater at the northwest corner of Drake and Montrose avenues has been leased for fifteen years by the New Drake Theater corporation at a reported term rental of $325,000. The playhouse was rented from the Gerard Trust and Savings bank, receiver. The owner is Frank Grovner. In addition to the theater the building, which was built two or three years ago, contains stores, offices, and flats.

According to Harry C. Hershenson, attorney for the lessees, the playhouse is being equipped for talkies and will reopen in about thirty days. It has been closed for the last six or seven months.

Flats Change Hands.

Odell L. Kirk and Herman and Joseph Fisher have quitclaimed the forty apartments at the northeast corner of Indiana avenue and Garfield boulevard, ground 150x198 feet, to Joseph F. Forbrich. F. E. Croarkin was attorney.

William Willer has sold the twelve flats at 652 North Homan avenue, lot 50x125 feet, to Ann Mark for an undisclosed consideration. Henry S. Antes was attorney.

though still lending $682,000,000 less than a year ago.

Corporations and other lenders, faced with federal tax payments tomorrow, withdrew $50,000,000 and are lending $1,367,000,000 less than a year ago.

Differ on Effects of Cut.

While present open market money rates, both in the United States and abroad, probably justify a lowering in rediscount rates, there has been some dissension among federal reserve authorities and bankers as to practical effect. Proponents of lower rates argue that cheap credit will encourage business revival and aid public and private construction programs, thus improving the employment situation throughout the country.

On the other hand, opponents of the move contend that cheap credit does not help business much during recession periods. Furthermore, they recall that low rediscount rates imposed in 1924 for the purpose of fostering American business and also aiding Europe to currency stability proved something of a boomerang. The groundwork was laid for a vast speculation in securities and credit stringency which sent money rates up, forced the federal authorities to lift rediscount rates as high as 6 per cent and eventually ended in the most severe stock market collapse in history, with attendant effects on trade and industry.

In Strong Position.

Whatever may be the future effects of easy money rates on business and speculation, the reserve system is in strong position to meet needs for credit. The weekly statement, issued last night, shows that its ratio of reserves to liabilities now stands at 80.8 per cent, compared with 79.8 per cent a week ago. Its gold and total reserves increased $43,636,000 and $38,903,000, respectively.

While borrowings of the member banks declined $42,278,000, bringing the total down to $266,338,000, the reserve banks sold $14,664,000 of bankers' acceptances and bought $27,968,000 of government securities. Deposits expanded $32,338,000 but note circulation declined $32,420,000.

At New York, member bank borrowings declined $6,531,000 to $33,148,000 and bankers' acceptances receded $4,532,000. Deposits rose $18,188,000. Reserves increased $15,965,000 and the reserve ratio rose to 79.6 per cent, compared with 78.9 per cent last week. At Chicago member bank borrowings dropped $11,397,000 to $38,357,000 but bankers' acceptances increased $1,670,000. Deposits expended $8,104,000. Reserves increased $11,602,000 and the reserve ratio rose to 84.3 per cent, compared with 82.6 per cent a week ago.

AMER. TOBACCO INCOME SHOWS SHARP INCREASE

Increasing consumption of cigarets brought a sharp increase in earnings last year to the American Tobacco company. The annual report, issued last night, notes that earnings have gained continuously since 1920, except for 1923.

Net earnings for 1929 were $30,278,604 after all charges. This was equivalent, after preferred dividends, to $11.57 a share on 2,343,508 common and class B shares. Net earnings for 1928 were $25,014,434, or $11.19 a share on 1,952,917 shares. Last year the company sold 390,583 additional class B shares to stockholders at $125 a share. It paid a total of $10 a share in dividends, including $2 extra. The balance sheet as of Dec. 31, 1929, shows total surplus of $30,869,332.

That sticky, bitter stain that goes into mouth, throat and lungs with tobacco smoke is tar. It is not nicotine.* Well-informed, modern scientists and physicians know that the smoke of a cigarette contains only an infinitesimal amount of nicotine. Very little of it is in the smoke. It is burned with tobacco and most of it never gets into the mouth at all. But smoke does contain large quantities of tarry substances. These are scientific facts proved by the best-recognized medical and chemistry authorities. Rely on them.

* A well-known authority on tobacco states that "Nicotine is colorless, and forms an infinitesimal part of all the constituents of smoke. The dark, bitter oil which forms (when you smoke), is popularly regarded as nicotine. This is totally erroneous—It is really—tar oil, the water of tobacco in combustion with the soot and tar of the smoke."

The Ace of Spades

By WILLIAM MACLEOD RAINE

SYNOPSIS.

Jim Rutledge, accompanied by Sim Hart, is sent out with a herd of cattle to fulfill a contract made by his father, Chandler Rutledge. On the trail they are overtaken by some men from the Moss outfit, enemies of Rutledge. The Moss men start a stampede and drive off some of the Rutledge cattle. Jim recovers them, but in doing so shoots and injures one of the Moss raiders. The men of the Moss outfit swear to be revenged for the injury and pursue him. Jim takes refuge in a ranch house, where he finds Ellen Lawson alone in the house. She hides him when the Moss gang comes to the house inquiring for him and sends them off on another trail, even though she learns that he has injured her brother. Jim rides on into the town, after saving Ellen from the unwelcome attentions of Pete Moss. Shear, the town marshal, threatens to arrest him for the attempt on Steve Lawson, but Harrison Pendleton, an old trail driver, arrives on the scene in time to save him from arrest. Shortly afterwards Shear kills Doc Brown, who, he claimed, had threatened his life. This causes a great deal of excitement in the little cattle town. Jim goes into the local gambling den and is astonished to find Ellen Lawson there. She tells him she has come to speak to her brother, Steve. Jim guides her to where Steve is sitting in a poker game with Shear, Buck Roe, and others. As they reach the table the lights go out, and when the room is again lighted Shear is found crumpled in his chair dead, with Jim's knife in him. Ellen's right hand is covered with blood. She had become separated from Jim in the dark and some one had jostled her. In putting out her hand for support she had touched the crumpled figure. Jim and Ellen are questioned by the sheriff, Manders, and Jim is arrested, but is later released. Jim is determined to find the murderer to clear himself. Ellen arranged a meeting to warn him against Dave Moss, and Jim learns that Moss is trying to force her to marry his son, Pete. He suggests that she marry him. They are quietly married and Jim goes on with his investigation.

INSTALLMENT XLI.

MAKING NO CHARGES.

Pendleton was angry.

"They jumped him while he was going home from the Elkhorn the-a-ter," he said. "He was alone. There was several of them. If Jim wounded Sam Moss and knocked out Buck Roe he did it in self-defense. More power to him, I say."

"You seem to know quite a lot about it, Pendleton," the sheriff said dryly. "Weren't among those present, were you?"

"No, but Jim was."

"So old man Moss has been telling me right earnestly. I judge he thinks hellin in oil is about what the boy deserves. Both Sam and Buck were moseying along, figuring out what church they would attend tomorrow, when this young hellion and his gang started the fireworks. It's an outrage and an atrocity, Dave claims, and he isn't going to stand for it. And what's the law for, anyhow, if it's not to protect innocent citizens?"

In four sentences Jim gave an account of the attack on him. Manders did not for a moment doubt his story, but he did not choose to say so.

"Funny that all the damage was done to them if they are the ones that attacked," the officer drawled. "Right negligent on their part, I'd call that."

"I was lucky," Jim admitted.

The cold, protuberant eyes of the sheriff rested on him. Nobody would have guessed that behind that stony stare lay admiration.

"Go slow, Texas man," Manders warned. "I mentioned an accident, though I'll admit personal negligence on my part."

"I've noticed you're lucky, fellow. I'm wondering how long that luck will stand up."

"It would have been his own fault if the Moss gang had drilled him full of holes," roared Pendleton. "I told the dad gummed young idiot to go home an' leave me 'tend that show, which I was aimin' to do tonight. But he had to go waltzin' to the Elkhorn alone. An', of course, like I said, they bushwacked him on the way home."

"So your friend Rutledge says. No witnesses to prove his story, I reckon?"

"Are you going to take the word of any one or all of that durned Moss outfit against his?"

"I'm taking nobody's word for anything these days," Manders replied. "I'll believe anything if it's proved to me good and plenty."

"If you feel like believing it," Pendleton amended.

"Referring to that little matter of Mart Brown, I presume. A thing that's not so can't be proved, and since Mart didn't kill Joe Shear, what evidence you produced didn't get anywhere with me. Fact is, I knew it all before you told me."

"You knew more than that, sheriff," Jim cut in. "You knew who one of the men outside of the window of the Longhorn that night is."

Manders turned cold, fishy eyes on the young Texan. Not a flicker of expression crossed his face.

"Did I?" he asked evenly.

"You knew—and I suspected," Jim retorted.

"The young detective getting in his work again," the officer murmured sarcastically.

"Yes, I only suspected then. Now I, too, know."

"Going to find another man for me that stabbed Shear, are you?" Manders jeered.

"I don't know. I hope not."

The eyes of the two men met and held.

"Who is it this time?"

"This time it's Sheriff Manders."

"So I killed Shear, eh?"

"I haven't said so."

"Spit it, young fellow—whatever's on your mind."

"Understand, I'm making no charges, sheriff," Jim said. "I'm mentioning a few facts and citing what yore friend, Mr. Brown, calls a hypothetical case."

"I don't give a billy-be-damn about your hypothetical case. Let's hear your facts."

"Let's go back for a motive first," Jim said, his steel-ribbed eyes hard as agates. "You had a real one. If you beat Shear for sheriff—an' it looks like you would have—it was only a question of time until he killed you, unless you killed him first."

"So I stuck a knife in him in the dark to save my own bacon," the sheriff said harshly.

Jim disregarded the interruption. "To go against Shear in the open would have been just plain suicide. They tell me he could let any other man get his pistol out before he drew and still beat him to the shot. A man might figure it would be fair to get rid of Shear before the marshal deviled him into being murdered."

"He might, if he had no guts," Manders agreed. "I'm not interested in your guesses, but your facts. Unload them."

"All right. Some one standing outside the window fired the shot that blew out the light in the cardroom at the Longhorn. You were at the window. Can you prove to me you didn't fire that gun?"

"How do you know I was at the window?" the sheriff demanded.

"You had yore boots reheeled yesterday, Mr. Manders," Jim said quietly. "I wondered why, so I went round to the cobbler's and got the old heels."

From his pocket Jim took one of the wornout heels. "Here's one of them. Would you mind letting me see if this fits the impression in the plaster labeled Exhibit 2?"

The sheriff did not bat an eye. "Too bad. I was careless about those casts and left them in a corner of the room on the floor. The black boy who does the janitor work swept them out."

Jim was as cool as Manders. Not so Pendleton. The big cattleman let out a roar of anger.

"And accidentally they got smashed, I suppose," Jim said, smiling grimly.

"Just what happened. How did you guess it? Of course, I read the riot act to the boy, though that didn't do any good."

"I'll bet you did," Jim acquiesced.

He took the news cheerfully.

It was Pendleton who slammed a hamlike fist on the table in excitement. "I don't want any more proof, Manders. You're guilty as the devil. Either you're standing in with Mart Brown, or——"

"Or——," suggested the sheriff, eyes opaque and hard as stones.

"You can't bully me, Manders. I say what I think."

"And you think?"

"I think you smashed those casts because you were scared of what they would prove."

"Go slow, Texas man," Manders warned. "I mentioned an accident, though I'll admit personal negligence on my part."

"Don't blame yoreself too much, sheriff," Jim said consolingly. "The damage is not beyond repair." He could do a little in irony himself.

"I reckon your exhibits are pretty completely smashed," the officer said with mock regret.

"You'll be glad to know we've got another set of the prints."

"What!" roared Pendleton, staring at Jim.

Manders could not wholly conceal his disturbance. "Did you say another set of plaster casts?"

"That's what I said," Jim drawled. "Funny, but I figured something might happen to the first ones."

GASOLINE ALLEY—ASSORTED STYLES AND SIZES

I REALLY THINK LORA IS OVER HER INFATUATION WITH THAT TERRIBLE HI GLOSS. SHE SHED MANY TEARS BUT I BELIEVE NOW THAT SHE REALIZES WHAT SORT OF A FELLOW HE WAS.
HE KNOWS BETTER THAN TO SHOW UP AROUND THE HOUSE. HE KNEW WE'D SEE THROUGH HIM RIGHT AWAY. I'D HAVE KICKED HIM OUT.
I DIDN'T WANT YOU TO DO THAT OR FORBID HER TO GO WITH HIM. THAT WOULD HAVE MADE HIM ALL THE MORE ATTRACTIVE TO HER. I FELT SHE WOULD WORK IT OUT FOR HERSELF.
I HAVE A HUNCH IT WAS ANOTHER RESULT OF CODA'S WILL. THEY ALL EXPECT TO HORN IN ON THE MONEY.
YES, IT'S ALL RIGHT AGAIN, NOW. THAT'S THE FIRST TIME I'VE SEEN HER WITH A BUNCH OF BOYS IN TWO WEEKS.
THERE'S SAFETY IN NUMBERS THEY SAY. IT WILL ABSORB ALL OF HER SURPLUS ATTENTION TO KEEP THAT MANY YOUNG SPROUTS INTERESTED.

Good Morning!

You have here an excellently cast and well directed thriller, adapted from Edward Doherty's exciting story which ran in LIBERTY.

The question before the house is—WHO KILLED JOE LARKIN? If you read the serial, you know. If not, you won't till you've seen the last reel of the picture, for the identity of the killer is cleverly concealed by the director and your Auntie Mae was never one to let cats out of bags on occasions such as this. This much I'll tell you:

D. Re-vier's the maid in distress;
M. Livingston, the villainess.
A night club high up in the air
(Meaning on the top floor of a skyscraper.)
Is the locale of the affair.
Its owner is a deep, dark guy
With fat tum-my and snaky eye.
About him husky bouncers lurk
On qui vive to do dirty work,
And, unmindful of looks like daggers,
R. Hatton, drunk and jovial, staggers
Here, there and everywhere. A pest!
But now, no more! You guess the rest.
Photography and sound are good;
Piece runs no longer than it should.
Take my advice—don't hold aloof
From this here "Murder on the Roof."

See you tomorrow.

Art Must Reflect Skyscraper Culture, F. C. Bartlett Says

Members of the Chicago Association of Painters and Sculptors were warned to keep themselves in tune with the times, as far as modern art is concerned, last night by Frederic Clay Bartlett, New York artist, formerly of Chicago.

Mr. Bartlett was the guest speaker at a dinner of the association in the Palmer house presided over by Pauline Palmer, president, and one of the more conservative of Chicago artists. Among others at the speakers' table were Robert Maynard Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, and Mrs. Hutchins, who has attained recognition as a sculptress.

"One hundred years from now the world must know when we painted," Mr. Bartlett declared. "Our present art should be in tune with the skyscraper, the radio. Our books are decidedly modern. Theodore Dreiser might have been laughed at by Charles Dickens. We have had Walt Whitman. Our architects and musicians are modern. So must be the painter."

He told how modern art is attempting to place on canvas the vibration of modern civilization. How color and light are being utilized. He said the world of art is in an age of changing times when many do not agree on the works of art, but the resulting clashes are a sign of a bright future.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Question.

What is your idea of the best way to invest savings?

The Answers.

Goerge L. Galvin, 500 Diversey parkway, salesman.—I have just renewed my TRIBUNE life insurance policy — that's a good investment. Probably a better one is THE TRIBUNE'S new ten year endowment life insurance policy. For a further safe investment, free from worry regarding loss of principal and interest, real estate mortgage bonds issued by a reliable house.

A. Wyatte South, 2145 Cleveland avenue, salesman. — I know something about those things. Invest savings in preferred stock in a sound company with a proven product. Of course there is speculation in everything, but that's one of the best ways to get a good rate of interest with reasonable safety.

C. A. Anderson, 6540 Stony Island avenue, salesman. — I believe the best way to invest savings is in real estate, then you have something tangible, something that cannot be taken away from you. If the investment is thoughtfully made it will create greater earnings than any other investment.

C. G. Lindemann, 1 South La Salle street, salesman. — Small mortgage bonds. They afford safe and profitable investments. Conditions at present are such that the average man cannot open up a business of his own and make a success of it. The fluctuations and uncertainties of the stock market make it risky.

Edward C. McCormick, 640 Wrightwood avenue, real estate. — The very best investment that can be made is in good Chicago real estate, to be selected by some one who knows values. Real estate has been somewhat overdrawn by some subdividers selling cheap stuff, but good substantial Chicago property located on or near full section corners have proven themselves profitable.

Egypt Is Called Ancestor of the Alphabet

Light Also Is Thrown on Semitic Writings.

(Ideographs, picture writing, were highly developed in the Egyptian hieroglyphs depicting the stories of kings and queens and of the gods. A further step was the development of signs denoting a word or letter. That method is called phonetic. Its high development is represented by present day written languages. The story below indicates its early stage among the Egyptians.)

BY VERA MICKOL.

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

SINAI, Egypt, March 13.—Fourteen Sinaitic inscriptions dating from about 2000 B. C., which are expected to establish conclusively that Egyptian hierogliphics furnished the basis for the phonetic alphabet, the ancestor of our modern scripts, have just been discovered on and near the plateau of Serabit-el-Khaden, in the Sinai desert, by the joint expedition sponsored by Harvard university and the Catholic University of America.

The discoveries were made near the site of the ancient turquoise mines in Wadi El Maghara, and also in the ruins of the Egyptian temple of Hathor, the goddess represented with a cow's head, on the plateau itself. This region first was explored by Sir Flinders Petrie in 1904 and 1905.

Among the Egyptian hieroglyphs then photographed by the English scholar were certain crudely executed inscriptions, which, although resembling hieroglyphs, defied translation as Egyptian. It was not until 1918 that two English Egyptologists, Profs. Peete and Gardiner, announced those mysterious inscriptions were not Egyptian at all, but an adaptation of the picture-writing of the Pharaohs into arbitrary signs forming the consonants of the Semite tongue.

On this basis, Prof. Gethe, a German scholar, deciphered a majority of the inscriptions and illustrated their kinship with various later Semitic alphabets. Thereupon another German Egyptologist, Prof. Grimme of Munster, made the sensational announcement that the names of Moses and the Egyptian princess who rescued him from the Nile appeared in the Petrie documents.

A spirited controversy ensued among scholars and theologians. Conflicts of interpretation created a demand for re-examination of the original stone writings.

Sir Flinders Petrie, however, said he had forgotten their exact location. Other experts effectually were deterred from going to hunt them by lively memories of Petrie's difficulties with his Arabs.

Finally, in the spring of 1927, a brief preliminary examination on the site was made by Profs. Joseph Lake and Robert P. Blake of Harvard university. They located all of Petrie's finds except one, and found three additional inscriptions that were similar in execution.

With the collaboration of the Rev. Prof. R. Butin of the Catholic University of America, the data were studied and published by Harvard university. It was indicated that a thorough reinvestigation of ancient mines and temples would be required before the controversy over the age and import of the Semitic writings could be settled.

The present expedition is composed of Profs. Lake and Blake of Harvard, Father Butin of the Catholic university, Washington, D. C.; Dr. Debuck Leyden of Holland, Dr. Silva New, a fellow of the Guggenheim foundation, and Father Barrois, a Dominican of Jerusalem. On Feb. 9 they reached the desolate plateau of Serabit after their day's trek on camelback through the Sinai desert. The new Sinaitic material discovered, which doubles the total amount of available writing known to exist in this script, includes one inscribed statue from the temple of Hathor, one wall inscription from one of the mines, two rock scratchings, and ten fragments of slabs found in stone heaps and cairns.

The important fact has been established that the Egyptians and Semites, although contemporaneous, kept to themselves. Except at the temple, which was a common sanctuary for both peoples, Egyptian and Sinaitic monuments were not found together. The Sinaitic script is not one which is peculiar to the few who operated the mines but was used by the Semites in general who visited the plateau.

THE STAGE

WHITFORD KANE announces that the Irish play he will stage at the Goodman theater next Monday night for one performance—"Loggerheads"—was written by an American. He also states that his intention in these occasional performances is "to further the production of plays by American authors." He hopes to follow "Loggerheads" with "Shoot if You Must," by Joanna Roos, the actress, and a piece by Fay Ehlert of Chicago.

In addition to Mr. Kane, the cast of "Loggerheads" will include Viola Berwick, Maire O'Gallagher, Louis C. Alter, Donald Briggs, Phelim O'Gallagher, Thomas K. Boyle, Helen Hunter, and Bina Kelly. Yeats' "Cathleen Ni Houlihan" will be given as a curtain raiser to "Loggerheads," with Lora E. Cooney in the rôle of the Poor Old Woman who represents the spirit of Ireland.

"Your Uncle Dudley" began a new lease of life at the Playhouse night before last, after having had two weeks at the Cort theater. Its cast remains unchanged, with Thomas W. Ross in the title rôle and Mrs. Jacques Martin as the foxy grandma.

Mitzi's revival of the light opera, "Sari," will end its engagement at the Illinois theater tomorrow night. A new booking is being arranged, but the Illinois will be closed for a while.

The "all-star" revival of Sheridan's "The Rivals," with Mrs. Fiske in the rôle of Mrs. Malaprop, had its New York premiere last night. A preliminary performance was given Wednesday night in the new McCarter theater of Princeton university, which was dedicated a few weeks ago. Andrew Mack, once a rival of Chauncy Olcott in romantic Hibernian plays for tenor-actors, has succeeded Fiske O'Hara in the rôle of Sir Lucius O'Trigger.

The Theater Guild will bring its production of Turgenev's play, "A Month in the Country," into New York next week. This premiere will mark Alla Nazimova's debut with the Guild. The settings and costumes are reproductions of those designed for the Moscow Art theater when it put this play into its repertory in 1909. This will be the first staging of a Turgenev play in translation for American audiences.

Charles (Chic) Sales, the well known literary man and vaudeville performer, is about to emerge in a musical show called "They Had to See Paris," under the management of the Shuberts. The company is now in rehearsal.

Lennox Robinson, formerly an executive and playwright of the Abbey theater of Dublin—the old "Irish players group"—will lecture and produce plays at the State University of Montana this coming summer. He is known in Chicago for his "The White-headed Boy," "The Clancy Name," and "The Lost Leader." He was business manager of the Abbey theater from 1910 to 1914 and from 1919 to 1925.

Chicago Calm, Beautiful City, Aim of Women

Committee of 100 Getting Ready for 1933.

To try to brighten Chicago's tarnished name as a playground for gangsters, to attempt to substitute a picture of a city as serene as a New England village in place of a vision of bullets whizzing at innocent bystanders—that is the aim of a committee of 100 women organized by the Women's Chicago Beautiful association.

The board of the association met yesterday in the Fine Arts building to hear the first report of the organization of the committee by Mrs. Edward S. Bailey, chairman of the American homes committee. The association, organized last year to beautify Chicago for the world's fair, will function as a permanent organization.

"Our committee of 100 will be divided into three groups, one of which will educate the east concerning Chicago; one the west, and the third the south," Mrs. Bailey said. We will write to newspapers and to chambers of commerce and women's clubs. We will also meet women who want to travel to Chicago. So many are afraid even to set foot in the stations, it seems.

"We may enlarge our southern section of the committee, as many of our southern members are anxious to have friends from the south visit them here, and at present they're afraid to come. I have lived here for years and years and have never been shot by a machine gun yet, but they don't understand."

"Of course, we admit things about Chicago among ourselves we never would admit to outsiders," said Mrs. William Westerlund, president, "but things aren't as bad as outsiders think."

Mrs. Charles J. Trainer, chairman of the city and county affairs committee, was appointed to write a letter to the city council asking that the ordinance prohibiting the posting of political posters on light posts be enforced. The board voted to ask the Chicago Motor Coach company to place signs at points in the loop where buses load passengers.

The association will meet at luncheon in the Hotel Sherman Tuesday, when Col. Robert Isham Randolph will speak. The membership committee will start on a campaign for 5,000 members today by selling memberships to the woman's auxiliary of the American Legion meeting in the Sherman. The association now numbers more than 500.

Pledges of $72,379 Added Toward Boy Scouts' Fund

Additional subscriptions of $72,379 to the Boy Scout four year expansion fund were announced yesterday by Silas H. Strawn, chairman of the executive committee. The total toward the $1,250,000 goal, now stands at $687,379, he said, following the weekly luncheon of workers at the Union League club. Reports of progress came from 45 groups of business and professional men. It was announced also that the younger business men who reside in the Lincoln park community, many of them members of the Harvard-Yale-Princeton club, have organized to further the campaign in their district.

Patriotic Body, 'Broke,' Sells Washington Irving's Home

New York, March 13.—[Special.]—The National Patriotic Builders of America, organized by Mrs. William Cumming Story, honorary president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, to buy the Washington Irving house at Irving place and 17th street as a center of patriotic and good citizenship work, has been compelled to give up its plan for lack of financial support.

That was disclosed today when Supreme Court Justice Townley signed an order permitting the society to sell the house to Louis Sobel, a realty man, for $65,000.

King of Italy Again Honors Louis Eckstein for Opera

Louis Eckstein, head of the Ravinia summer opera, was given the rank of commendatore of the Order of the Crown of Italy, yesterday, through Giuseppe Castruccio, Italian consul general at Chicago. The honor is the second received by Mr. Eckstein from the same source in two years. He was decorated in 1928 as a chevalier of the same order. Mr. Eckstein accepted the rank, he said, as "an additional mark of favor bestowed by his majesty the king, in further recognition of Ravinia's progress."

Society Strives for Better Care of Illinois Babies

Better supervision and education of midwives is being urged by the Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness. Nearly one-fifth of the midwives in Illinois are operating without a license, Miss Audrey M. Hayden, executive secretary of that society, declared at conferences now being held in Springfield with the state department of registration and education and the department of public welfare. She said that of 506 midwives, 114 apparently are operating without licenses.

BOOTH DAUGHTER QUITS SALVATION ARMY TO WRITE FATHER'S LIFE

LONDON, March 13.—(AP)—Commissioner Catherine Booth of the Salvation Army, daughter of the late Gen. Bramwell Booth, will leave the army, but not voluntarily, to write the biography of her father, Mrs. Bramwell Booth, the general's widow, declared today. Mrs. Booth said that her daughter wished to continue her work and write the book also, but that Gen. Higgins, new commander of the army, had decided that she could not do both.

"I and my daughter are distressed that Gen. Higgins has insisted upon her giving up her work as leader of women's social work of the army because she wishes to write her father's life story," Mrs. Booth said.

"As an officer she informed him that she wished to write the biography. To our amazement he told her to choose between her work and writing of the life. If she insisted on writing the biography, she must relinquish her work. The announcement puts us in the wrong light and we are in great sorrow."

French Make Humblest Food Gourmet's Treat

And We Adopt Menus and Phrases.

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

One of the reasons, perhaps, why the French nation has made so much of an ornament, art and sport of life is because it has defied scant fare to seem scanty. From one plain, closely covered earthen casserole, put under the hot French ashes over night, have come aromas that would tempt the gods to partake of a really humble mixture. The French have made the humblest vegetables poetic and worthy of standing alone as a course at any fine meal. They have made a duck dish a dream, and cooked a certain fish into international eminence—or several fishes, for that matter.

To reiterate: The French have truly made the simplest and humblest foods luscious to the imagination as well as to the tongue. A dish of beans—lets us say of Soissons—they have made, and do make, as dainty and engaging as one of ortolans, and much more human or humane. And, talking about the human, we can but smile to know that the French will show a tender personal regard for a little pig—Tony they call him—even while they propose to eat him soon. They fairly fondle a cheese daily for months that it may finally have a ne plus ultra of flavor.

Following French Models.

Follow the French in food models, the world has often said, and in a measure it has done so, yet it has stopped far short of constantly or incessantly making each meal as gayly insouciant or lively as the French do, far short indeed. Endless people around us have a real meal only occasionally, and to their everlasting harm, are satisfied with some mere snack.

And, talking about accepting and rejecting, let us note that the French word for the dinner card has almost entirely supplanted its prosaic equivalent "bill of fare." We in the United States once independently anglicized this word, pronouncing the first two letters as we did our month of May—look in the dictionary if you do not believe it—but now we struggle everywhere to pronounce them after the French manner or, rather, we now group the first three letters to make them sound like "men." When we want a table d'hote we use the French term—have to. And so with "buffet," "hors d'oeuvre," et al.

French Déjeuner.

Admitting so much indisputable evidence of having followed the French, with menu and all, why should we not accept, especially when we wish to make our luncheons different, distinguished and more of an affair than they might otherwise seem, the French terms, "dejeûner à la fourchette," for our high noon meal? The first meal of the French day is called "petit dejeûner," and so we translate it breakfast, and some people like to translate the expression for the meal with fork [fourchette] a "second breakfast." An English excure will stubbornly call it breakfast merely, while an American gives as its equivalent the word luncheon.

Our custom of wedding breakfasts probably comes from the French custom of the same sort with the name dejeûner de noces, although this gives back of the French. And the English did accept, years back, the term "de-dejeûner de noces, although this goes exceedingly grand party with dancing, which we find much about in an old novel of the date when these affairs so named were the last word in entertaining. Fifty or sixty years ago breakfasts were greatly fashionable with us, and the French mode and service were followed, but the name was not used.

As for me, if I were given to entertaining, or could possess the three unities of that privilege—time [a good bulk of it], place and resources—it would seem to me a pleasant and smart thing to send out invitations to dejeûner à la fourchette. To my mind this means something more complete, less commonplace, more entertaining, jollier, than the word luncheon to which it corresponds.

Variety of Dishes Possible.

Now that we have come to the extreme place when we put so much on our tables that is not food, it is about time for a reaction towards simplicity and, thank heaven! the people of privilege are reacting, as I could prove by quoting certain things. And it will be pleasant to escape the confusion of a mess of metal imprisoning our plates, and in a measure distracting our attention from the elusive fineness of the food, and time, also, to escape some other things that are to me even more objectionable on the luncheon table.

A dejeûner à la fourchette should rightfully begin with an hors d'ouvres, and how pleasant it is to have a little hot one, a casserolette on a serving plate, with no other silver in sight save the little fork! [To be sure, with some casserolettes we need a spoon, but this is a fault.]

A casserolette for an Easter luncheon can be superlative. The French eat fish with two forks, and if this is on our noon menu we may, also. And what is a salad but a fork dish? And so on. The English use a fork as well as a knife in eating fruit.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Baked Shad.

One needs to be a market enthusiast, and a Baltimorean epicure, to strike just the exact day and hour when baked shad is a supreme edible, even for the most exalted table. Not so very many years ago it seemed to me that the ideal way of baking any fish was in a paper bag. This really was an imitation of the old ways of baking fish buried in clay, or, sometimes, wrapped in heavy brown paper in the fire box of a coal stove under a base of ashes with hot coals on top.

The most unforgettable experience with baked shad I ever had was when I was guest where the shad was baked in coarse or butcher's salt. A big dripping pan had a layer of salt in it, the fish was put in and then covered with the salt completely, and I cannot remember how long it was baked. What I did remember was that one must be careful in removing it from the oven not to inhale the fumes from the hot salt. No seasoning was required for the fish when it was not noticeably salt. A thin white sauce was served with it.

It is interesting to note what some of the old recipes for baking shad prescribed. For instance, here is Marion Harland's: "Wash and wipe a large shad, make a stuffing of fine bread crumbs mixed with melted butter, a little minced onion, pepper and salt to taste. Fill the fish with this and sew it up. Lay it in a baking pan and pour over it a cupful of salted boiling water in which two tablespoons of butter have been melted. Sprinkle the fish with flour and bake in a steady oven. Baste with the drippings every ten minutes.

At the end of three-quarters of an hour, try the fish with a fork to see if it is done. It should be tender. Transfer carefully to a hot platter, cut and remove the strings. Keep the fish hot while you make the sauce. Set on the top of the range the pan on which the fish has been baked. Thicken the fish drippings with two tablespoons of brown flour set up with cold water, stir until smooth, then add a cupful of boiling water, the juice of a lemon, a tablespoon of good table sauce and a teaspoon of good kitchen bouquet."

Do not add any table sauce, nor any kitchen bouquet, nor anything that would disguise the dainty flakes of fish.

New Potatoes Sure Sign That Spring Is Here

Juicy Spuds Come from West and South.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Signs of spring on Chicago dinner tables, far from being the one time fresh vegetable selection, are now largely confined to the presence of the first small, round, red skinned "new potatoes," which will soon arrive from southern plantations.

While these juicy little spuds first come from the sunny states at present enjoyed by the nation's winter vacation seeking public, the history of their rising popularity dates back to the time when they were natives of the "great open spaces" of the west.

Seed Grown in West.

The seed for early spring potatoes is grown in Nebraska, Wyoming, Montana, and nearby states. Thousands of acres of newly cultivated soil in the higher altitudes is devoted even yet to the production of certified seed potatoes. They are shipped in solid trainloads, and officials of the Burlington railroad report more than 5,000 carloads being shipped last season into the fertile coastal country of the south and southwest.

The seed stock is planted in the south in January and February. By April and May the commercial crop of "new potatoes," as they are known to the housewife, are found on midwest and eastern markets. Potato growers of the south ship their seed from western states because the seed is produced under favorable growing conditions. Grown in a high altitude, with a limited amount of moisture, the seed potatoes of western Nebraska produce high yields and are resistant to disease in the south.

Specialized Business.

Growing certified seed potatoes has become a specialized business in Nebraska. Great care is used in seed selection, preparation of the soil and growing crop. Fields are "rogued" or inspected for weak or diseased plants by competent inspectors at least three times during the growing season.

Before the seed is shipped it is carefully graded and sorted. Each bag is sealed with a blue tag carrying a certificate which warrants that the seed has met the stringent requirements of the state agricultural college. This certified seed is sold to the southern planters through an efficient cooperative marketing association.

Nebraska certified seed potato growers received about $2 per bushel for their 1929 crop. Most of the crop is contracted for before it is harvested. There is demand for Nebraska seed potatoes in all the southern states from Florida to Texas, in Mexico, and the Bermuda islands.

OPEN CAMPAIGN AGAINST SIGNS ON HIGHWAYS

A campaign for the removal of all unauthorized signs, billboards and other structures from the right of way of the streets and highways of Chicago and other towns in the Chicago area was started yesterday by the streets and public safety committee of the City Club of Chicago. The committee adopted a resolution calling on the county and municipal governments and civic organizations to cooperate with the state department of public works in removing the signs.

The resolution pointed out that most of these signboards are of an advertising nature, erected for personal gain, and that the highway information which they contain is often erroneous and confusing to motorists. Warren G. Bailey, chairman of the committee, said that the removal of the signs may have some effect upon careless driving and avert loss of life and property damage caused by traffic accidents.

PRICE OF CORN SKIDS IN FACE OF LIGHT CROP

Reaches Season's Low in Chicago Market.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Corn prices suffered yesterday from the cramped storage and diminished demand which have been problems in the wheat situation for many months. May and July corn quotations in Chicago dropped more than two cents a bushel, to the lowest figures of the crop season.

The cash sales of corn were at slightly less than 75 cents a bushel, the first time this has happened in March since 1927. The market conditions were said yesterday to be another reflection of artificial activities playing on the old economic law of supply and demand, because this year's existing corn crop is smaller than those of the two previous years, which were selling above 90 cents a bushel in March, 1928 and 1929.

Report Corn Movement Lighter.

Movement of corn out of the counties of its production has been much lighter since the present crop year started on Nov. 1. Terminal corn movements to date are reported to have been 116,000,000 bushels, compared with 147,000,000 bushels marketed to the same date last year.

The 1929 corn crop now being traded in was reported by the government to be 44,000,000 bushels lighter than the preceding crop, yet because of the distressed world grain situation since last October it is said to have brought the farmer approximately one-fifth less. Present stocks of corn in the United States are reported as less than the year before by the government, although farmers in the eight leading corn states have 3,000,000 bushels more on hand now than a year ago. Poor grade corn sold as low as 35 cents a bushel delivered in Chicago this week.

United States Buys More Wheat.

In the wheat pits little change took place yesterday, largely due to the buying of 5,000,000 bushels of May wheat, credited to the federally controlled Grain Stabilization corporation. Prices on the existing wheat crop were 1⅛ to 1¼ cents lower than the day before in spite of this purchasing, while the unharvested crop rose fractionally on scattered reports of crop damage in the southwest.

Experienced observers of wheat market maneuvering declared last night that several million bushels of wheat that had been "hedged" or sold for delivery in July or September were being exchanged for May delivery contracts, especially by the speculative or trading interests. This is being done, the experts explained, in order that the government in buying the May contracts would take possession of actual wheat as the present crop season ends.

Cite Farm Board Action.

The fact that the federal farm board has assured the public of its intention of accepting for storage or sale all grain contracted for is being taken as the basis for this new movement by the grain trade, the observers stated. Another element, they said, is the declaration of Chairman Legge that the farm board expects to possess about 100,000,000 bushels of grain at the end of the crop year, and has been credited with purchasing an estimated 40,000,000 bushels.

Slight Change in Foreign Marts.

Grain prices in foreign markets showed little change from their drastic declines on Tuesday. A prominent Chicagoan who returned from a survey of European conditions yesterday confirmed reports from London to the effect that English buyers had been able to obtain sufficient wheat from other countries than the United States and Canada for their curtailed flour needs.

France, Germany, Italy, Russia, and other smaller nations have profited from being able to dispose of unexpectedly large crops, he said, adding that "of course the financial conditions in foreign countries have caused underselling of North American grains during the winter."

DEFENDS CANADIAN POOL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., March 13.—With wheat hovering around the dollar mark, leading Canadian bankers refused today to admit the danger of a national financial crisis. Sir John Aird, president of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, which heads the syndicate handling the loans of the Canadian wheat pool, declared that the situation would improve as soon as navigation opened. Wheat is bound to start moving then, he said.

Sir John reiterated an earlier statement that the pool was acting in the best way to meet the situation. The price of cash wheat today is below the money advanced by the pool to the farmers, but the banks are protected by the guarantees of the three prairie governments.

Other bankers declined to comment, but intimated that Sir John was acting as spokesman and expressing the opinion of the whole banking syndicate. Canada is still holding almost the entire 224,000,000 bushels of wheat it had in storage on Nov. 30.

Frank Oliver, former dominion railway commissioner, in a speech today charged that banks and wheat pool executives have created the Canadian crisis which, he said, only crop failure or reduced acreage can relieve.

The Card Table Party Serves Good Purposes

Ideal Way to Entertain in Small Home.

BY SALLY LUNN.

Card table parties are one good method of overcoming the disadvantages of living in small apartments. Even the smallest of kitchenette dwellings can accommodate two card tables for luncheon, dinner, or card parties with refreshments served, if the arrangements are well managed. For large apartments, too, the card table party serves many good purposes. Sunday night suppers, large afternoon bridge parties, and children's parties can be given successfully with the aid of card tables.

Bear in mind, however, that a card table party must be carefully organized or it will be messy. The use of small tables seating four should be used not merely as a matter of expediency, but with some thought for the comfort and convenience of the guests.

The tables should be set and equipped beforehand, not put up hastily with the equipment thrown on in haphazard fashion. One well managed dinner party was given with card tables for twenty people. The tables were set prettily and lined up in the dining room, so that the guests were not impeded, as they arrived in their progress through the rooms. The chairs to be pulled up to the tables were placed strategically, so that there was no confusing running around to get them from other rooms at the last minute. When the meal had been served, the tables were quietly cleared by the servants, and the bridge game was in progress shortly.

System Is Great Aid.

Sometimes, for an informal card table party the guests help, in which case it is more necessary than ever that things be organized properly. In setting the tables, you may use as much thought and care as for a regular dining table, and get as pretty effects on a small scale. You have your choice of having your several tables match in their design, or in having them each distinctive, and an entity unto itself. Certainly, if your group is so large that you are forced to use different sets of things, see that matching ones are placed on the same tables.

One of the most important considerations for a card table party is that the tables be sturdy and with nice, strong legs. Men, in particular, dislike the sensation of being uncomfortable, and nothing is more disquieting than a rickety table that may pitch over on one leg, just when you are sawing away at the chicken drumstick.

Reduce the amount of china and silver to be used to the smallest necessary quantity. The combination salad and meat course affair is one of the best for such purpose. Buttered rolls, eliminating the necessity for butter plates, are wise, and for a meal that is of the refreshment variety following the card playing or such, one can have the coffee cup on the plate, instead of with a separate saucer.

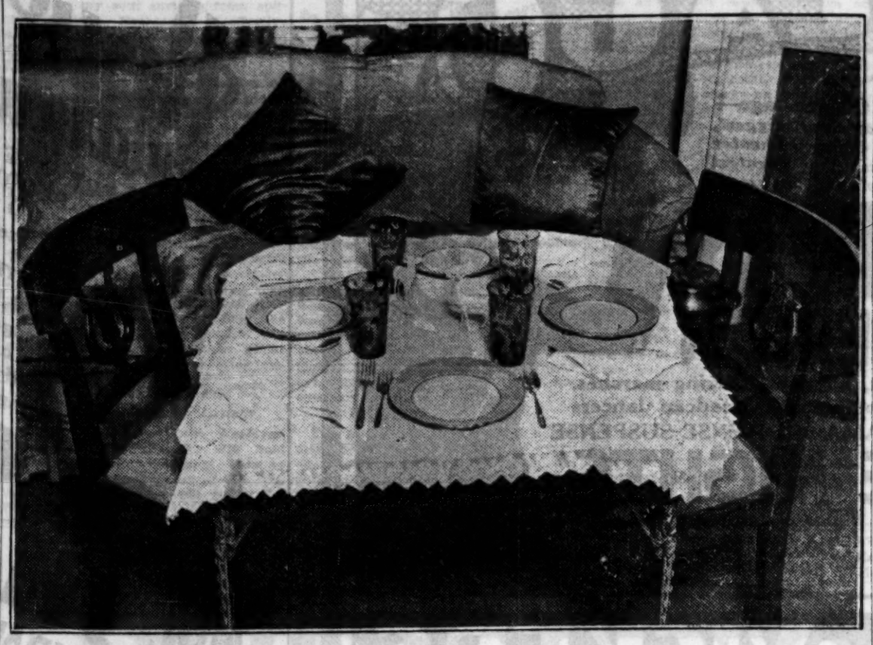
Choose Decorations with Care.

One small centerpiece, a candlestick, a small vase of flowers, or an ornament is all that a card table will stand, but it can be cleverly chosen, so that the whole table is effective. It is a bit more successful to use tumblers rather than goblets, as the latter contribute to the impression of instability. If you have a number of bridge table covers of different colors and kinds you can make a most colorful effect by setting each table to make a color scheme of its own.

Mrs. Clara Ingram Judson, in a recent radio talk, told about her Sunday night supper parties, and they sounded extremely pleasant. She made several suggestions for setting pretty tables. She chose sheer cloths in different pastel shades for several tables. One, set with an appliqued voile cloth, had apricot colored Lenox plates, black glass tumblers, a pewter vase with a few sprays of flowers, and pewter ash trays.

Another had a cloth of pale green handkerchief linen, appliqued in white, Wedgwood plates with a Japanese design, mottled crystal tumblers, and a centerpiece of the small branchlike flower called euphorbia. Still another, was bedecked in modern ware, with an apricot cloth, black Jean Luce plates and tumblers, and a pair of small compotes supported on elephant figures.

CARD TABLES PLAY DUAL ROLES



For entertaining in a small space, or for enlarging a party that can't be accommodated comfortably at the dining table, card tables are of great assistance. This one has metal legs, and is set with a white embroidered cloth and napkins, salad sized plates with pale green border and gold edge, amber etched glasses, and two white blown glass deers.

Graduate School at Harvard Tightens Rules for Entry

Cambridge, Mass., March 13.—[Special.]—College graduation with distinction will be needed to admit men to the Harvard graduate school of arts and sciences, beginning next September. The registration in that school has grown from 659 in 1922 to 1,011 during the present year.

It is expected that the new requirement will be so administered that no man of sufficient ability will be excluded. The graduates are to "present satisfactory evidence of ability to pursue graduate work with profit. Such evidence may be graduation with distinction or, in the upper third of the class, election to Phi Beta Kappa, or records that show distinguished work in a special field, either as undergraduates or as graduate students in other institutions. Applicants must also present satisfactory evidence of good character."

Fifty per cent gain in registration in seven years has confronted the administrative board of the graduate school with the same problem the medical school, the law school, and the school of business administration have met by setting a fixed limit to the number of men whom they will admit. The board of the graduate school of arts and sciences, therefore, became convinced that any restriction on admission must aim to improve the quality of the men admitted rather than attempt to fix a definite number.

Moire Dress Viewed at Cannes Casino

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—Paris can't get enough moire for the evening dress and coat, and smart women are just as insatiable. The French qualify this fabric as distingué. It deserves that adjective because of the way it is fashioned into frocks and worn over here.

Princess Marie José of Belgium chose moire for some of her grandest trousseau ensembles when she married Prince Humbert. Other distinguished women have as a minimum one moire evening ensemble in their southern wardrobes.

There are two kinds of moire—both equally smart—supple moire and the stiff, stand alone moire for formal dresses. Yellow, white, green, red and pale gray are the favorite colors for moire frocks in Paris. The chic moire evening gown sketched is made of stiff moire, and first made its debut at the Cannes Casino recently.

This dress shows the ideal cut for a dress made of stiff moire. The bodice is moulded to the hipline on the right side and below that point on the left. It is trimmed with three zig-zag necklaces in front, made of tiny real gold beads, and in back it is cut to a profound U. A crisp bow of the material is attached to the left hip.

Churches Tell of 6,000 Gain During 3 Days

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Six thousand persons declared intentions to join churches of their choice as a result of the first three days visitation in the greater Chicago Evangelism campaign. Leaders state that the daily average of 2,000 greatly will increase as the close of the final phase of the work approaches.

According to information from the central office of the campaign, Chicago Temple, many of the smaller churches have obtained more sensational results, relatively speaking, than the larger congregations. Several smaller churches report practically doubled membership. Dr. A. Earl Kernahan, Washington, D. C., director of the campaign, said that this means that the few days work has accomplished as much in respect to membership growth as their entire previous history.

Thirteen larger congregations have gained more than 100 converts in the three days. These include the Englewood Methodist Episcopal, Irving Park Lutheran, Blue Island Methodist Episcopal, and the Englewood Presbyterian churches. One of these churches gained nineteen entire families. The Englewood Methodist church thus far leads with 147 new members.

Dr. Kernahan stated last night that he is gratified with the results obtained. He predicted that the anticipated number of 40,000 new members would probably be exceeded before all the assignment cards are returned.

Another type of result reported, aside from new members, is the healing of an old dispute in one of the churches participating in the campaign. It is stated that a group had been estranged from the church several years ago. Leaders declared that the breach is now healed and the estranged members are back and aiding in the campaign.

Dr. Kernahan declared that some of the most noteworthy work is in the poorer industrial sections of the city. He gave as examples the Wentworth Avenue Baptist church and Union Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, both in the stock yards district. Visitors from these churches are finding great numbers of people who show an eagerness to join in religious activities.

Contrary to the spirit of the commercial age, Episcopal Bishop Frank E. Wilson, Eau Claire, yesterday said a person cannot hire another to do his religion for him. Speaking before noonday Lenten service listeners at the Garrick theater, he declared:

"You cannot hire human kindness, friendship, good will or Christian worship. I might pour out wealth to build churches for other people to worship in, while my soul shrivels from spiritual neglect. Nothing is so effective as a man or woman living a personal Christian life in the midst of non-Christian people."

Bishop Wilson concludes his Lenten sermons at the Garrick theater today. Bishop G. G. Bennett of Duluth will be the preacher for the Episcopal Church club at the noonday services next week.

Lindbergh Averts Crash in New Try at Glider

Carmel, Cal., March 13.—(AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, aided by a brisk westerly breeze, soared in a glider plane from a hill on the Sidney Fish ranch here today, but instead of making a long distance flight along the coast landed safely in a meadow two miles south. In landing the glider narrowly missed crashing into telephone wires.

Children Can Early Be Taught Tact and Politeness

By Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bevans

A "Sex Education Booklet," by Mrs. Bevans, will be sent free on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

It was three o'clock. Nurses, mothers, aunts waited in the cheerful square entrance hall of the school for the younger children. They chatted, standing, or sitting on the benches that lined the lobby.

One 6 year old, dismissed early, sat waiting for some one to call for him. The door opened and one more woman was added to the group. A moment of silence came—and into it fell the voice of the bonny and intellegent looking 6 year old: "O, what funny eyes the lady has How funny her eyes are."

The nurse, who had entered a moment before was cross-eyed, as every one instinctively observed when the child spoke. At once every one tried to cover the moment by talking about the weather, or the time, or anything that came to mind. It's not necessary to add that the woman made so conspicuous was horribly embarrassed.

Now, you may think "Only a child," or "He didn't realize," but as a matter of fact—drawn from experience—such an episode could not have occurred if that little boy had been properly guided. Long before a child is 6 countless opportunities come for him to see people who have some physical defect—slight or great. Illness and accident leave marks on many people and children are keen to observe them. At first they may speak of them at the time, in public places. But a very little, very simple explaining can prevent this happening again.

A grown person of any sensitiveness will take measures to prevent children hurting others in this way. All one needs do is to tell children that no one likes being scarred or lame or different from others in that way—and that they like even less to have it talked about before them.

It helps, however, to discuss such things with children quite fully when you are out of the person's hearing. Even small children can understand what hurting people's feelings means—and all one needs to do is to prepare them for a little thinking of the comfort of others. But there is no reason why you should not satisfy their interest or curiosity by talking afterwards of the peculiarity they have noticed.

150 HEIRS DISPUTE FOR $2,631,579 "FORTUNE" OF EMIGRANT TO U. S.

NAPLES, Italy, March 13.—(AP)—One hundred and fifty putative heirs, who have employed 300 lawyers, are actively disputing apportionment of a fortune of $2,631,579, founded by the humble emigrant Domenico Culotta of Cefalu, Sicily. One branch of the Culottos is believed to live in Boston; others reside in Rome, Genoa and Palermo.

It appears that Culotta emigrated to America in 1840 when 18 with a fellow townsman named Glorioso. When the gold rush of '49 started they went westward, struck pay dirt, and staked a claim over a fine vein of the precious metal.

Find No Clew to Estate.

New Orleans, La., March 13.—(AP)—Dr. Paul A. Rossi, Italian consul general in New Orleans, today said he had been approached by claimants to the $2,631,579 estate, but that so far no clew had been developed here to establish definitely that the estate exists. Culotta died in New Orleans some forty or fifty years ago and time may have wiped out his title to the estate. The western location is also beyond the jurisdiction of the New Orleans consulate district.

Only Women's Slate Loser Is Victorious on Recount

Stephenson, Mich., March 13.—(AP)—Persistent women, whose entry into politics in this village was marred apparently by defeat of only one of their slate of candidates, were jubilant today when it was announced that a recount had given them complete victory.

Mrs. Grace Sanders, who contested the office of village president against the incumbent, apparently lost, 90 to 89. In the recount 28 questionable ballots went into the discard. Mrs. Sanders was declared the victor, 77 to 74.

All other women candidates were elected.

Doris Explains How Marriage Can Break Friendships

BY DORIS BLAKE.

If a husband makes it plain that he does not like his wife's women friends, the decent think for a friend to do is to fade out of the picture, and do it as quickly and as silently as possible. No recriminations against the husband. No attempts at coercing the wife's sympathy. Just fade out politely and neatly.

It is the friendliest thing that can be done for the wife. No matter how she may feel about the justice or injustice of certain incidents in which the friend meets rebuttal at the hands of the husband, the wife's loyalty belongs to him and not to the outsider.

Some women never seem to get this into their heads. They think they can keep on pursuing the same old tenor of friendship that existed before their friends' marriage. They abuse the male who makes the old meetings impossible.

Not all husbands are so constituted that a wife cannot keep up her old contacts, but many of them are. Many start out with a deep prejudice against a woman's old associates. There may be neither rhyme nor reason to the prejudice. But if it is there, and it is always recognizable, the thing to do is to honor the prejudice and keep as far away from the objecting male as possible.

Mrs. J. T. reports that her dear friend is in the hospital. A self-appointed sister of mercy, Mrs. J. T. goes bearing sympathy, fruit, and home made delicacies to the bed ridden woman.

"I have done every possible kindness I could think of," writes the complainant. "I have stayed up all night with her at the wife's own request. I thought everything was appreciated. But I find out the husband has been talking about me unkindly. He claims I make his wife nervous. Eetc., etc."

Making the wife nervous in all probability is exactly what the outside attentions have done. Knowing her husband's dislike for the outsider, the wife would be in a state of nervous tension with friend's every appearance on the scene. The kindliest, the most friendly thing to do, then, plainly is to keep away from the hospital. And be understanding about it. Don't be resentful. It is simply one of those quirks in human makeup that, not being eradicable, had better be catered to for the peace and happiness of all concerned.

Weak Explanation.

"Dear Miss Blake: The girl I love won't go out with me because her friends tease her. I am 19; she's 17.
"MICKEY."

Few girls of her age would be influenced by what their friends say. There must be another reason.

Must Be a Reason.

Your parents must have a reason. Find out what it is. Possibly their objection can be overcome.

First Steps in Italian.

In the university where I am a student the modern foreign language departments maintain clubs for those taking these languages. The Italian club has luncheon together twice a week. I have been studying it for only a short time, so consequently understand only the simplest sentences.

One day the meal was progressing nicely, but, on my part, silently. Then the professor at the head of the table said something to me which I understood to be, "Are there apples in the salad?"

I replied "Si"—yes.

Imagine my consternation when the professor went to the next table, picked up a salad and came down to me grinning broadly.

Then I understood; he had asked if I wished another salad. Amid the laughter of the table I explained my error, but the professor insisted that I eat it after "he had reached." I smiled, but resolved to answer "No" to all questions. E. M. J. C.

Not Very Flattering.

I was newly employed as an information clerk at a university when a man came in and asked to see the dean. I told the dean, but as he was busy he told me to ask the man to wait.

In my effort to be polite I became a little confused and instead of saying, "The dean is busy," I said, "The bean is dizzy."

You can easily imagine my embarrassment. E. J. J.

Bright Sayings of the Children

The family next door to little Betty, 5, had a new baby in their home. A few days after it was born they had occasion to unpack something and put the basket of excelsior on the back porch.

Little Betty, looking over and seeing the basket, exclaimed, "O, mother, that baby must have come well packed." M. W.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each childish saying printed. The story told must never have been printed in any magazine or paper. It is not possible to acknowledge or return unavailable contributions. Write on one side of the paper. Address bright sayings to Aunty Bee, The Tribune, Chicago.

Younger Set's Fancy Turns to Spring Holidays

BY THALIA

Spring vacations are the dominating note just now in households, at least those whose younger members are in the process of being educated.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Frederick Childs, who have been occupying the Hampden Winston apartment at 229 Lake Shore drive this winter, leave next week for a jaunt to the Bermudas, timed so that they can be accompanied by young Newell Childs, who is studying at Hotchkiss. When they return in early April, they will go out to Lake Forest.

The Leonard A. Busby family is a family divided against itself in the matter of spring vacation. Janet, who is at Westover, has her vacation beginning next week, and Jack, who is at the Latin school, doesn't have his until a week later, so the possibilities of a united outing are nil. Mrs. Busby leaves next week, and Janet will go with her for a fortnight in Charleston, S. C. Mr. Busby is to take Jack and a classmate of his, Seymour Parsons, the William E. Parsons' son, known by his contemporaries as "Snoz," down to the Busby ranch in the Ozarks, where they can hunt and shoot to their hearts' content.

Many parents and vacationing youngsters will spend the holiday at Virginia Hot Springs and White Sulphur Springs. Charles H. Schweppe is taking his daughter, Jean, down there, while Mrs. Schweppe goes to California to be with her mother, Mrs. John Shedd, and her sister, Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed.

The Arts club has invitations out for a Sunday evening program for March 23, to meet Serge Prokofieff and Lina Llubera [Mme. Prokofieff], who are to present a musical program. A buffet supper is to be served at 7 o'clock and the music will follow at 830. Mr. Prokofieff was the soloist and guest conductor with the Symphony orchestra a few weeks ago.

Mrs. William Sherman Hay, Mrs. Otto L. Schmidt, Mrs. J. Elliott Jenkins, and Mrs. Henry Bartholomay are among those who have taken tickets for the recital of Fritz Renk, violinist, at the Civic theater on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Herbert N. Woodward, son of Arthur H. Woodward of Winnetka, is chairman of the freshman banquet committee at Cornell university. The banquet takes place in the late spring and is followed on Decoration day by the cap burning, which symbolizes the end of the freshman year. The first year men throw their caps into a huge bonfire on Upper Alumni field, and addresses appropriate to the occasion are made. G. A. Hutchinson Jr. of Highland Park also is a member of the committee.

The winter vacationers at Miami Beach are being diverted this month by a number of sports events. There is a national women's swimming meet beginning today and lasting through Monday, then a large golf tournament from March 20 to 22, a series of men's tennis championship matches, and an annual regatta on March 25 and 26.

Mrs. Frederick Wacker of Lake Forest and her two boys, Charles H. Wacker III. and Frederick Jr., have arrived, and the Leslie Wheelers of Lake Forest are house guests of the Laurance Armours at their cottage. The Roy Keehns were among the guests at a party given by the Howard Chandler Christys last week at the Bathclub, which also was attended by James Davis, secretary of labor, and Mrs. Davis. The Albert D. Laskers and Mr. and Mrs. John Hertz and their daughter, Mrs. Alfred Ettlinger, attended a dinner party given by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gannett for David Lawrence, political writer. Gov. Louis Emmerson is concluding his stay as the guest of the Charles A. McCullochs, with a fishing trip and a trip to Havana.

Mrs. John Alden Carpenter is expected back today from a brief trip to New York City.

Col. and Mrs. Albert A. Sprague, who have been at Charleston, S. C., were in New York City this week on their way back.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Robbins of the Drake have returned from traveling in the south and east. The Caryl B. Youngs, also residents of the Drake, are back from their winter visit to Palm Beach, Fla.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles R. Erdman of Princeton, N. J., went through Chicago on their way to California last week. They undoubtedly will visit their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Pardee Erdman of Pasadena, and see for the first time their new grandchild.

Mr. and Mrs. William B. Schrauff of New York City announce the birth of a son, William B. Schrauff Jr., on March 8 at Mrs. Le Roy's sanitarium. Mrs. Schrauff was Miss Katherine Putnam of Lake Forest before her marriage a year ago last September.

100 ENGLISH WOMEN, 12 MEN ORGANIZE IN WAR ON LONG SKIRTS

LIVERPOOL, England, March 13.—(AP)—Formed to fight the new long skirt fashions, "the Sensible Dress society" came into being at a meeting of about 100 women and a dozen men here last night.

Mrs. Bessie Harrison, the president, relies mainly on hygienic and freedom of movement arguments as the main weapons. On the economic side, she maintains it is a fallacy to imagine longer dresses will assist the cloth and silk trade, because the modern woman can afford two short dresses against one long one.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

BILLIE S.: BLONDES SHOULD use only the whites of eggs for shampooing, but brunettes may use the whole egg. Beat up three eggs lightly, adding a tablespoonful of water for each egg. Use this mixture as you would soap. Rinse thoroughly.

K. G.: EAT PLENTY OF FRUITS. They are the natural laxatives. Drink orange juice for breakfast, eat stewed or raw fruits. If fresh fruits disturb your digestion, stew the fruits. Stewed fruit makes a most satisfying and healthful dessert.

Here's an Art Show with Children for Its Principal Feature

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

One of the most charming exhibitions which has been arranged in some time is that which opens today in the children's museum of the Art institute. On the walls are costume prints, each one including a mother and child or a group of children, all in color, dating back into the middle of the last century and following through the years to the fashions of today, from the collection of Mrs. Helen Benton Minnich of Minneapolis. It is an unusual idea and a unique exhibit.

The prints are as exquisite as more formal pictures. There are children engaged in every conceivable sport. A joyous group is riding in a goat wagon; others are playing with hoops; a great many are demurely escorting their mothers; a few are taking care of younger infants; some of the little girls are playing with dolls, and at least one of the little boys is astride a prancing, eye rolling stick horse.

One of the prints is by Boutet de Monvel. It is as charming as his illustrations for books. The others, though not signed, approach the beauty of color and delicacy of lines that his possesses. In every one there is a joyous and springlike spirit, due no doubt in great part to the unvarying presence of the younger generation. From the baby in leading straps to the full fledged miss of sixteen, they are all there—a galaxy of spotless, happy, good, immaculately clothed youth.

In a large case in the children's museum stands the Japanese doll, Yamaguchi, which was presented to the Art institute by the Empress of Japan. The empress sent enough dolls over to give one to each state and to a few of the larger cities to help cement the friendship of the Japanese with the Americans. "Miss Japan" stayed in Washington, but her sister, Yamaguchi, is equally lovely and she is standing here in all her beauty with her worldly goods about her. She has a dressing table and a sewing table, a parasol, lamps, mirror, a ceremonial tea set for grand parties, and a simpler one for every day, and at her feet are two symbolical dolls, round balls with features painted on them, called the emperor and empress dolls.

Cheery Philosophy of Life Acts Like Magic Beauty Aid

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Sometimes I think it is a mean way to count your blessings by measuring them against the other fellow's hard luck. But, then, being constituted as most of us are, it just seems that we can't appreciate our luck until we are face to face with the other fellow's tragedy.

You wonder what this has to do with beauty? Well, there's more ugliness in faces because of dissatisfaction with one's lot than from any other cause. It's trite and all that to advise letting some of your beauty come from within. Some of the persons who have expressed themselves loudly in print, and whose private lives bore up no such claim for their good looks, have made this kind of beauty advice sound altogether too incongruous. Nevertheless, it has its points.

I don't know any other magic lotion for keeping the corners of the mouth up nor for taking out that steely, hard look in the eye, nor for loosening up the set and hard jawline than a good philosophy about life and living. This must necessarily entail acknowledgment of one's blessings. If the philosophy can't be arrived at any other way, then comparison with what other folk are up against ought to develop one. It is not guaranteed to work in every case, of course. One has to have a receptive mind or the cure for drooping mouth corners won't work.

Perhaps it is a story that just came to me by mail from a friend in charge of a large group of orphan girls that inspired my beauty suggestion for today. Among the group is a girl of 15 who has had one leg amputated as the result of an accident.

Another girl of the same age has two imperfect legs withered and dangling from a body propelled by two crutches. Still another poor youngster has a parent who is more of a curse to the child than crutches or an amputated leg. And each of these girls has to work out a living for herself in a world that is not always as charitable as public bequests might indicate.

We do get so callous, all of us, about what life owes us. Always, it is a nice, cushy berth, too, we're after. Which is human enough, but hard on the looks if we get to thinking we are the only people in the world to whom favors should be distributed.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 13.—President and Mrs. Hoover have as their guest at the White House for the spring season, Mrs. Hoover's aunt, Mrs. E. L. Jones of California who arrived yesterday.

The Secretary of War and Mrs. P. J. Hurley have accepted the invitation for the supper dance in New York of the Newspaper Women's club on March 28 at Delmonico's. They will be the guests of honor.

Mrs. R. P. Lamont and Miss Gertrude Lamont, wife and daughter of the secretary of commerce are in New York for a ten days' visit and will not return here until some time next week.

Mrs. Jacob Baur of Chicago, who is at the Mayflower, had a few guests for dinner tonight and is leaving tomorrow for New York. Then she will return to Chicago. She is Republican national committeewoman from Illinois.

Mrs. James Couzens, wife of the senator from Detroit, canceled the luncheon she was giving today in her home on Woodland drive.

Mrs. Dorsey Richardson, granddaughter of the late Joseph G. Cannon, has sufficiently recovered from her serious illness of the last several months, to be able to drive out and to play bridge sometimes in the afternoons. Mrs. Le Seure, mother of Mrs. Richardson, will return here from Danville this month. She will join her daughter in the home of Miss Helen Cannon.

Baby ills and ailments seem twice as serious at night. A sudden cry may mean colic. Or a sudden attack of diarrhea—a condition it is always important to check quickly. How would you meet this emergency—tonight? Have you a bottle of Castoria ready? There is nothing that can take the place of this harmless but effective remedy for children; nothing that acts quite the same, or has quite the same comforting effect on them.

For the protection of your wee one—for your own peace of mind—keep this old, reliable preparation always on hand. But don't keep it just for emergencies; let it be an everyday aid. Its gentle influence will ease and soothe the infant who cannot sleep. Its mild regulation will help an older child whose tongue is coated because of sluggish bowels. All druggists have Castoria; the genuine bears Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper.

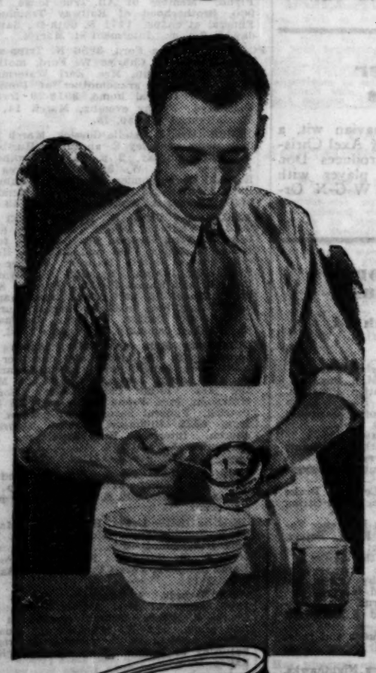
Tells Why Men Like SAVOY SALMON



"I discovered SAVOY FOODS before I found a wife, so decided I could get along without the wife," writes George Anderson, 1312 W. Congress Street, Chicago.

He wins $25 as a result of our offer to pay for each advertisement published—"written by folks who really eat and enjoy SAVOY FOODS."

"I just happened to see your Savoy ad," he continues, "and as I am working nights it will be four hours until I can get out to eat. Wish I hadn't discovered the ad. Just the name Savoy gives me an appetite.

"All Savoy Foods are my favorites, but I am a great lover of Salmon. If it isn't Savoy, it isn't Salmon. I've tried them all. There is no other as good, and no conscientious grocer will tell you there is. Delicious red meat that melts in your mouth. Very few bones, and free from grittiness so frequently found in inferior brands. Right from the can it's fit for a king. Sometimes I simply add a few drops of vinegar.

"When I have more time I break two eggs in a bowl, add a little flour and just a pinch of salt and pepper, stir until it becomes thickened, then mold the salmon into little patties, dip them in the batter and fry in hot grease. Try and beat that!"

HUCKINS RACKET WRAPPED AROUND CHEAP CIGARS

Witness Promised 52%, He Says.

Cedar Rapids, Ia., March 13.—[Special.]—A crowded courtroom sat with mouths agape here this afternoon as Emil [Dutch] Levsen of Springville, Ia., former big league ball player, told a jury in Judge Foellison's court how he happened to be inveigled into investing $300 in the 26 per cent interest scheme of George E. Huckins, on trial on an indictment charging him with obtaining money under false pretenses.

Levsen, the first witness for the state, provided the high light of the day's proceedings, and the crowd craned its collective neck to watch Huckins when the witness related the defendant had told him his business had a $30,000,000 turnover in 1929. Huckins eyed the witness closely and smiled when the amount of business was detailed.

Levsen said he was first approached by Huckins, who said he had learned the retired ball player had several thousand dollars to invest. Levsen said he hadn't that much, so Huckins asked him to invest $150, promising him 26 per cent interest.

Raised Interest to 52%.

Levsen was not impressed until Huckins raised the interest rate to 52 per cent, and asked him to invest $300.

Levsen said he finally agreed to invest $300 after Huckins told him there was no chance to lose and that his father, Elmer S. Huckins, owned $2,500,000 worth of Wisconsin property.

County Attorney Carl Hendrickson brought out that Huckins had told Levsen he was engaged in the wholesale cigar business, buying "cigar seconds," which the manufacturers could not dispose of and selling them to the trade. Levsen testified Huckins told him he had an eight time overturn of the business in 1929. Levsen's testimony was not shaken in the cross-examination.

Call Cigar Man.

C. S. Ogilvie of Des Moines, a representative of the General Cigar company, was the only other witness called called by the state, and his examination had not been concluded when court adjourned for the day.

The state hopes to prove by Ogilvie there is no demand for "cigar seconds," and that it would be impossible for any firm to do a $30,000,000 business in a year on such cigars.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: The Photographic Eye

Radio Fails to Live Up to Its Best Hours

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

It should have been a big and a satisfactory evening, but was it? So far as I could determine there were some tubes failing to function in the set of special programs.

Larry Larsen, organist, and Martin Romeiser, basso, W-G-N, 8 to 8:30, were both first rate, Mr. Larsen doing his numbers in the usual satisfactory, popular style, and Mr. Romeiser, who is new to me, revealing himself as a satisfactory singer.

The 9 to 9:30 dance programs here and there were just what all dance programs are of necessity.

The W-G-N Symphony orchestra program, Gaston du Moulin conducting, 9:30 to 10, introduced us to a work by August Soderman, presumably a section of "The Wedding of Ulfasa" operetta, which afforded me more satisfaction than any other thing heard on the air. The work of the bass soloist, Carl Friberg, was marred by a tendency to drift off pitch.

A pretentious advertising program was given from New York, locally through KYW, 9 to 10, with a first rate orchestra and star vocal soloists, John McCormack, famous tenor, being among them. The participating talent did excellently, Mr. McCormack's singing being especially glorious. But a woman's facetious attempts as a conversationalist threw a monkey wrench into the whole program.

PROF. FORBES, ILLINOIS' OLDEST EMPLOYE, DEAD

Urbana, Ill., March 13.—[Special.]—Prof. Stephen A. Forbes, chief of the Illinois state natural history survey, located at the University of Illinois, died in McKinley Memorial hospital this morning after a week's illness due to inflammation of the bladder.

He was the state's oldest employe and the only civil war veteran on the University of Illinois campus. He had been continuously in the service of the state for nearly 60 years. His wife died six weeks ago.

Funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon from the Smith Memorial hall on the Illinois campus.

Prof. Forbes was 86 years old. He was born on a farm in the southern part of Stephenson county. His great-grandfather was a soldier in the revolutionary war.

When he was 10 years old his father died and he had little formal education. But he learned to read French, Spanish and Italian, and took up the study of Greek during the civil war. His education was continued at Beloit academy and at Rush Medical college.

Gov. Cullom appointed Prof. Forbes to the position of state entomologist in 1882, and he served in this capacity until 1917, when the state natural history survey was organized. Since that time he has served as chief of the survey.

From 1875 to 1878 he was professor of zoölogy in the State Normal university at Bloomington. Moving to Urbana in 1884, he began his work at the University of Illinois, where he served as professor of zoölogy, professor of entomology, and dean of the college of science.

Four children, Mrs. Burton R. Herring of Chicago, Mrs. F. W. Scott of Boston, Mass., Winifred Forbes of Berkeley, Cal., and Ernest B. Forbes of Pennsylvania State college, survive.

AUTOMOBILES FOR SALE.

OVER 200 USED CARS MUST BE SACRIFICED

WE MUST MAKE ROOM FOR MORE "TRADE-INS" DUE TO OUR BIG NEW CAR BUSINESS.

Regardless of original cost, all the used cars in our showrooms, many of them just like new, have been drastically reduced in price so they will be disposed of at once.

This is the chance of a lifetime. 5 days free driving trial goes with every car sold.

PAIGE SEDAN. Model 6-66 seven-pass. We obtained it at a very favorable price, and give man's loss is your gain, so you can get this dandy car at a bargain. Has shutter front, two spare tires, mounted in fender wells, snubbers, spotlight, heater, etc. Only $695.

PACKARD PHAETON. A Highland Park owned and used this only for occasional driving, equipped with 4 whl. brakes, snubbers, spare tire, two driving lights, etc. Finished in handsome tan. $395.

STUDEBAKER SEDAN. This model is noted for its wonderful Big 6 performance. Car is in exceptionally good condition throughout. Finished, upholstery, and tires are practically 100%. And the equipment includes snubbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. $595.

PONTIAC COUPE. Late model that was taken in on consignment. The owner is going to spring and he told us to sell this car at a reasonable figure and apply the sales price against the new Studebaker purchase. In order to immediate sale we have marked this car at a very low figure. You'll find the mechanical condition, and motor are in splendid condition. Many valuable extras. Priced for $450.

STUDEBAKER VICTORIA. 1927 Commander 7 pass. Coupe. It's lacquered an attractive tan and has extensive whipcord upholstery. This Studebaker has been thoroughly checked over by our expert mechanics and pronounced in A-1 condition. Equipped with 4 whl. brakes, snubbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. We honestly believe this car cannot be duplicated any place else at our price of $750.

ELCAR 6 SEDAN. For distinguished appearance and sound mechanical condition this car is hard to beat. Has very low mileage and the equipment includes 4 whl. brakes, spare tire, bumpers, etc. Reduced from $800 to $495.

BUICK PHAETON. If it's an open car you want, this late model Master 6 is just the thing for you. It's a sporty car finished in combination of tan and gray. Has 5 wire wheels equipped with 4 whl. brakes, snubbers, windshield wings, bumpers, two spare tires, etc. Has handsome Spanish leather upholstery and brand new tires. Motor is in A-1 condition today $550.

HUDSON BROUGHAM. 1928 4 dr. 5 pass. The car was in storage for 15 mos., so it will give us satisfaction today. The upholstery, tires, and finish all appear absolutely unused. The equipment includes 4 whl. brakes, shutter front, shock absorbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. An exceptional value at $645.

NASH SEDAN. 1929 Spec. 6, five-pass. This car was only traded in because the owner needed a 7 pass. model. Today it's the last word for sparkling performance and beautiful appearance. The smart looking custom finish has not a mar on it and the equipment includes 4 whl. brakes and many valuable extras. Will not remain long at $795.
